Doings at the Capitol.

By Our Regular Washington Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27, 1901.

When President Roosevelt left Washington on Monday afternoon for New Haven he left behind him a sadly disgruntled politician in the person of Senator Platt of New York, who was nursing his wrath in his apartments at the Arlington hotel. When the Senator was in New York some weeks ago he discussed New York politics with the President, and while Mr. Roosevelt did not actually commit himself, he went home with the impression that he was to have things pretty much his own way. His most important request had been for the removal of Appraiser Wakeman, who is said to have shown too keen an appreciation of his duty to the government and far too small an appreciation of the allegiance due to the Republican dictator of New York. For the good of the machine discipline it was essential that Wakeman's scalp should dangle from the dictator's belt. Mr. Roosevelt had diplomatically promised to "look into the matter" and Mr. Platt supposed his object was accomplished.

On investigation, it is said, Mr. Roosevelt found nothing to warrant Mr. Wakeman's removal and consequently no change was made. Finally Senator Platt, notwithstanding the fact that he had previously intimated that Secretary Gage was not minding his own business in recommending Mr. George Whitehead for the appraisership, joined forces with the Secretary of the Treasury and wrote to the President endorsing Mr. Whitehead, and still he heard nothing from the President. Finally on last Sunday he came to Washington and again he got no satisfaction. That evening he wired to Governor Odell and early next morning Odell appeared in Washington and breakfasted with the President, but the President left for New Haven without giving the slightest satisfaction to either of the gentlemen, and it is understood that they held a consolation meeting at the Fifth Avenue hotel in New York on Tuesday evening.

Senator Platt has also found Secretary Gage a weak reed on which to lean, for the Secretary of the Treasury, whose attitude is, "I'll endorse anything if you won't ask for my resignation," has reconsidered his position and expressed himself with the President to the effect that he "guesses Wakeman is not so bad, after all!" The belief that Seth Low stands little likelihood of election does not add to Platt's influence, and the calm dignity with which Croker smiles and "keeps sayin' nothin'" is an additional aggravation to the New York boss.

While the Republicans are trying to make the best of the appointment of William Dudley Foulke to the Civil Service Commissionership, they are by no means pleased with the appointment. It is understood that Mr. Foulke exacted from the President, before accepting the appointment, a promise that he should have full sway under the law in the administration of the affairs of the commission, and that means that a good many of the prerogatives of Republican Congressmen will be cut off. The commission has, in the past, been obliged to wink at many things in order to secure as much freedom as they have had, but in the future, with Mr. Foulke as president of the commission, for it is stated that Mr. Proctor will resign the presidency in Mr. Foulke's favor, the commission promises to stand seriously in the way of many of the petty little patronage schemes concocted by Republican Congressmen.

Foul Deed Avenged

Czolgosz, the Assassin, Dies in the Electric Chair.

Met Fate With Composure

AUBURN, N. Y., Oct. 29.—Leon Czolgosz, the assassin of President McKinley, was electrocuted at 7:12:30.

Czolgosz passed a quite night. He slept nearly all night. He awoke finally at 4:45 o'clock.

He suffered a slight nervous attack late today, but remained sullen and stoic up to the time the prison clock at 10 o'clock. He refused to heed the words of the priests who came to urge spiritual preparation for death, and declined to embrace Roman Catholicism or to renounce anarchism. Czolgosz showed no strength of love for kin, nor did he turn to any of those higher considerations which ordinarily claim the thoughts of men occupying his position. He may have suffered untold torture, but outwardly he seemed sullen and indifferent. The state is not to surrender possession of his body, and by sundown it will have been secretly interred in ground controlled by the officials of Auburn Prison.

Waldeck Czolgosz, brother of the murderer, foreseeing endless difficulties and possibly angry demonstrations as the result of an attempt to give the body ordinary burial, heeded the advice of the Superintendent of State prisons Collins and Warden Mead, and formally relinquished all claim to it. He merely stipulated that at the close of the autopsy all parts of the body should be buried. All chance of an unhappy and unfortunate sequel to the executions, either in displays of popular contempt to the exhibition of ghastly relics, is therefore finally prevented. The plan of burning his clothing and papers will be carried out immediately after the execution.

"Something New Under The Sun"

All Doctors have tried to cure CATARRH by the use of powder, acid gases, inhalers and drugs in paste form. Their powders dry up the mucous membranes causing them to crack open and bleed. An old and experienced practitioner who has for many years made a close study and specialty of the treatment of CATARRH, has at last perfected a treatment which when faithfully used not only relieves a case, but permanently cures CATARRH by removing the cause, stopping the discharges, and curing all inflammation.
