

Cottage Grove Echo-Leader.

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY. E. P. THORP, - - EDITOR. SATURDAY, JUNE 29, - - 1895.

Indiana Farmer: We note the statement that a farmer sowed 250 pounds of salt to the acre the day after the corn was planted on a field that was alive with half-grown cut-worms, and not a single hill was cut by the worms. The salt dissolves so quickly and is taken up by the young root of the crop and thus the sap is salty and distasteful to either cut-worms or chinch bugs.

A LITTLE PARTICULAR.—An Astoria editor says: "We want a girl! Not a girl to love, to fill with ice cream soda water, to act as book-keeper, type-writer, or check drawer, nor one to wear bloomers and show us how to ride a bicycle, read Ibsen and 'Coin's Financial School,' or teach us lawn tennis or the Rye waltz or the sublimity of the sublime, but a plain everyday maiden, who has a face that would scorch the sun, a hand that would act as a stove lid, and a foot that would give the Goddess of Liberty odds and then beat her in the race for the prize as a Trilby model."

OREGON PRESS ASSOCIATION.—The ninth annual meeting of the Oregon Press Association is hereby called to meet in the city of Newport on Saturday, July 20th, 1895, at 8 o'clock p. m. All arrangements have been made for hotel accommodations for the press, and the general programme of the session is being prepared by the executive committee, E. L. E. White, chairman, Portland. Those desiring transportation should notify the president not later than July 1st. Association papers please copy this notice. J. R. BERGEL, President.

HONESTY THE BEST POLICY.—Men who are dishonest or careless about paying their debts usually inflict greater punishment on themselves than on their creditors. Physicians do not care to wait upon them in case of sickness, newspaper publishers do not spend much time in preparing their obituaries, and when they want offices their creditors are pretty sure that a man who will not deal justly with individuals will not be safe to trust in a public capacity. Such men rarely get good positions, and it is very difficult for them to obtain accommodations even in dire extremities. It does not pay to be dishonest.

OREGON BERRIES IN OMAHA.—The Omaha World-Herald of June 2d says: "Fourteen carloads of strawberries was the supply for the Omaha and local appetite last week. The next large supply is from Oregon, and though these will bring $3 a case, instead of $2 to $2.20, the Oregon fruit is so large and delicious that no trouble is expected in realizing the advance. Blackberries are reported a short crop. The strawberry season will doubtless be extended, and Omaha dealers think they can handle a carload a day as long as they can get the shipments."

We find the following gem going the rounds of the press without credit: "Remember this, young man, be careful what you say about a woman's character. Think how many years she has been building it, of the toils and privations endured, of wounds received, and let no suspicion follow her actions. The purity of the women is the salvation of the race, the hope of future greatness and the redemption of man. Wipe out her purity and man sinks beneath the wave of despair, without a star to guide his life into the channel of safety. Think, then, before you speak, and remember that any hog can root up the fairest flower that ever grew; so the vilest man can ruin the purest woman's character."

Corvallis Gazette: That there is still profit in sheep raising if properly attended to is proven conclusively by the experience of Geo. W. Smith, who called at this office yesterday and related the following experience: "I have a four-year-old ewe that a year ago last February gave birth to two lambs. Yesterday I sheared them and the combined weight of the three fleeces was 46 1/2 pounds, one of the lambs, a buck, sheared 22 pounds. This wool at 12 cents per pound is worth $5.58. The two yearling lambs are worth $3 per head or $6, in addition to which I have two spring lambs that will sell for at least $1 each. Thus, in sixteen months, from one ewe worth, say, $2.50, which I still have on hand as the original investment, I can show a profit of $13.58. The cost of feed for sheep was practically nothing, as they had run on pasture with the cow, and had received no special attention."

THE PLACER MINES OF THE BOHEMIA GOLD DISTRICT.

STEAMBOAT, June, 1895.

Ed. Echo-Leader: Even in this section of civilization, we constantly hear harrowing accounts of the destitution endured by the laboring classes in more thickly populated districts, and cannot help wondering why this is thus, when our own personal experience has proved that any industrious man who will follow our example and take up a placer mining claim on this creek, can not only earn a comfortable living but lay by something for a rainy day, and that without working more than half the hours usually exacted from a farm laborer. Perhaps a brief account of what I and my partner, Mr. Joe Petty, has accomplished since our first location on the creek, now 13 months ago, may interest your readers and show some of those who are continually whining about hard times, how they can make an easy, comfortable and independent subsistence if they only have the necessary energy to "take the good the God's provide." When we first located our claim in May 1894, we were financially embarrassed, or in plain terms hard up; having barely sufficient means to provide the necessary tools and food to enable us to cut a ditch and otherwise get our ground in working shape, which occupied us for about eight weeks, but since then everything has run as smoothly as a slice of watermelon slips down a nigger's throat, and we now regard want or actual poverty as a contingency too remote for contemplation. We have no bonanza and recognize that even under the most favorable circumstances many years must elapse before we can compete in the financial market with Gould, Vanderbilt or celebrities like, but on the other hand we have no dread of destitution. We have 1300 yards of ditch cut, a comfortable cabin, a good garden in which we raise the principal portion of our vegetables, and a claim from which we can, by working sixteen hours in a week, extract sufficient gold to supply us with groceries, clothing, tobacco etc., and better than all, we are our own master's work, fish, hunt, or be idle as we choose. No one sings out to us at 4 o'clock in the morning, "get up your lazy scamp and feed the horses" nor do we spend much time cogitating as to whether our employer will recompense our toil, with chips, feathers or an order to the store. Now there is ample room and opportunity for at least 100 men to do as well as I and my partner are doing on this creek. An inexperienced man may at first find it difficult to save the gold which for the most part is fine and associated with a heavy black sand, but we experience little difficulty in extracting the greater portion of it and impart all the information in our power to any sober and industrious man willing to try his fortune here. No one need expect to make a fortune, but there is a comfortable living and small wages for those who are willing to work with the prospect of something better always ahead, and if that is not preferable to tramping round the country and complaining of hard times, I'm no judge of brandy.

A large number of locations have been recently made by a company consisting of Elliott, Humphries, Johnson, Conn, Loussaint, Churchill and several others who I believe intend erecting some patent appliance for saving the gold, and as to how they will succeed I can offer no opinion but I do know that as I said before a comfortable living and small wages can be made by any industrious man who will simply follow our example and work his ground by the old process of ground sluicing the top dirt, and then putting the residue through boxes provided with ripples similar to ours. JOHN S. MANSFIELD.

The farmers of the Willamette Valley, and for that matter of the entire country should examine closely every scheme that is presented for their alleviation from the condition brought about by the depression in prices of farm products, and ascertain whether the farm proposed plan is calculated to bring them relief, or whether it will amount of receipts stored away in the capacious pockets of shippers, dealers and brokers, before they give their active efforts to push the schemes forward. Your common sense and measure by observation what will be results, and depend upon your own unconcernment rather than the gib words of fluent talkers.—Albany Herald.

The first carload of 1895 wheat shipped to St. Louis from Missouri this year sold at $1 per bushel. It was No. 2 red, and although of excellent quality, only yielded ten bushels per acre.

W. P. Bayes of 2405 Jones St., Omaha, Neb. says of Parks' Sure Cure:—"My wife has been constitutionally wrecked for years. Tried everything fruitlessly. My daughter's persuasion backed by his guarantee, induced me to buy a bottle of Parks' Sure Cure. The results are truly wonderful. Parks' Sure Cure for the Liver and Kidneys is a positive, specific for the diseases of women. Sold by J. A. Benson.

VERY ILL.—Portland Sun: "H. G. Mathies, editor of the Oregon Knight, is lying very low with Bright's disease at his home, 403 East Twelfth street. The chances of recovery are against him." The gentleman is a member of the executive committee of the Oregon Press Association and two weeks ago was with ye editor at Newport making arrangements for the meeting of the association. At that time he seemed to be in the very best of health. We hope for his recovery.—Eugene Guard.

Pig iron is going up. As goes pig, so goes the country.

OUR NEWS SERVICE.

By alliance with The United Press the Call has obtained a telegraphic news service which gives it a distinguished and pre-eminent place in the journalism of the Pacific Coast.

The main business of a newspaper is to obtain all the news, print it, publish it and circulate it among the people. This work the Call, with its two giant quadruplex presses and its full reports of the news gathered up in all parts of the world by the tireless energies of The United Press, can do more effectively and more completely than any other journal on this coast.

It is in no spirit of boasting we claim the best news service in the State and the equal of any in the Union. It is the simple statement of a fact too easily verified to be disputed. Even P. Howell, editor of the Atlanta Constitution and president of the Southern Associated Press in congratulating the Call upon its new alliance, said: "I know whereof I speak when I say the plan you have adopted is the only safe one, for the Southern Associated Press tried the one you have abandoned." Here, then, is the testimony of one of the most successful newspaper managers in the country, who, having tried both the rival association and The United Press, speaks with the authority derived from a full experience in asserting the superiority of the latter. Nor does his testimony stand alone. Charles A. Dana of the New York Sun; R. R. Soper, secretary of the New York State Associated Press; John H. Holmes, president of the New England Associated Press, and others in similar positions in different sections of the country give evidence essentially the same as that of Mr. Howell and amply sustain the claim that the news service we obtain by this alliance is superior to any other that can possibly be had.

It does not need the testimony of individuals, however, to prove to any intelligent mind the substantial truth of our claim, for that truth is made clear by the well-known facts of the history of the organization with which we are now allied. The United Press came into existence solely because other news-gathering associations were not giving full satisfaction to their patrons. Such great papers as the Herald, Sun, Tribune and Times of New York and leading journals in other parts of the country, from New England to the South, devised the plan of The United Press for the express purpose of getting a more satisfactory service. It has flourished and extended solely because it performed that which was expected of it, and now draws into alliance with itself the progressive and leading dailies of the Nation, for the reason that its superiority as a news-gatherer is everywhere recognized.

It must not be supposed The United Press confines its energies to this country. The managers in their offices in New York City are in close, constant and speedy communication with all the centers of European life and with the remote parts of the world in Asia, Africa and Australia. Its able correspondents are everywhere incessantly engaged in learning the truth of every event that occurs of general interest and telegraphing it to the central office, whence it is disseminated to papers in all sections of the Union. In a recent address, Mr. Dana estimated the expense of this elaborate system of news-gathering at about $5000 every day. This forms an enormous sum in the course of a year, and yet the readers of the Call get the full results of all this energy and cost served to them at the breakfast table every morning for a few cents. S. F. CALL.

Allen C. Slauson, writing from Washington, D. C., gives this one: A new and somewhat gay senator from the West—not the Pacific coast—did not bring his family to Washington last season. A few days ago he came back to this city accompanied by one of his daughters. After spending the day in seeing the town, he left her for some ladies in the parlor of the Arlington at night. She was a sweet, attractive girl, but it was not hard to tell she was new to the capital; and a kindly Washington woman, who was in the parlor, took occasion to draw her to one side and say in a confidential tone: "You must pardon me my dear; I don't know just how well you are acquainted with Senator (naming the young lady's father), but if I were you I would not go about with him so freely, for it is worth any woman's reputation to be seen in public with him in Washington."

Ventilation, not of the politician's sort, but the fresh air you need. Health and comfort often suffer for this kind of ventilation. Never sleep in a poorly ventilated room. You'll wake up unrefreshed, out of sorts, and bilious, perhaps you can't improve the ventilation, but you can take Simmons' Liver Regulator for that torpid liver, to keep it active against the ill effects of a close atmosphere which causes that languid feeling.

Pathetic Leave-Taking of a Youngster Bound for a Torrid Climate.

Lieu. V. was stationed, a few days ago, at Fort Sheridan. He was married and had a charming family of three boys of whom the eldest, Ernest, was a bright, red-headed little chap of 5. They had been at Fort Sheridan for a year or two when Lieu. V. was ordered to join a command in Texas. The matter was of course discussed often in the presence of Ernest, Lieu. V. advising his wife not to forget to pack such and such a thing, as it could not be had in Texas, and for this reason he took it into his head that Texas must be a terrible place to go to. The afternoon before the start was to be made Lieut. V. told his son:

"Come, Ernest, pack all your toys that you want, for tomorrow we leave for Texas." That night Mrs. V. gathered her little ones at her knee, as was her custom, to say their prayers. Ernest said his "Now I lay me," and they went on: "God bless my papa. God bless my mamma. God bless my brothers. God bless Ernest and make him a good boy," then he paused a moment and went on with deep and earnest feeling in his childish voice: "And, O, good-by, God, for we are going to Texas!"

Brother Stewart again in the Front. Brother Stewart of the Fossil Journal is responsible for the following program as a "starter" at the Oregon Press Association:

"The committee having in charge the matter of arrangements for the annual meeting of the Oregon Press Association, have returned from Newport, where they succeeded in getting the best possible terms from hotels and railroads for the editors and their families who are expected to attend the annual meeting, which they have set to commence Saturday evening, July 20. It is expected to organize Saturday evening, spend Sunday in religious exercises and be ready for secular business Monday. The following is the program for Sunday: 11 a. m. Sermon by Sec'y. Tozier from the text, "And Jacob kissed Rachel and lifted up his voice and wept" in which the secretary will give a lucid explanation of Jacob's performance, and present his two theories showing why Jacob wept when called upon to perform what Mr. Tozier himself has always considered a pleasant duty. His first theory is that Rachel, in her eagerness, must have bitten Jacob's lip; his second, that the fair damsel had been eating onions. 7 p. m. Debate, "Does the Bible prohibit the wearing of bloomers?" Affirmative, Chas. Nickell; Negative, Ira Campbell. Revs. J. R. N. Bell and Ed. Thorp will officiate as umpire and referee respectively. At intervals during the debate sacred solos will be sweetly sung by Leo Peterson and at the close a silver collection will be taken up by Alvah W. Patterson."

Coated, your throat dry, your eyes dull and inflamed and do you feel mean generally when you get up in the morning. Your liver and kidneys are not doing their duty. Why don't you take Park's Sure Cure. If it does not make you feel better it costs you nothing. It cures Bright's Disease, Diabetes and all Kidney complaints. Only guaranteed cure. Sold by J. A. Benson.

The World's Fair Tests showed no baking powder so pure or so great in leavening power as the Royal.

BROTHER AMIS IS HAPPY.

Brother Amis of the Broad-Axe, who attended the picnic at Silk creek, returned home very happy.

We take a few extracts from the article he wrote about his trip. "Well, we proceeded on our way and soon entered upon a stretch of country for the distance of some 7 or 8 miles where the valley widens out where lies a block of some of the finest farms to be met anywhere in Oregon. Here are hundreds of acres of wheat just heading; hop yards, orchards, vegetable gardens and splendid mansions, barns and out-houses, floral gardens, shrubbery and all the display that women of refinement and taste can devise, are seen on every hand. But we must get on up to Lemati, which by some kind of hocus poems—which no one can tell just how—is simply east of Cottage Grove, or that part of this lovely little city which lies on that side of the river.

Here we arrived at sun set, and put up our faithful horse, "Black Dick," at Hemenway Bros, livery stable, who cared for Dick in just such a manner as any gentleman who reads the Broad-axe will always treat a gentleman—horse like "Dick" Amis. Dick has served us in the bunch grass regions years ago, even away up in "The Gorge" in the side of Steins Mountains, and never failed. Some men have deceived us, and forfeited their word and honor, but Dick has not done so, and he stands higher to day in our estimation than he did the day we first became acquainted. And while we are passing this tribute upon that horse we want to say we don't see why Dick should not have green pastures and a place where the flies will not molest him when his horseship shall cease to feel the vicissitudes of this life.

We remained over night at the Sherwood hotel, and received every attention that the excellent landlord and his good lady could extend. We speak for this house the patronage of the public. No better house is to be found this side of Roseburg. Well now the town! What can we say of it, only this and nothing more: It is a great big town with stores, hotels, livery stables, machine shops, printing office, a mill, an excellent water system, a wide-awake, enterprising, well-behaved civil people. The town is well laid out, having wide, liberal streets and is destined, we think, to become the best city in size and importance that is between Eugene and Roseburg.

At Creswell you will be struck by the size and pretensions of the town. And we were not astonished that the people of this town have had an ambition to make it the county seat instead of Cottage Grove, in the event this county is ever divided, as Cottage Grove has a sort of an inclination to have done some day. But we warn Cottage Grove, if ever they succeed in dividing the county, for Creswell has the seat if she gets the county to put it on.

We were struck with the evidences of business and push which we saw at Creswell during our three hours stay there. There are two full stores at this place and a drug store. The two merchants, Dr. Scarbrough and J. H. Whiteaker were very busy most of the time we were there—busy out on the grass in front of Whiteaker's store—busy at a game of Chess. It appears from reports that those gentlemen have had a set contest like Henry Clay and Lord Somebody of England, who played across the ocean by letter, which ended after a three years hard contest (only Whiteaker and Scarbrough don't play by letter but by hand) and is to be terminated in the indefinite future.

This by way of depression. We stopped over night on our return with Bearne Veatch and his wife in Cottage Grove, and was entertained most royally after the old school style. It does one good to meet one of those old Oregon pioneers like Mr. Veatch and family. We arrived home Sunday. And today we are in our sanctum on our easy chair (a three legged stool) indulging in the humdrum luxury of trying to supply the everlastingly demand of our readers for something both pleasing and instructive. And here comes our "devil" with the usual demand for "copy"—and here it is.

Big Sale.—Salem Journal: It is reported that Ben Cook, of Oregon Land Co., has about effected the sale of the 60 acre Cottle fruit farm, in the Liberty neighborhood, to an eastern syndicate, at the price of $300 an acre. That would be a pretty snug sum for a 4-year-old fruit tract. But it is one of the best ones in the country, and in this valley.
