

TRIED TO CAST OUT DEVILS.

A St. Louis Woman Created a Sensation at a "Holy Ghost" Meeting.

Wrought up to a high pitch of excitement and overcome by religious fervor, a strange woman created a wild disturbance at the Church of God Tuesday night, says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Believing that she was imbued with divine power, Even in the 16 years of his pontificate she attempted to cast out devils, and beuse the devils wouldn't go she attempthe has achieved more than it seemed ed to throw the other worshipers out.

> An English View of America. The announcement that an influential syndicate has been formed in Brixton to send an expeditionary force of pickpockets to the World's fair is a little belated. Gratifying to national pride it will be no doubt as showing that English spirit of enterprise still springs fresh and vigorous in the Brixtonian breast. But from the point of view of commercial speculation it is to be feared that the syndicate has been as completely whipped by American firms as have all previous exhibitions by the White City. Considering that the ashes of Christopher Columbus were all but stolen on the very opening day, and that the czar of Russia's jewels and the queen of Italy's lace have disappeared outright, we gravely doubt whether English competition will have much chance. Obviously native talent has every advantage of local knowledge, and though we could see the interest to confine their operations to the narrower sphere of Brixton.

A new system of smuggling was detected recently at Dover. A young man with a safety bicycle, the pneumatic tire of which was inflated with fine Turkish tobacco instead of air, attempted to inno-cently ride off on his wheel. The customs officer, with the usual suspicion of his class, detected the tobacco, and the "new sinuggler" was consequently detained.

EXTINCT MONSTERS.

Oh, had I lived in the good old days When the ichthyosaurus romped around When the elasmo aurus swam the bays And the sivatherium pawed the ground, Would I have spent my precious time At weaving golden thoughts in rhyme?

When the tinoceras snooped about And the pterodactyl flapped its wings, When the brontops with the warty shout Moseyed around for herbs and things, Would I have bothered myself o'ermuch About divine afflatus and such?

The dinotherium flourished then. The pterygotus lashed the scas, The rhamphorynchus prospered when The scaphognathus perched in trees, And every creature, wild or tame, Rejoiced in some rococo name.

Pause and ponder, who could write A triolet or roundelay, While a megatherium yawped all night And a hesperornis yawped all day, While, now and again, the bray sonorou Of Glyptodon asper swelled the chorus?
