Now, that the election is over, the business men of Dallas should take up the movement for a big Fourth of July celebration and carry it through to a successful conclusion. The plan to hold a three days' celebration is a good one, and no trouble should be experienced by the finance committee in raising a neat sum of money to defray expenses. A pioneer and soldiers' reunion on Saturday, a big camp-meeting and an excursion to Falls City on Sunday, and a rousing celebration on Monday would bring an immense crowd of people to Dallas and make the 1904 celebration the biggest thing that ever happened in Polk county.

STUDY COURSE LENGTHENED

Monmouth Normal School Term Extended to Four Years.

The course of study of the Oregon State Normal School at Monmouth has been increased from three years to four years, with a view to providing a course for teachers who intend teaching in high schools. This action was taken by the Board of Regents at a meeting held in Salem, Wednesday. Under the new course two new diplomas will be granted, one of the kind now issued and one showing graduation from the advanced course. The course will comprise four years' work above the eighth grade of the common schools. The Board of Regents also made a rule providing that no person shall be engaged as an instructor in the State Normal School who has not had two years' experience as a teacher in the common schools. This rule was made for the reason that those who have had actual experience in the schoolroom are best fitted to instruct those who are preparing themselves to be teachers.

National Bank for Dallas.

MONUMENT UNVEILED

Dallas Woodmen Pay Tribute to Memory of the Late William J. Starr.

The monument at the grave of the late William J. Starr was unveiled with the beautiful ceremonies of the Woodmen of the World by the officers of Dallas Camp, No. 209, last Sunday afternoon. About one hundred members of the Camp, headed by the ladies of Mistletoe Circle, No. 33, Women of Woodcraft, formed in procession in front of the hall and marched to the Odd Fellows' cemetery, where the unveiling exercises took place. After the monument, a handsome shaft of Barre granite, had been unveiled, Rev. James Moore delivered a beautiful and impressive oration, and Oscar Hayter read the poem "Why Should the Spirit of Mortal Be Proud?" The Woodmen then marched slowly around the grave and laid their floral tributes upon the mound of earth covering the mortal remains of their deceased brother. The graves of other dead neighbors were also decorated before departing from the cemetery.

Commencement Sunday.

The services will be held in the M. E. Church. The Methodist, Presbyterian, Baptist and United Evangelical churches uniting in the morning services. President Chas. C. Polling will preach the sermon in the morning and Rev. Edward Curran, an alumnus of the school will preach the sermon in the evening to the Christian Associations. All are invited to attend these services.

Notice.

The Court reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

A social dance will be given in Dallas tonight by Prof. Frank Miller, of Rickreall. A six-piece orchestra will furnish music, and a pleasant social time is assured to all who attend.

Liberal Prize Offers.

Prizes of $500 are offered to the person who writes the best answer to the question, "What are the advantages and disadvantages of this section?" The money is offered by Orange Judd Farmer, of Chicago, to draw out plain and truthful statements from actual experience of practical farmers as to the merits of this and other sections of the country. That paper proposes to publish the best of the replies. The answers should be expressed in not to exceed 500 words, and should be sent in to Orange Judd Farmer, Chicago, Ill., as soon as possible. If a large number of replies are forwarded, it is possible that Orange Judd Farmer's special commission of land experts may make a personal investigation of this region, preparatory to setting forth its advantages through the columns of that widely circulated periodical.
