

Asthma

"One of my daughters had a terrible case of asthma. We tried almost everything, but without relief. We then tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and three and one-half bottles cured her."—Emma Jane Entsminger, Langsville, O.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral certainly cures many cases of asthma. And it cures bronchitis, hoarseness, weak lungs, whooping-cough, croup, winter coughs, night coughs, and hard colds.

Not To Be Kept.

"What do you expect to do about those promises you made?"

"I don't know," replied Senator Sorghum.

"Aren't you going to keep them?"

"Keep them?" he repeated absent-mindedly. "Well, my boy, you know I am not collecting souvenirs."

In cases where bronchitis has become chronic from want of proper treatment in the earlier stages, there is nothing so good as Dr. August Koenig's Hamburg Breast Tea, in conjunction with which is strongly advised the use of St. Jacobs Oil as an outward application along the front of the throat, from close up under the chin to well down to the top of the chest; the one remedy assists the other, and as intended, they work in complete unison. The wonderful penetrating power of St. Jacobs Oil enables it to reach the adhesion of foreign matter which lines the bronchial tubes and which makes breathing more and more difficult. As these adhesions become inflamed and enlarged, St. Jacobs Oil causes such adhesions to break away, making expectoration easier and more free. Dr. August Koenig's Hamburg Breast Tea, drank slowly and very hot, soothes and heals the parts, is comforting and quieting, stops the cough and relieves the breathing. This manner of treatment (and there is no other two remedies that will work together so successfully) reaches the difficulty from the outside and the inside at the same time. St. Jacobs Oil reaches the roots of the adhesion, and assists Dr. August Koenig's Hamburg Breast Tea in clearing them; the both remedies act in unison in healing and curing. The above remarks apply with equal force in cases of asthma, croup, whooping cough, enlarged tonsils and all bronchial affections. Every family should have St. Jacobs Oil and Dr. August Koenig's Hamburg Breast Tea always in the house in order that they may be promptly used in the first stages. Often the maladies develop with wonderful rapidity, and complications take place with equal suddenness.

The Unfortunate Maker of "Breaks."

A "break," in the ever-changing vernacular of social parlance, signifies some unfortunate chance remark that either refers to or suggests some subject best to be avoided. Everyone knows how often such "breaks," as they are called, occur, and how there seems to be some perverse fate that makes one go out of one's way to talk of topics that must necessarily suggest the one forbidden. If there is anyone at the table, for instance, who has some personal defect, the imp of perversity will probably cause the most tender-hearted person present to drag that particular misfortune into the conversation by alluding to some one who is similarly afflicted. Or if there is some family skeleton which must not be spoken of, it will always be brought forward by proxy.

"I am the most unfortunate individual in the world about such things," complained a young man recently. "It is simply impossible for me to steer clear of any unpleasant topic. It is like a lodestone to me, and I am drawn in its direction whether I will or not. The other day I went with a house party to the M—'s, who are all abnormally fat. 'Now, Bill,' I said to myself, 'remember, not one word about corpulence!' But in spite of all my efforts I managed to drag in the subject several times. To my horror, I heard myself mention Barnum's fat woman to Mrs. M—, speak of some one's death from fatty degeneration of the heart when conversing with Mr. M—, talk admiringly of Miss Slender's figure to Miss M—, and allude to the disadvantage of carrying weight to young M—, who nearly broke his heart at college because he grew too heavy to compete in the games. There was a perfect fatality about it, and I am sure they must have thought I did it all on purpose."

"It was worse with me," laughed the young woman to whom he was speaking. "I went to stay with some people whose prominent family trait was a remarkably large nose. Like you, I resolved beforehand never to mention the defect, but the prohibitive word so preyed on my mind that, on one dreadful, never-to-be-forgotten day, I said to my host at the table, 'Please give me some—nose!' I intended to ask for salt, but the awful word got ahead of it and slipped out of my mouth quite clear and distinct. I was too much horrified to pass it off, and grew red as a peony, feeling ready to cry, but Mr. A— burst out laughing. 'I know exactly how it happened, dear child,' he said, 'and you mustn't mind it a bit.'"—New York Tribune.

CITY HALL TOO SMALL.

London Civic Business Hampered by Lack of Room.

London has suddenly discovered that it ought to have a respectable home for its rulers. One of the queerest of all the topsy-turvy things about this center of the empire is that probably 3,000,000 of its inhabitants don't know where its "city hall" is. The building from which the world's metropolis is ruled is an insignificant affair, beside which the municipal headquarters of any American city of 30,000 inhabitants would look imposing. It is quite overshadowed by the back part of William Waldorf Astor's house, which adjoins it on the north. The building is too small to hold half of the departments of a concern that spends $30,000,000 a year and rejoices in gross debts of $250,000. The county council recently voted down a proposition to build a new city hall.

A Strange Funeral.

In Sussex, England, a strange funeral has lately taken place. Mr. Loder, an inhabitant of Slaugham, left directions that his coffin should be taken to the parish church in a simple farm wagon drawn by four farm horses. The wagon was draped with a purple pall and lined with evergreens. The bearers wore black smocks, now so rarely seen, even in the remotest parts of the country.
