Corsages, Millinery and Waists for the Mid- A New Home Treatment uring the sumsummer Seaso

Although there are no decided devi-ations in the main lines upon which fashion is moving, there is an endless series of innovations in minor charac-teristics. Taking the single item of the corsage, the styles are legion. Very often they are most effectively made of fragments put together with such picturesque effect that they out-vie many a richer style made of a single material. When two or three fabries combine to form a single corsage single material. When two or three fabries combine to form a single corsage the lining of the waistcoat is cut to be gin with. This buttons snugly up the back, and upon the front of this is mounted, for instance, a plain velvet piece that points like a girlle in the mediate front. At each side of this piece are set silk-lined revers, or lapels of material of which the corsage is composed. Next to these come two more revers of plain silk or velvet again. All these revers narrow to an inch and a haif as they reach the neck. Gradually we are returning to larger shapes in hats, and low crowns and wide brims are once again distinguish-ing features in millinery. It has now become quite a fashion to turn the natty sailor hat up at one side or in the back instead of side or in the back instead of leaving it straight all around. The sailor hat is still very popular, both in London and Paris, and among imported models appears with an unusually wide t cim. Many of these brims are covered on the under side with a braid in contrast to the one outside, this designed to represent, and thus dispense with, a silk or velvet facing.

Ccushed strawberry is a color that is designed to be as popular as it was two years ago, when it was the rage. This shade will appear in costumes as warmer weather advances. Very lovely and delicate tints are shown in India cashmere, silk-wrap Henrietta ocloth, and faille Francaise. Primrose yellow is another color which is to rag? A charming gown made in simple but exquisite fashion, in this shade, a creamy yelow, shows a full-shirred bodice gathered into a pearl-embroidered neck-band, a wide sharply pointed Swiss girdle marking the waist. -John W. Mackay does not appear to be made of the common clay of which most millionaires are composed. A writer in the Salt Lake Tribune once heard the bonanza king say when a strike was threatened in Virginia City: "I am sorry that these men who receive four dollars a day do not save more of their money. I rolled rocks in Yuba river fourteen hours a day for months at a time and went to camp every night soaked to the bone, and did not average two dollars a day, but no one ever found me quite broke or ever heard me complain."
