Polk County Bounty Market had more vendors, more customers and made more money in its seventh year. Bounty Market Manager Bonnie Dreier has doubled the vendors.

Bounty exceeds targets

Market shows more growth each year of last seven years

DALLAS — Polk County Bounty Market in Dallas had its best season yet — by far — in 2016, according to Market Manager Bonnie Dreier.

It's seventh season saw vendor numbers, attendance and sales all up by significant margins compared to 2015.

Chelsea Metcalfe, who was the Dallas Area Visitor's Center executive director during the 2016 season, gave the credit to "Bounty Bon," Dreier.

"When we started Bounty Market, Bonnie and I were doing our planning, we would feel like we were successful if we had 10 vendors every week," Metcalfe said during the market recap

By the numbers

Polk County Bounty 2016
36	Total vendors
19	Weekly vendor average
9,333	Customers
$89,600	2016 sales
$410,000	Total sales

meeting on Oct. 18. "We — she — has practically doubled that. She had an average of 19 vendors every single week this year. That takes a lot of work and a lot of effort."

In total, 36 vendors participated in the 2016 season.

The season runs from the first Thursday in May to the last Thursday in September at the Academy Lawn at Main and Academy streets.

In that time, Bounty had 9,333 customer visits.

"To have it jump over 2,000 people, that's huge. This was huge for us," Metcalfe said.

Those customers spent an impressive amount, too: $89,600 and that estimate may be a little short.

"There are some vendors who don't want to do stats, so this is approximate," Dreier said.

That is up from $50,600 in 2015 and brings the total to $410,000 in the market's seven-year run.

"I'm so proud of this," Metcalfe said. "I am so proud of you for sticking with this market, working so hard for it. I'm so proud of all of our vendors for putting out an amazing product week after week."

Missing Portland woman found in Falls City

Itemizer-Observer staff report

FALLS CITY — Lesia Osyichuk was reported missing at 4:55 p.m. on Saturday, but was found Sunday morning at 9:20 a.m.

Osyichuk, 26, of Portland, was picking mushrooms with friends near mile marker 5 of Valsetz Road, southwest of Falls City, when she became separated from a group of friends, according to reports from the Polk County Sheriff's Department.

Polk County Search and Rescue were dispatched, but by the time the main body of searchers arrived, it was dark and raining lightly. Search teams deployed on foot and used vehicles to access the many forest roads in the area, the Sheriff's Office reported. Polk County was assisted by search and rescue members from Benton, Yamhill and Linn counties, as well as a SAR Region Three tracking dog. Oregon State Police Fish and Wildlife also assisted in the search, which went throughout the night.

Osyichuk was located by a team of searchers at 9:20 Sunday morning on a secondary forest road accessed by using a chain saw to clear downed trees. Osyichuk was found with a light jacket and sweatshirt. Though chilled, she was not injured, nor did she require medical attention, the reports state.
