The Busy Hen.

The hen is getting to be a mighty factor in the success of the farmer, as she produces wealth quite rapidly when she is in the mood. She has during the past week brought to the farmers of the vicinity of McMinnville something over $300 of outside money. C. C. Murton shipped during that time 1650 dozen eggs at 18 cents, which alone would nearly reach that figure. Since he is only one of the growers who ship farm products, the figures are very conservative.—McMinnville Reporter.

WATTERSON LIKES OREGON

Great Opportunities for the Rising Generation.

"If I were 20, here is where I should come," said Henry Watterson, the veteran editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, as he comfortably chatted after his lecture in Portland. "In 50 years there will be a population of 50,000,000 in this section of the country west of the crest of the Rocky mountains. By that time the dominating influence will be on the Pacific and not on the Atlantic coast."

"Westward is still the course of the empire. By that time there will be one and perhaps two isthmian canals and Portland will not be over 36 hours distant by rail from New York. The Pacific ocean will then be the great highway of commerce and this magnificent section so blessed by nature, so bland in its climate and so riotously prolific will logically come to the very forefront."

"Many cities will dot the whole Pacific coast, achieving an importance now scarcely dreamed of, but there will be three overshadowing centers of population and commercial consequence which will be in constant business touch with the whole round earth—one north and the other south of you."

"Here will be found the great opportunities for the rising generation and these things will come to pass during the lifetime of the boys who are now attending the public schools. If the boys who are here do not make a success of life with the opportunities which are opening up before them and with the advantages of their magnificent environment, the fault will be with them and not with the country in which they have been so fortunately born or bred."

Musical Festival at Salem.

The members of the Salem Oratorio society are hard at practice for the May festival, which will be held in the Capitol City, on May 17, 18 and 19. W. Belcher, Portland, tenor; Wm. Prentiss Drew, Salem, bass, and Irving M. Glenn, Eugene, baritone.

SUFFERING IS ENDED

Abner D. Palmer Dies in Salem After Long Illness.

A. D. Palmer passed away at his home at 425 Chemeketa street, Salem, Oregon, at 12 o'clock Thursday night after a lingering illness dating back over a year. During these many months Mr. Palmer had been a sufferer from liver complaint, and although attended by the best physicians and his recovery earnestly hoped for by the members of his family and his many friends, his condition grew gradually worse until the hour named above, when he was relieved from his sufferings by the hand of death.

Abner D. Palmer was born in Ohio, sixty-five years ago. From that state he removed to Oregon, coming to Dallas, Polk county, where he resided for several years, and twenty-four years ago he came to Salem where, with his family, he has since made his home. Mr. Palmer had no enemies, and his friends were numbered by the score. By his honest, upright dealings he won the confidence and respect of the people, and he was held in the highest esteem by his friends, and regarded as one of the foremost citizens of Salem. By his death Salem loses an honored member of both her business and social circles and his demise will be deeply mourned by the general public.

Deceased leaves a wife, three daughters and a son, one son, Dow Palmer, having preceded him to the Far Beyond about three years ago. The surviving children are: Mrs. Arch E. Crosby, of The Dalles; Mrs. Ora Cooper, of Dallas; Miss Zaida and Fred Palmer, of Salem.—Salem Statesman.

Mr. Palmer was for many years a resident of Dallas, and was held in the highest esteem by the people of this town. He made many visits here after moving to Salem, and always seemed glad to get back among his old neighbors and associates. He was a good man, and lived a long and useful life.

Good American Talk.

The Statesman would like to see every voter in Oregon register, and, having registered, vote. It would like to have every voter go to the polls and express his choice for or against every candidate for every office. Let the Democrats all register and vote, as well as the Republicans. Good government comes from a general interest in the selection of public officers, and much harm is done, often, by the better class of citizens declaring their lack of interest in politics. Every man should cultivate an interest in such matters, especially, business men, men who have property and pay taxes. Let everybody register and register now.—Salem Statesman.

CELEBRATION AT CHAMPOEG

Sever Hundred People Assemble to Observe the Day.

Monday was the sixty-first anniversary of the day upon which the destiny of the state of Oregon, at that time composed of the present states of Oregon, Washington and a portion of Idaho, when the subjects of Great Britain and Uncle Sam lined up to the ballot box and cast their ballots upon the question of whether Oregon should be under the jurisdiction of the United States or England, Uncle Sam's champions winning out by only a margin of two votes, and that event was celebrated upon the spot where the vote was taken Monday afternoon—Champoeg, twenty-four miles north of Salem.

The commemoration meeting was held upon the site which is now marked with a suitable monument, and was presided over by ex-Governor Geer, who called the meeting to order with a few appropriate remarks upon the history of the event. On the platform with Governor Geer were Hon. F. X. Mathieu, the only survivor of that important event, Captain F. T. Mountain, of Portland, and others. Judge Galloway of McMinnville, was the first speaker upon the occasion and he was followed by George H. Himes, secretary of the Oregon Historical Society, who read a letter which was written about the year 1838 by Hon. Ewing Young to the Spanish Governor of Upper California, regarding the bringing of several hundred head of cattle into this state from the former state. The letter is regarded as being very valuable as an historical relic.

Mrs. Eva Emory Dye, author of "McLaughlin and Old Oregon" and "The Conquest," also made an address as did also Judge R. P. Boise, upon reminiscences of the early days, and he was followed by addresses by Richard Williams of Portland, John J. Jeffrey, P. H. D'Arcy and J. G. Graham, of Salem, in the order named. There was also plenty of good music by a select band and some vocal selections. There were about 700 people in attendance, and the day was most appropriately and grandly observed.

Pioneers to Gather.

For their 32d annual reunion Oregon pioneers will meet in Portland, June 22. Charles B. Moores, of Oregon City, will deliver one of the addresses and Joseph Buchtel is to be grand marshal. The Armory has been selected for the reunion and exercises. All who came to Oregon prior to February 14, 1859, and all who were born in the "Oregon country" prior to that time are entitled to membership in the Oregon Pioneer Association. The reunions afford the opportunity for oldtimers to renew acquaintanceship and recall the hardships of early days. This will be the 32d annual reunion, all taking place in Portland. Reduced rates—round-trip for one fare and a third—have been agreed to by the transportation companies. Indian War Veterans, Native Sons and Native Daughters will have their reunions the same week. A visit to the Lewis and Clark Exposition grounds will be one of the features of the program.—Telegram.
