The Dallas City Council discussed possibly moving the Dallas Bounty Market from the Academy lawn near the corner of Main and Academy streets to downtown Dallas.

City council considers bounty market location

By Jolene Guzman
The Itemizer-Observer

DALLAS — Polk County Bounty Market launches its seventh season at the Academy Building lawn in May, but there has been exploration of moving it back downtown in the future.

The Dallas Area Visitors Center, which runs the market, conducted a survey of downtown businesses and market vendors to answer questions posed by the Dallas City Council about the best location.

Monday, Chelsea Metcalfe, the visitors center executive director, reported the results to the council during its monthly workshop.

All 12 of the core market vendors who responded to the survey about the location said they would prefer to stay on the Academy lawn near the corner of Main and Academy streets.

Bonnie Dreier, the market manager, said most vendors would make the move, though some reluctantly. One vendor wouldn't return if the market was moved and others would have to make a choice.

"Several of the vendors commented that this is not the market they make the most money in," Metcalfe said. "They make money in larger markets ... but because they are Polk County businesses, they want to invest in their community and be a part of what is here."

Of downtown businesses, two-thirds of the 28 businesses surveyed would like the market downtown, Metcalfe said.

"Most believe that hosting the market downtown will increase their foot traffic, which we don't disagree with that, but wonder if that is our purpose in bringing the market downtown," Metcalfe said.

The market would not be able to use the Polk County Courthouse lawn due to upkeep costs during the 22-week season. That means closing a street to put on the market each week. Parking limitation and noise while court is in session were also concerns voiced in the survey.

City Manager Ron Foggin said the issue with the current location is that the market is more likely to "fall off people's radar" because it is not as visible.

Metcalfe proposed if the Academy location remains — which market vendors and managers would prefer — that the market work in partnership with downtown businesses and Dallas Downtown Association to highlight what is available downtown.

"But we also believe there is an excellent opportunity and value in partnering with the downtown businesses, particularly through the DDA, in making Thursdays a bigger event in all of our downtown," Metcalfe said.

Morris to face murder charges

By Jolene Guzman
The Itemizer-Observer

MADRAS — Former Polk County resident Mitchell Julio Morris is facing murder and manslaughter charges in connection to the Feb. 26 deaths of his roommates. Morris, 20, now of Crooked River Ranch, and the two victims in the crime, Mackenzie Lyman, 21, and Bailee Ray Candello-Southwick, 18, all are former residents of the Dallas area.

Lyman

Morris has been charged with two counts each of murder, manslaughter, criminally negligent homicide, and unlawful use of a weapon and one count of unauthorized use of a vehicle in the crime that took place in the Crooked River Ranch home the three shared.

He was arraigned in Jefferson County Circuit Court on Friday and is being held at Jefferson County Jail without bail. Lyman is a 2013 graduate of South Salem High School and she and Candello-Southwick had been in a relationship for a year.

They lived in Crooked River Ranch and worked at Brightwood Lumber in Redmond. Morris was their roommate.

Jefferson County Sheriff's Office deputies responded to a report of a shooting at about 6:50 p.m. in the 9000 block of Southwest Sand Ridge Road in Crooked River Ranch. Deputies found Lyman and Candello-Southwick dead; both had been shot.

Police launched an extensive search for Morris, who was believed to be headed to the Polk County area.

Salem police officers located and arrested Morris in West Salem the next day. He was taken back to Jefferson County after the arrest.

A memorial service for Candello-Southwick and Lyman will be on Saturday at Grace Community Church, 598 E. Ellendale in Dallas. For their complete obituaries, see Page 10A.

2016 Relay For Life Of Polk County Are Relayers Having Fun Yet?

At the last Relay for Life team rally, I listened as teams shared their fundraising plans for now and into the summer. Fundraising takes some serious time and effort. Yet there were smiles all around and a sense of excitement that comes with making a commitment to something as important as the fight against cancer.

My smile came when I told our Relay teams that 32 sponsors have their backs and have joined in the fundraising effort to fund research and find a cure. I promise you ~ sponsoring Relay For Life of Polk County 2016 will bring you that same sense of excitement. Fight Back!

The deadline for submitting a sponsorship is April 15.

Please join me in thanking these seven new sponsors of Relay For Life of Polk County:
