Bee Exhibit at World's Fair.

Mayor Swink, of Rocky Ford, Colo., who has perhaps the largest bee plant in America, is going to take his bees to the World's Fair at St. Louis, and they will work there from the time the exposition opens until it closes. Mr. Swink is willing to construct of bee hives a miniature of the Colorado State Hosse at Denver. This will require about 640 hives, and in all about 5,500,000 bees will work.

A correspondent of the Boston Joursai declares that he heard of a young clergyman the other day who startled his hearers by beginning his address at a funeral thus: "While there has been something discovered to relieve the pain of having teeth extracted, there has been nothing discovered as yet to allay the pain of parting with friends by death.

Filth in Public Places.

A wiler declares that there is more filth, squalor and general slovenliness in public places and works, in streets, ares, river-sides, docks, roads and bridges in the United States than in any other country of the first or even the second rank. He says that in this respect we rank with Turkey rather than with England or Germany.

ECZEMA'S ITCH IS TORTURE.

Rezema is caused by an acid humor in the blood coming in contact with the kin and producing great redness and in-fammation; little pustular eruptions form and discharge a thin, sticky fluid, which dries and scales off; sometimes the skin is bland, dry and fissured. Eczema in any form is a tormenting, stubborn disease, and the itching and burning at times are dinost unbearable; the acid burning humor seems to ooze out and set the skin on fare. MACKAY MAUSOLEUM IN GREENWOO

IN A $300,000 MAUSOLEUM.

Where the Remains of the Late Millionaire Mackay Rest.

The Mackay mausoleum in Green wood Cemetery, Brooklyn, in which the body of the late millionaire now rests, was completed two years ago and is one of the most elaborate structures of the kind in the United States. Its designer was a Kentuckian and its cost was $300,000. A large granite cross surmounts the building, and at each corner of the roof there is a life size figure. The mosaic work of the marble floor and ceiling is elaborate, and the interior is in the form of a chapel, with an altar. Electric lights around the ceiling are lighted automatically by the opening of the bronze doors of the mausoleum. There are 22 crypts for bodies in the building.

The body of Mr. Mackay's son, John W. Mackay, Jr., who was killed in France in 1895, was placed in the mausoleum soon after its completion, and Closing the door behind them, they the body of Marcus that resolutely descented the stairs. has been resting in one of the crypts, pending the erection of a Daly family The body of Mr. Mackay was placed in the crypt directly under the altar in the mausoleum.

A Gold Cradle.

In 1720 a certain German Prince sent to Queen Ulrica Eleonora, of Sweden, a cradle of solid gold as a christening present for her child. The ship containing the gift was driven by a terrible gale on to the shores of the Island of Tjorn, where it became a wreck. The inhabitants of the island massacred the shipwrecked mariners and pillaged the ship, but the cradle. by a curious chain of circumstances was saved, and now lies buried in a lonely part of the island. The story having by some means revived, the present King of Sweden has offered 10,000 kronen-about £500-to whoever living should be a hero with his womdiscovers Queen Ulrica's cradle of gold. en folks.

The story of Mme. Januaschek's life is romantic. In her prime she was the queen of the European stage. Royal and imperial gifts were showered upon her. She numbered among her most ardent admirers the late Empress of Russia, the King of Bavaria, the King of Holland, Louis Napoleon and viceroys, ambassadors and noblemen by the score. All of these had paid their tribute to the tragedienne, and when she first came to the United States, in 1867, the Jewels she brought with her as presents from her devotees in Europe were worth $200,000. It has been said of her, so successful has been her stage career, that she hypnotized her

The Hermit Woman of Oban.

A woman has for some time past created considerable stir in Scotland by her not only free but apparently obstinate choice of a bermit's life in a cave, some sixteen miles from Oban. Despite the inclement weather, the woman, who is apparently about forty years old, steadily refuses to leave her cave, and, since the latter is below high-water mark, the landowner, the Marquis of Breadalbane, can not dislodge her. She has now strewn some dried bracken over the cave, but her plight during wet weather has been deplorable. The woman's name is Christina MacMaster. She speaks English and Gaelle.
