J. H. TOWNSEND IS DEAD
Well-Known Lawyer Passes Away at His Home Near Perrydale.
James H. Townsend, at one time a well-known lawyer and prominent citizen of Oregon, died at his home near Perrydale, Wednesday, July 27, 1904, aged 49 years. His death was caused by softening of the brain. He was stricken by the fatal disease about two years ago, but his illness did not assume a dangerous form until last Friday. On that date he was seized with severe convulsions and never rallied from their effects.
Mr. Townsend was a son of the late Ira S. and Berseba Townsend, and was born on a farm near Perrydale, November 10, 1854. He spent his boyhood days on the farm, and in the late '70s took up the study of the law. After being admitted to practice, he opened an office in Dallas and resided in this city until a few months before his death. For many years he was associated with Hon. N. L. Butler in the law practice, and later became the senior member of the firm of Townsend & Hart. He was an ardent Democrat and stood high in the councils of his party. He was a delegate to the National convention held in Chicago in 1896, and four years later was a delegate to the Kansas City convention. While taking an active interest in politics, he steadfastly refused to accept a nomination for any office. In 1894 he was prominently mentioned for Governor of Oregon, but declined to allow his name to go before the convention. He was a member of Jennings Lodge, No. 9, A. F. & A. M. He was also a member of Dallas Camp, No. 209, Woodmen of the World, and carried $3000 insurance that order.
Mr. Townsend was a successful lawyer and enjoyed an extensive and lucrative practice. He was a good judge of human nature and was quick to grasp any point that could be used to the advantage of his client. He had a fairly good law education, and this knowledge taken together with a retentive memory and a plentiful supply of plain, common sense enabled him to win many hard-fought legal battles.
Mr. Townsend began to fail in health about two years ago and his ailment soon developed into a well-defined case of softening of the brain. The best physicians on the Pacific coast were called into consultation, but their skill was of no avail in bettering his condition, and he was soon obliged to retire from the practice of his profession. After a few months of rest and quiet, he was taken to his country home near Perrydale in the hope that the fresh air and change of surroundings would prove beneficial, but in this the family was disappointed and he continued to sink steadily until death came to his relief. His malady never partook of the violent form, and through all the long months of suffering he was kind and patient, and was as easily controlled as a little child. During his last days on earth he was the recipient of every attention that a devoted wife could bestow, and no pains or expense were spared to make him as comfortable as possible.
Burial will take place this morning in the Brown cemetery north of Dallas. The services will be conducted by the officers of Jennings Lodge, No. 9, A. F. & A. M., and it is expected that a large number of Masons will be in attendance. A special motor will leave the Southern Pacific depot at 10:30 o'clock, and will return at the close of the services.

Committed No Crime.
H. S. and Ed Alderman, two young men from Monmouth, were arrested in Salem upon charge of larceny of a horse and buggy, Sunday. The charge was preferred by Joseph Rose, the Monmouth liveryman. The young men have been running the stable during Rose's absence in the harvest field. At the preliminary hearing before Justice Wilson, Wednesday, the fact was developed that no crime had been committed, and the prisoners were discharged. Attorney J. N. Hart informs us that the evidence went to prove that the young men hitched up a rig and drove to Salem, and that Rose becoming alarmed at their absence, caused their arrest for larceny. There was no evidence to prove that they acted with criminal intent.

In talking with Mr. Joseph Hirschberg, of Independence, that gentleman informed the writer that he had ordered a new Standard oil boring machine, and that he intended to make another attempt to develop oil at the place where he had made the first well. He said that he lost the first well at the 1280 foot level, by losing his tubing in the sands, but that he intended to try it over. He also said that he found oil in the first well, and had no doubt at all of the ultimate result.—Salem Statesman.
