FRENCH CELEBRITIES—PART II. by Jules Claretie and others, Translated by Francis W. Potter.—This is Volume II. of the series of brief biographical sketches of the most prominent of modern Frenchmen. The many political crises which have taken place in France during the last twenty years, together with their subtle influence on secular and religious thought, have combined to draw to the front men who have wielded a determining influence in remolding an Empire into a Republic. Among these, Jules Ferry, George Clemenceau, Ernest Rena, Henri Rochefort, Challemeil-Lacour, Jules Simon, Erehmann-Chatrian, Paul Bert, and Alphonse Daudet, are worthy examples. To understand their career is almost essential to an intelligent understanding of the comments of the French diplomacy and social life. Written in clear, crisp, popular manner, the present volume supplies what no "history" has yet recorded, and what to Americans is quite unfamiliar. Published in Funk & Wagnalls' Standard Library, No. 102. Price 15 cents.

No intelligent reader can fail to be interested in the contents of the North American Review for December. The question of the telegraph has the place of honor in the number, Gardiner G. Hubbard pointing out the great advantages that would result from the proposed "Government Control of the Telegraph," and showing from the experience of several European countries the benefits to be derived from the incorporation of the telegraphic with the postal service, Prof J. Laurence Laughlin, of Harvard University, shows the "Evils of the Sub-Treasury System," in its absorbing and withholding from circulation the specie that is constantly needed to insure stability in the world of finance. "The Day of Judgment," by Gail Hamilton, is a caustic review of the less amiable moral traits of Thomas Carlyle. Henry George writes of "Overproduction," an idea which he declares to be preposterous, unless more wealth is produced than is wanted. Gen. W. B. Franklin sets forth the views of naval and military experts as to what is absolutely needed, in the way of organization, forts, ships and war material to insure the "National Defense." An article on "Railroad and Public Time," by Prof. Leonard Waldo, of the Yale College observatory, explains the system of uniform time standards now being introduced into the railroad service of the United States. Finally, there is a discussion of the question of "Morality without Religion," by F. A. Kider and Prof. A. A. Hodge, of Princeton College. Published at 30 Lafayette Place, New York, and for sale by booksellers generally.

A Bonanza Mine of health is to be found in Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription," to the merits of which as a remedy for female weakness and kindred affections thousands testify.
