The world goes up and the world goes down, and the sunshine follows the rain, but yesterdays' sneer and yesterdays' frown, can never come over again.

The only two foods which contain all the substances necessary to human life are said to be milk and the yolk of eggs. A man can live in health on these two foods.

The Postmaster General states in his annual report that fifty cars were burned or wrecked during the past year, and forty-eight mail trains and stages were robbed. There were 1621 postoffices burglarized.

Oakland City (Ind.) Enterprise: The boy who wants to be successful in business must remember that no boy can rise who slights his work, that this world owes no one a living unless he tries to earn it, that they should not expect pay for loafing, that they should choose a trade or business that they like best and for which they are fitted, but let that be honorable by all means.

Princeton Free Press: A large class of excellent people altogether fail to appreciate the value and importance of kind words and looks. And in consequence the opportunity to promote the happiness or well-being of others passes unimproved. It is too often assumed that the needy and distressed can be relieved and comforted only by the use of money, and those who are unable to exercise benevolence in that direction conclude that they have no duty in regard to the poor and the suffering.

You may be too poor in this world's goods to give your children all the things you would like for them to have. Straightened circumstances may require you to dress them in plain clothes, and to deny them many innocent pleasures. But, says an exchange, there is one thing you can always give them in full measure—parental love.

IRA MILLER'S HANDSOME FARM HOUSE DESTROYED BY FIRE. Tuesday morning the handsome farm house on the Ira Miller farm just north of town, was totally destroyed by fire.

It seems that Mr. Lathrop had arisen at about 5:30 and building up a good fire in the sitting room took his lantern and milk pails and went to the barn to perform his customary morning's work. While he was at the barn the stovepipe became overheated and set the ceiling on fire where the pipe went through the floor.

Mr. Lathrop had only been to the barn a few minutes when his lantern went out and upon returning to the house to relight it he discovered the fire; and it was fortunate for his family that the lantern went out as his children, five in number, were soundly sleeping in the room where the fire started.

Mr. Lathrop lost no time in removing his children to a place of safety and going back he endeavored to put the fire out, but was unsuccessful, the building with almost all its contents being destroyed. All of Geo. Spurr's household goods were stored in the building as was the greater portion of Ira Miller's furniture.

The loss to Mr. Lathrop, while small compared to what Mr. Miller loses, is quite serious, as he is a poor man and only saved a few pieces of furniture. The loss is estimated at about $6,000 with $2,000 insurance. The Miller home, which has been the scene of so many joyous festivities, will be missed by those familiar with the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Miller—New London (Wis.) Tribune.

THE STRANGE CASE OF DR. WETZEL.

Rev. David Wetzell, the pastor of the First Christian Church of Oakland, died at the residence of Dr. B. F. Clarke, 1009 Fulton street, San Francisco, at 11 o'clock Friday, February 15th.

It was supposed that death was caused by an operation which was performed by Dr. Clarke on Monday, but it seems that peritonitis was the cause.

Dr. Clarke says: "Mr. Wetzell came to me one week ago yesterday to prepare for the operation which I performed Monday morning at 10 o'clock. There was no shock whatever attending the operation and he came out of it feeling well as before I began. However, peritonitis set in and that is what caused his death on Friday night. I have performed a great many operations, but I never saw any one come out with more promise of recovery than Mr. Wetzell.

Roseburg Plaindealer: The election of Geo. W. McBride to succeed Senator Dolph meets with the hearty approval of the people of Oregon. As secretary of state Mr. McBride made many warm friends throughout the state, all of whom are highly elated over his election to the highest position within the gift of the people.

A. A. Davis of the Medford flouring mill has closed down for a few weeks, and in explanation says he pays more for wheat at his mill than is being paid at any other point in the U. S., which makes it impossible for him to ship flour to any outside market, making him dependent on the local consumption to keep the mill running.

AN INTERRUPTED INVOCATION

story of an Indigent Grandpa and a Young Tycoon.

An indulgent grandparent has long been celebrated, but the record of his fond foolishness with his grand-children has undoubtedly been broken by a venerable divine of this city. He was one of the old-fashioned parents, now almost obsolete, who brought up his own sons with an unrelaxing vigilance, never indulging them or himself with a single dereliction from strict rule.

Don't neglect that cough, it leads to consumption. One Minute Cough Cure possesses a double virtue. It cures a cough, and it cures a cold.

How FAST DO YOU LIVE?—The pace at which Americans live is admitted to be quite the reverse of tortoise-like, indeed, has become so rapid that an important question at the present time is, "How Long Can This Pace Last?" This question is answered by such well-known authorities as Edwin Gould, Charles Dana, Gibson, Judge J. F. Daly, William Wetmore Story, Prof. Edwin Checkley and Dr. Mary Walker, in Demorest's Magazine for March, and everyone should read what they say.

The climax of his tyranny was reached one morning at prayers. He knelt as usual, beside his grandfather, who after praying with his accustomed fervor and continuance, as he reached "that branch of Thy Zion with which we are connected," the rest of the family heard a shrill childish whisper break in upon his sonorous petition: "Grandpa," it said, in laboriously distinct syllables, "lend-me-your-knife!"

His strictly trained father, never permitted to move or speak during prayers, could not forbear to interrupt his own devotions sufficiently to look over and see his revered parent put his hand in his pocket, and still praying, unintermittedly, obediently produce the knife.

All was quiet at the little chair for a few minutes, and grandpa had gotten so far as "the heathen in the far-distant lands." "Hasten the time," he prayed earnestly, "when the earth shall be filled."

"Grandpa!" broke in the distinct whisper. "With the knowledge of the Lord," went on Grandpa, a little louder. "Grandpa," said the insistent whisper, "open it."

"As the waters cover the sea!" continued grandpa, obediently opening the knife.

The rest of the prayer may have been a profitable spiritual exercise for the old gentleman, but it was of very little benefit to his family—Outlook.

BIG PACIFIC COAST ADVANTAGE.

Here is something from the Tacoma News that is certainly encouraging for the farming interests of the Pacific Coast:

A good many public writers are calling attention to the condition of the American farmer, who has long held a place superior to that occupied by his class in any other country of the globe, but whom it is now claimed, is gradually passing away, as a representative.

The American farmer stands distinguished as one who owns the soil he tills, and consequently able to maintain an independence and style of living far above that possible to the European yeomanry.

He is, however, beginning to yield to the forces brought to bear upon him, the creation of the land lord and classes having made considerable progress.

The diminution of the owning farmer class, and the increase of tenant farmers cannot be viewed with complacency. The average tenant farmer has no future except one of increasing rent charges, and the sharper the competition for chances to earn a living the greater will be the rents exacted. This will produce an agricultural population made up of hired laborers, poor and illiterate. It has already manifested its injurious effect upon the schools and roads of the Middle States.

A few figures from the last census, in this connection are extremely interesting to the Pacific slope. In six New England States the number of owning farmers diminished 24,117 and tenant farmers increased 7,246. In the four Middle States owners decreased 42,304 and tenants increased 24,085, in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois the number of owning farmers decreased 48,864. A like proportional change occurred in the Southern and old Western States.

For the Pacific States the figures are: Increase in the number of owning farmers, 60,512, increase in number of tenant farmers, 20,350. The character of the agricultural element, is therefore vastly superior here than elsewhere.

The man who owns the land he tills has an abiding interest therein, which manifests itself in all those qualities making the good citizen, and which are logically inhabited in the person of one whose sole interest is to locate wherever he can and with the least labor keep body and soul together.

The one is a neighbor to be detested; the other too often falls victim; the knowledge of these facts must prompt the desirable homeseekers to locate with us.

Prof. Foster's last bulletin gave forecasts of the storm wave to cross the continent from 17 to 21st. The next disturbance will reach the Pacific coast about 23d, cross the Western mountains by the close of the 23rd, the great central valleys from 24th to 26th, and the Eastern states about the 27th.

This will be one of the most noted storms, being of less force, are not so carefully recorded.

The benefit to be derived from a good medicine in early spring is undoubted, but many people neglect taking any until the approach of warmer weather, when they will like a tender flower in a hot sun. Something must be done to purify the blood, overcome that tired feeling and give necessary strength.

Vacation is earnestly longed for, but many weeks, perhaps months, must elapse before rest can be indulged in. To impart strength, and to give a feeling of health and vigor throughout the system, there is nothing equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla. It seems perfectly adapted to overcome that prostration caused by change of season, climate or life, and while it tones and sustains the system, it purifies the blood.

An exchange says: Look out for an irrepressible female who is canvassing our neighboring cities selling pants buttons. She snaps one off the pants of a married man and he is compelled to buy a box in order to explain to his wife where he got that button. In some instances she will clip off two or three buttons and the victim is compelled to buy a box or go around holding up his pants. If you should happen to see a female peddler who had better fight shy, she may prove to be this pants button fiend.

Great and thoroughly reliable building-up medicine, nerve tonic, vitalizer and Blood Purifier

Before the people today, and which stands preeminently above all other medicines, is HOOD'S Sarsaparilla

It has won its hold upon the hearts of the people by its own absolute intrinsic merit. It is not what we say, but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does that tells the story:— Hood's Cures

Even when all other preparations and prescriptions fail. "Formerly every year I had an eruption on my body, and a kind of biting pain besides. I have had it now for four years every summer, but since I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I have had no trace of it. I have taken seven bottles." FRANK FOSTER, 3101 Black St., Denver, Colorado.

County News From Eugene Guard. Sheriff Johnson still continues to rake in the money at a pretty good rate.

Lane county has the right to operate free ferries. The university of Oregon takes the prize in the intercollegiate oratorical contest. We doubt not the prize was fairly won by the young lady who contested on behalf of the university.

The entire country west of the Rocky mountains is now represented in the senate by men favorable to silver, at least will be after March 4. The amendment to the Australian ballot law to allow the voter to designate his choice by a cross opposite the name is a good one. Yet unless the voter is very careful mistakes will occur, as the names are more closely printed and the cross might designate two names.

The Oregonian, bowed under a load of bitter disappointment, solaces itself with promises of revenge. Grief is generally short lived, and no one need expect otherwise than that the Oregonian will be fighting in the front rank of the republican party the next election.

Senator Dolph has a number of true and loyal friends in Lane county, yet we believe an overwhelming majority of the voters were opposed to his election and sustain the action of Senators McClung and Alley, and Representatives Baker and Hillegas in voting against him.

Those effing individuals who have been criticizing the Oregon legislature for not having done anything they promised, have not closely watched proceedings. One act alone will immortalize this legislature. It passed a bill to make the cost of horseshoeing a lien on the horse. Just think of this! Shoe your $5 plug with a $1.25 pair of shoes, fail to pay, and the horseshoer may stop your family carriage and recover the shoes with the plug attached. The people of the state, in breathless anxiety await the action of Governor Loring on this bill. He surely cannot veto it.

There are a number of lucky men in Oregon who are smiling over the unexpected, while there is a considerable larger number who suffer bitter disappointment. The balloting for senator took up all the time of the closing hours of the legislature and as a consequence no election was made of the different commissions, and the old members will retain their positions for two years.

The officers of railroad commissioners were most eagerly sought and it is said there were at least forty candidates who were anxious to sacrifice themselves for the benefit of the Southern Pacific railroad. Then there are the pilot and fish commissioners, food commissioner and game warden for which there were a number as applicants.

A belated tourist (says an exchange) was obliged to ask for a bed at a farmhouse, having wandered far from his hotel. On rising in the morning he found himself without tooth-powder. Looking about him, he espied on the mantel-piece a small box containing powder which he used. When he paid for his bed, he apologized to the farmer's wife for having used her tooth-powder. "Tooth-powder?" she queried: "we have none." Yes, my good woman. It was in a small round box on the mantel-piece. "That!" she screamed—"that was not tooth-powder! That was aunty! Aunty had been creamed."

Oregon people consume 25,000,000 pounds of sugar annually, for which $1,000,000 of her products are sent away in payment.—E. Oregonian: And all this sugar might be produced in Oregon and all this money retained to circulate among Oregon citizens.

PROFITABLE FEEDING WITH GROWING PIGS.

That there is a growing demand for pigs which give the greatest percentage of lean meat of the highest quality, rather than for the huge, overgrown, excessively fat swine, is the belief of Prof. Luther Foster of the Montana station.

Under the best system of feeding, the time to secure this is when the animal has just reached maturity, the muscles being fully developed, and when continued feeding would only add fat. The appetite, while the digestive and assimilative functions, is most active in the young animal, growing less so as maturity is reached, when the hog eats and digests only the food necessary to maintain heat and respiration and to replenish the waste of the body. In the young and active stage of growth the percentage of waste is much less than it is after maturity. With the young animal the risk is lessened; there are quicker returns from the investment, a better quality of meat, and consequently, greater profits. The food of support needed to supply the constant waste of the system and keep the animal without gain or loss, increases to a large item at maturity. There is a constant increase in the amount of food needed to produce a pound of live weight.
