Long & Bingham have installed a new electric light plant at their saw mill and Monday night the hum of their big buzz saw could be heard away along the wee hours of the night. The light plant is a good one and enables them to double the capacity of their mill which is already taxed to its full capacity to keep in hauling distance with its orders.

Oscar Vaughn, who has been working at the Leona saw mills the past two or three months, had the misfortune to fall, throwing his hand against the circular saw which nearly severed the two first fingers of his left hand, Tuesday morning. The wounds were temporarily bound up and he arrived down on the noon train when Dr Anderson dressed the wounded members and he is getting on very nicely.

The saw cut nearly through the entire hand between the thumb and fingers and it took seventeen stitches to replace the lacerated flesh torn away.
