

Dallas loses community leader

By Emily Mentzer

DALLAS — Buck Buchanan, longtime champion of Dallas, died on Feb. 12. Buck, 92, was a real contributor to the community, said Robert Wilson, friend and fellow businessman.

"He was highly committed to the prosperity of the downtown area," Wilson added. "He made a big mark on Dallas."

Buck opened the Ben Franklin store in Dallas and another in Monmouth.

"I moved to Dallas to open a business, Coast to Coast, and moved into the store that Buck had moved out of," said Clint Branum. "He was very helpful to me to get me going."

Buchanan shared his perspective of business — and of Dallas in particular — with others to increase their success as well as his own.

"He seemed to understand the town real well," he said.

When Safeway announced plans to move, it was Buck who made an effort to keep them downtown, Branum said.

"He worked real hard on working with Safeway," he said. "He said if they would stay downtown, he would try to find them a whole city block. Of course he couldn't find a whole city block downtown, but he did make an effort to hold onto an anchor for downtown. He tried and nobody else did."

Buck was honored statewide for his efforts as a businessman, earning the Oregon Retailer of the Year in 1982.

Buchanan touched more than downtown.

Buchanan was involved in Dallas Rotary and Breakfast in the Park. He served on Dallas School Board, worked with Kids Inc., and the area coordinator for the Muscular Dystrophy Association. Buck and his wife, Donna, hosted several Rotary exchange students.

He was one of the founders of Dallas Crazy Day, what is now known as Summerfest. He also was part of the group that founded Kids Inc.

"Buck was a fixture," Dallas Mayor Brian Dalton said. Buchanan was honored with both the Junior First Citizen and the First Citizen awards. He helped get the stadium built at Dallas High School, Dalton said.

"He meant a lot to Dallas," he said. "He was a leader in the community and worked very hard. He was a real energetic kind of person with a real civic spirit. We've lost a lot of that."

"There was no one more civic-minded than Buck." Buchanan was a member of the Dallas United Methodist Church. His wife, Donna, preceded him in death.

A celebration of life will be at 11 a.m. on Monday at Trinity Lutheran Church in Dallas.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Monmouth renews liquor licenses

MONMOUTH — The Monmouth City Council decided to recommend the Oregon Liquor License Commission renew the licenses at establishments in town.

Sgt. Isaiah Haines said three of the 16 establishments that sell liquor — for either on-premises consumption or off-premises — had calls for service relating to alcohol.

Of those three, Main Street Pub and Eatery had 35 incidents including multiple arrests for driving under the influence of intoxicants in which the person admitted to consuming alcohol at the pub. Other calls included intoxicated persons, thefts, disorderly conduct, trespass, assault and prohibited exposure.

Haines said with the additional traffic at the pub, the number of calls was not out of the ordinary.

"It's not that we're always comfortable with it, but this has been what it's been for the last several years," he said. "I think this is because it's a busy establishment, and it's pretty much the only place to go."

Seed library kicks off on Saturday

MONMOUTH — The OSU Extension Master Gardeners will present a starting seeds seminar at the Monmouth Public Library at 11 a.m. on Saturday.

The free presentation will include a hands-on activity of planting seeds to take home.

"The first year of our seed library was very successful," Librarian Krist Obrist said. "We gave out over 3,200 packets of seeds, both vegetable and flower seeds."

At Saturday's event, participants may learn about the program and some of the classes that will be offered throughout the year. Door prizes and light refreshments will be available.

"We will be announcing a pumpkin growing contest as well as information about this year's garden photo contest," Obrist said.

The seed lending library allows adults to receive up to five seed packets a day, no library card required.

HART to host open house Saturday

INDEPENDENCE — Horses Adaptive Riding and Therapy will host an open house from 1 to 4 p.m. on Saturday at its new facility at 6665 Rickreall Road, Independence.

People will be able to tour the new facility, meet the therapy horses, learn about adaptive riding programs, watch demonstrations with riders and enjoy refreshments.

For more information, see the organization on Facebook.

Indy council approves liquor licenses

INDEPENDENCE — The Independence City Council approved recommendations to renew liquor licenses for nine full on-premises sales, six limited on-premises sales and nine off-premises sales establishments.

Councilors had a few questions regarding Chase Bar and Grill, which had seven alcohol-related calls to police in the last year, including one person who was charged with driving under the influence of intoxicants and admitted to drinking at that establishment.

Councilor Forrest Peck asked what officers were doing to curb incidents at Chase.

Chief Bob Mason said they will meet with the management and owners of the restaurant.

"This is the second year in a row that shows there are problems there, so we want to make sure we stay on top of it." The council requested a verbal update in three months.

Casa seeks more volunteers

By Jolene Guzman

POLK COUNTY — Volunteers are the backbone of Casa of Polk County, and the foster child advocacy group is looking for more to join its ranks.

Casa (Court-Appointed Special Advocates) is holding its volunteer orientation on March 4 at the Polk County Courthouse conference room, 850 Main St., Dallas, from 5 to 6 p.m.

Orientation introduces potential volunteers to what the program does before the required 10-week training class begins March 18.

When: March 4 at 5 p.m.
Where: Polk County Courthouse conference room, 850 Main St., Dallas.
For more information: 503-623-8473.

Director Katey Axtell is hoping to graduate 12 "casas" from the class, which will keep the volunteer levels steady and the case load of each one manageable.

Casa pairs trained volunteers with abused and neglected children who have been removed from their homes. The volunteers advocate on behalf of children as they move through the court system.

It's not easy work, said Mike Barnett, assistant director, but that shouldn't stop people from attending orientation.

"We would love to have a full class," he said. "Anyone who is interested in finding out more about the program, come to the orientation to see if it's for them."

Axtell said there are more ways to contribute, including helping coordinate events, writing grants, working in the office and serving on the board of directors. To meet national standards, the organization needs more board members who are not advocates, she added.

Polk County's program has grown since 2013 and now has a new office in Dallas and 54 casas.

Axtell said the goal is to have a casa for every child by 2018. She said to achieve that, the program would need about 80 volunteers.

With the help of the community, it on pace to achieve that goal.
