The Junction Bulletin is to be moved to Harrisburg. The editors state that after a fair trial they have learned that Junction is not big enough to support two papers, and there being a demand for a paper at Harrisburg they have decided to make the change.

A recent reunion of the Ingram family at Monroe consisted of Grandma Ingram aged 78, six children, 23 grandchildren, and 17 great grandchildren; total 47. Also

J F Hard one of Portlands most prominent mining men, arrived here with his family and started for Bohemia Wednesday. Mr Hard will remain at the mines about two months superintending the development of some valuable copper property there. His property is situated on the south east slope of Grouse Mountain where we predict he and his family will enjoy a pleasant summer outing to say the least of it. Mr Hard has been among the most zealous workers in the interest of Bohemia for the past few years and we hope to see him succeed beyond his most sanguine expectations.
