

Frequent and constant advertising brought me all I own—Alexander T. Stewart.

The United States still has nearly a thousand million acres of land for sale. Leaving out Alaska the Government land embraces 509,983,495 acres. A war with England would add British America, but the people of this country are not anxious for war nor greedy for more territory.

An article on the twentieth century, Mr. Dewey says that electricity will be applied to conduct all transportation by land and sea and to run all machinery on the land. The Doctor has looked into this subject as deeply as anyone, and his opinion is decidedly that of a practical man.

If John Bull doesn't want his lion's tail twisted he should avoid throwing it in people's faces. Nobody wants to injure the king of his menagerie, they are even willing to admit "he is a noble beast," but no circus rights will be granted on this side of the ocean. John has more territory on this side now than he can take care of.

Gov. Bradley is an excellent and popular man, but the way for him to place himself on the Presidential track is to stick closely to his duties for the next four years and give Kentucky the best government it ever had. His time will come, if it ever comes, in 1900 or 1904. He is not in the race this year, and it will be useless for his friends to attempt to put him in.

S. H. Hale, in an article prepared by him for the Report of the U. S. Pomologist, states that twenty or more years ago there was hardly an acre of commercial peach orchard in Connecticut, while now each year from the middle of August to October that state not only has her own supply of peaches, but thousands of baskets to send to less fortunate neighbors.

Rural Northwest: The township of New Amsterdam, on the Ohio river in the state of Indiana, this year grew 60,000 barrels of choice apples and 40,000 barrels of common apples, which brought into the neighborhood $65,000, or an average of 65 cents per barrel. Even this low is a local grower estimates that the producers realized a net profit of from ten to 40 cents per barrel.

When the civil war opened the wealth of this country was estimated at $16,000,000,000. In 1890 it had reached $65,000,000,000, and in case of a foreign war we should now be an undivided people. The most remarkable fact connected with these figures is that the United States accumulated three times as much wealth during the thirty years ending with 1890 as in the 250 years preceding 1860.

In the year 1793 President Washington wrote to his old friend Lord Buchan: "I believe it is the sincere wish of United America to have nothing to do with political intrigues, or the squabbles of European nations." This has always been the disposition of Americans, and it is only fair to ask that Europe shall not drag America into its squabbles by the open seizure of its territory, or by a sneaking encroachment such as England has been guilty of along the Venezuela boundary.

The Coos Bay Creamery Association paid in actual cash to its milk producers during 1895, $13,500, and some further contributions are yet to be made. Notwithstanding the low price which butter has brought this season, the persons sending milk to the creamery have received as much money as they did in 1894, the increase in the amount of milk making up the difference. This does not include the butter and cheese sold the milk producers in exchange for milk.

What His Prunes Brought. D. C. Rose, of Benton county, has received a letter from his brother, now in the East, and along with it returns from a shipment of dried prunes recently shipped to St. Louis. The fruit after being 26 days en route, was sold promptly on arrival at St. Louis at 7 cents per pound, and the letter declares that if received before the holidays, 8 cents per pound would have been realized. As the shipment was only a partial carload, the freight rate was $2.20 per 100 pounds instead of $1.20, as would have been the case if there had been a full carload. As it is, Mr. Rose receives net for his prunes 4 cents per pound, and shipped in carload lot a week earlier, his net profit would have been 6 cents, a result that will prompt him to ship his fruit East hereafter. Three cents was the best price offered in the home market when his fruit was shipped, Oregonian.

Taxes are paid on $1,551,809 in money in Oregon according to the figures in the possession of the State Board of Equalization. There are several banks in Portland, each of which has more than that amount on deposit. This shows that the money account is not given in. This is a great injustice to the few men who do give in their money account. One man is no more under obligations to pay on money than another.

The total value of all property in the state is given at $158,819,640. Multnomah is the wealthiest county in the state, her valuation being placed at $56,663,109. Curry is the poorest, being assessed at $644,958. Linn county is third in wealth.

A sudden and unprecedented demand for cents has lately sprung up in various parts of the country, and the Philadelphia Mint has been turning out the bright copper coins at a rate unprecedented in the history of the establishment. Nine presses, with a capacity of $500 worth of pennies an hour, have been busy for weeks filling the demands. The reason of the demand is that in Philadelphia an eight cent exchange fare has been established by the street car railroads. In Detroit a three-cent fare has been established on the street railroads. Changes of a similar character have also been made in other cities. Bargain-counter prices with odd cents have something to do with the demands, too.

Electric Bitters. Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed, when the languid exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison, Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness, yield to Electric Bitters. 50c. and $1.00 per bottle at J. A. Benson's Drug Store.

There are some people who are never positive in anything. It is always, "I don't know," or "I guess so." There is a world of such people, and it is refreshing sometimes to hear a person speak as one having convictions, like Mr. Chas. F. Snyder, of Bangor, Pa. He writes: "I can heartily recommend Simm on's Liver Regulator to all who are troubled with Dyspepsia or Liver Complaint."

A MONEY MAKER. 80 acres of up-land, rich soil, and all plow, but not cleared, and balance easily cleared, half dozen fine springs and a stream of mountain water with mountain trout running through the land, the whole year. Some specially fine garden and grain land and the entire 80 acres magnificent fruit land—near station on S. P. Railroad in Lane county. 600 healthy, rapid growing pruned trees, bearing nicely and are good for $1000 of fruit this year. Special bargain to one having something over $1000. If you want an IDEAL HOME and mean business, call on or address E. P. Thorp, LEADER office, Cottage Grove, Or.

The Eugene Guard says: "In 1885 Oregon farmers did not near supply the people of the state with all the hog products consumed, and it is strange to note from statistics at hand that, though the population of the state is much greater than in 1885, the number of hogs has not increased, but rather diminished. In Lane county the population has increased fully fifty per cent since 1885, while the number of hogs in the county has decreased from 21,073, in 1885 to 16,351 in 1895. With all the cry encouraging home production, this is an important line in which we are falling behind. Why this is so hard to understand. Oregon can raise as fine hogs as can be raised anywhere, and we can see no reason why they cannot be raised as cheaply here as in any state in the Union. One of our most prosperous farmers informs us that he has made more clear money on his potatoes and hogs than on any other products of his farm, and he has given his attention to diversity in farming as closely as a man can. In addition to this, numerous incidents have been called to the attention of the press of our farmers showing the remarkable growth of their hogs, the exact cost of the hog from its birth to the time of marketing and the profit realized, all of which have tended to show a handsome profit for the care and expense of production. It has been demonstrated that hog raising in Oregon is profitable, that there is a demand for the products far in excess of the home supply, yet in the past ten years the number of hogs in Lane county has decreased over 10 per cent, while the population of the county has increased 50 per cent."

HE WALKETH IN THE RUTS.

The reason for the non-success of many farmers is tersely told in the following article from the pen of the late A. L. Crosby, of Cantonville, Md., in 1889, in the American Farmer. Notwithstanding the great progress that has been made in late years in all branches of agriculture, we fear there are yet some farmers plodding in some of the old-time ruts the writer briefly names as follows.

He ploweth his ground with a cast-iron plow, which is like unto the one his grandfather used.

He harroweth with the straight-toothed harrow, and when you tell him the papers say that the disc and the spring-toothed harrows are the best he curlith up his lips with scorn and sayeth that he has forgotten more about farming than the papers ever knew.

He milkeh the cow that is big, for lo, when he selleth her he getteth much more money for the beef.

He considereth not the cost of feeding the beef for many years, nor the fact that in all those years the big cow maketh not so much as 150 pounds of butter in the space of one year.

He wintereth his calves at the straw stack, and in the spring their bellies are like unto a pot and their backs have the curve that is called sway.

He goeth to milk the cow and he telleth her in an exceeding loud voice to back her leg and he thumpeth her on the back with the milking stool to emphasize his remark.

He getteth some manure in the pail while milking, but he straineth it all out through an old stocking strainer.

He setteth his milk in crocks, for did not his grandmother do the same?

He churneth with a dash churn and his conversation is full of dashes while he turneth the crank.

He gathereth the butter in a lump in the churn and refuseth to try the granular method.

He wrappeth his butter in pieces of his old biled shirts and tradeth it off for groceries, which he bringeth home in a jug.

He feedeth his cows on corn, and giveth you to understand that is the right kind of feed for all kinds of stock.

He keepeth scrub stock and believeth not in pedigree.

He feedeth his brood sows on corn, and when they eat up their pigs he sayeth luck is against him again.

He driveth his cows with a dog to save time and loatheth half a day at the corner store talking politics.

He planteth his potatoes in the dark of the moon and the potato bug eateth them up in the light of the sun.

He goeth to the fair and spendeth many shillies at the side shows, but he regardeth not the live stock exhibited because it is owned by rich men and costs more than it is worth.

He buyeth Bohemian oats at $10 per bushel because the seller engageth to give him $8 per bushel for all he can raise, and giveth him the bond of the company to that effect.

He giveth one of his sons a colt and when it is grown he selleth it and he spendeth the money.

His hens roost on the wagons and he getteth no eggs until late in the spring.

He enteth his grass when it is dead ripe, for by so doing he recedeth his meadows.

He sitteth down by the fire and raileth at his sons because they do not do more work.

He taketh the horse and buggy and driveth where he listeth, but when any one else wants to drive the horse can't be spared.

If suffering with piles, it will interest you to know that Dr. Witt's Witch Hazel Salve will cure them. This medicine is a specific for all complaints of this character, and if instructions (which are simple) are carried out, a cure will result. We have tested this in numerous cases, and always with like results. It never fails. J. P. Currin.

IMPORTANT.—Don't you dare to refuse a silver coin no matter how badly it is worn by long circulation. If you do you may get into trouble. The United States supreme court, by a decision handed down this week, settled a case that has been contested through all the courts by deciding that a man who was put off a train because a conductor refused a silver dime that was very much worn was entitled $315 and costs which had been awarded him by the New Jersey courts. Chief Justice Fuller in disposing of the case said that silver coins were a legal tender as long as they bore the semblance of the coin. Paste that in your hat.

MORE ASS THAN LYON.

The destructive ability of a bull in a china shop has passed into a proverb. The world has evidence of the insane folly of John Bull in what is practically a china shop of his own.

The United States are a debtor nation. They could not have carried forward the tremendous enterprises of all kinds which have marked their progress were they not a borrower says the Chicago Chronicle. They have borrowed largely from the accumulated capital of Great Britain, a nation that having been much wiser than the United States in the matter of trade relations with the world has become much richer than the United States.

John Bull is very much like an Indian upon the plains, who thinks to accomplish a great result by stampeding horses. The Indian, however, is endeavoring to stampede somebody else's horses, while John Bull is frightening horses of his own.

The raid on the New York Stock Exchange upon all lines of American securities is a raid started in Lombard street. Downing street tipped the wink to Lombard, and Lombard, understanding that the old story wants to stampede Americans and frighten them on the side of the almighty dollar, bears down prices and the loser is—nobody but John Bull himself.

The underheads of Great Britain seem to have forgotten one important fact, namely, that in recent years British money has been placed alone nor in its lines of transportation, but also in large lines of industrial properties not heretofore ventured upon by such capital.

Take Chicago for instance. Who owns the stock yards in Chicago? British capitalists. Who owns the major number of grain elevators? British capitalists. Who have made consolidations of certain local packing interests? British capitalists. Who owns a large number of Chicago breweries? British capitalists.

It does not seem to have occurred to these gentlemen on the other side of the water who think to play smart with America that British property lies right here subject in the event of hostilities to seizure.

Appearances indicate that British capital in banking interests in this country contributed to the utmost of its ability to promote John Bull's panic in Wall street. It is entirely within the power of the United States to order branches of foreign banks out of the country. They ought to go themselves if they show such hostility to the people and the institutions of the country that has given them profitable support.

Just as soon as the congress of the United States puts an end to the means whereby the treasury of the United States can be called upon for gold and notes used in procuring the gold can be had anew from the treasury for the same purpose just that soon John Bull will discover that he has been more of an ass than a lion in his dealings with America, and that in any event he has by his attempt at a panic in Wall street hurt his own pocket more than the pocket of anyone else.

Marvelous Results. From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at River Junction she was brought down with Terrific paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little intermission and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottle free at J. A. Benson's Drug Store. Regular size 50c., and $1.00.

The statutes of Indiana make it unlawful for a public officer to cast his vote for the purpose of selling or leasing property owned by himself, or in which he has interests, to the state, county or city for public use.

Wife—Here's an account of an man who shot himself rather than suffer the pangs of indigestion. Husband—The fool! Why didn't he take Dr. Witt's Little Early Risers? I used to suffer as bad as he did before I commenced taking these little pills. J. P. Currin.

why?

Why wear wool? To keep out cold? No. To keep in heat.

If the body is supplied with plenty of fresh air—oxygen—and proper food, it will generate sufficient warmth to protect you on the coldest day—Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, is the best warmth-food. Thin people, people with poor blood who are easily shaken by a cold wind take Scott's Emulsion and it makes good blood. Improves the appetite, increases flesh, furnishes bodily warmth, and prevents the ill results from colds, coughs, and exposures.

SCOTT'S EMULSION has been endorsed by the medical profession for twenty years. (Ask your doctor.) This is because it is always palatable—always uniform—always certain. It is the "Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites." Put up in 10 and 25 cent sizes. The small size is best to carry about to help your help.

Living is dear in Berlin. There, of course, is a dearer than it is cheaper than in the states. With careful management a man could, for instance, drink himself to death cheaper than in America. If a person isn't going far he can get a ride on a horse car for two and one-half cents, but he must wait for a car with a seat that is vacant, or otherwise two persons besides the conductor are standing on the platform. That is to say only, as many as can be comfortably seated (a state number) are admitted, and two passengers in addition are allowed on the rear platform. This is all very nice in theory, but after you've seen three or four "full cars pass by, and observe the complacent smiles of the fortunate passengers, you'll begin to sigh for cars on the American plan, where it is catch on as catch can.

Down with Lynchings. It is rather idle for agitators to declaim about the increasing power of court in this country, so long as lawlessness prevails to such an extent. This country is altogether too much given to mob law and lynching and the courts must be made stronger and more effective, the end that the disgrace of lynch law and rioting and plunder in open day shall be wiped out. In no other civilized country does mob law so extensively prevail as in America, and it is on both sides of Mason and Dixon's line.

THE NAME OF THE NEXT
PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES WILL BE ANNOUNCED IN
THE NEW YORK WEEKLY TRIBUNE
OF NOVEMBER 4th, 1896.
Public interest will steadily increase, and the question how the man whose votes turned the scale at the last election are satisfied with the results under the administration they elected, will make the campaign the most intensely exciting in the history of the country.
The New York Weekly Tribune,
the leading Republican family newspaper of the United States, will publish all the political news of the day, interesting to every American citizen regardless of party affiliations.
Also general news in attractive form, foreign correspondence covering the news of the world, an agricultural department second to none in the country, market reports which are recognized authority, fascinating short stories, complete in each number, the cream of the humorous papers, foreign descriptions of woman's attire, with a varied and attractive department of non-school interest. The "New York Weekly Tribune" is an ideal family paper, with a circulation larger than that of any other weekly publication in the country issued from the office of a daily. Large changes are being made in its details, tending to give it greater life and variety, and especially more interest to the women and young people of the household.
