

County looks 'healthy' for 2017-18 fiscal year

By Jolene Guzman

DALLAS — Polk County's proposed 2017-18 budget is showing a small amount of growth, even with the Public Employees Retirement System rate increases.

"I believe I was able to address almost all the needs, if not all the needs, of the individual departments in the proposed budget," said County Administrator Greg Hansen in his message to the Polk County Budget

• Polk County Budget Committee hearings continue Wednesday (today) and Thursday. Public comment is taken at 11 a.m. Wednesday and hearings conclude Thursday morning. The meetings begin at 10. a.m. both days.

Committee Monday morning. "Overall, it's a very healthy budget."

The general fund — which includes district attorney, sheriff, community corrections, assessor, clerk, treasurer, parks, juvenile and community development departments — is up by $1.45 million and will add 2.2 positions, 1.2 in Community Development and a records clerk in the sheriff's office.

Property tax collections grew by $670,000, and is the primary reason for revenue increases in the general fund. Other factors are a larger beginning fund balance ($500,000) and increases in Community Corrections ($125,000).

The overall budget, which includes departments such as public works, public health and behavioral health that have other funding sources, increased about $2.9 million to just more than $69 million.

Hansen recommended the county levy about 38 cents per $1,000 of assessed value on properties for the public safety levy.

That's the highest rate proposal of the first three years, but lower than the limit of 45 cents per $1,000 that voters approved.

This year, the county received about $406,000 in revenue from timber harvest on federal land.

It is the first year the county's payment has been based on actual timber cut after the expiration of the Secure Rural Schools Act.

If Congress does pass another plan for federal forests, the payment amount could fluctuate.

"I don't get a detailed report of what is going to get cut and what isn't and how much we are going to receive," Hansen said. Whatever we receive, if you are OK, we will probably use it to offset the operating levy anyway."

Budget hearing will continue through Thursday, when the budget committee will tentatively approve the budget.
