 The chicken-pie supper given by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Church in the Collins building on Tuesday evening was well patronized, and a neat sum of money was cleared.
 All of the prune driers in Dallas are in operation, and good progress is being made in handling the crop. The fruit is rather slow in ripening, and some delay may be caused by the prevailing rain. The crop is much lighter than usual.
 John S. Hart and family have moved from Dallas to their new home six miles west of Philomath, where Mr. Hart will engage in stockraising. The departure of this estimable family is a matter of regret to their many friends and acquaintances in Polk county.
 The congregation of the M. E. Church of this city has passed a resolution asking the Conference to return Rev. James Moore to the Dallas pastorate for another year. Rev. Moore is an able and popular minister, and the wish that he may be returned to Dallas is not confined to the members of his congregation.

 The Southern Pacific Company is taking gravel from the Willamette bar south of Independence at the rate of 25 carloads a day. Two or three carloads are brought to Dallas daily for the Falls City road, and the remainder is shipped to points on the West Side division.
 Hugh Freeland, superintendent of the Freeland mines in the Cascade mountains, in which many Dallas people own shares of stock, was in town yesterday. He says the wagon road to the mines will be completed this winter. Development work is going on steadily, with much rich ore in sight.
 County Commissioner William Riddell, of Monmouth, was in Dallas, Wednesday. Mr. Riddell has devoted considerable time recently to the inspection of roads and bridges in order to ascertain what repairs are needed before the winter season begins. He is a practical road builder, and believes that where it is necessary to make repairs, the work should be of a substantial and lasting character.
 The Oregon Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church will convene at Eugene next Wednesday. Bishop Henry Spellmeyer will preside. Successors will be appointed to three presiding elders, whose terms will expire with the conference. These elders are Rev. D. A. Waters, Salem district; Dr. T. B. Ford, Eugene district, and Dr. D. T. Summerville, Grant's Pass district. Dr. Ford made his last visit to Dallas, Tuesday, and attended a meeting of the official board of the church in this city. He is held in the highest esteem by the members of the church throughout the district.

With a wondrous showing of new Winter goods in every department of our store, additional shipments are arriving daily and are being placed on our shelves and counters as fast as they can be unpacked. Our advance display of Winter Clothing is especially noteworthy; also, the new-Dress Goods, new Waists, new Tailored Suits, Wraps, Laces, Trimmings and Gloves. Come to the Bee Hive Store for the latest styles, the choicest designs and most reliable qualities.
 A refreshing rain began falling Wednesday night and continued all day yesterday. No rain had fallen for 23 days, and it is needless to say that the shower was welcomed by the people of the Willamette Valley, who have been almost choked and blinded by the smoke from the forest fires. The rain will check these fires, and it will also cause the grass in the dry pastures to spring up fresh and green. There is no getting around the fact that Oregonians are the happiest when it rains.
Public School Opens Monday.
 The Dallas public school will open for nine months' work next Monday, at 9 o'clock a. m. The upper grades will assemble in the seventh and eighth grade rooms. The County Superintendent will give a short talk, and the directors and some of the patrons will have something to say. All friends of the public school are invited to be present. Pupils will be given lists of needed books and dismissed until 1 p. m. I trust that patrons and pupils will realize the necessity of getting an even start in the race, by the pupils being present on the first day. The following teachers constitute our corps: W. I. Reynolds, eighth grade; Ralph Hill, seventh grade; Mrs. Agnes Campbell, sixth grade; Lina Stouffer, fifth grade; Mrs. F. H. Morrison, fourth grade; Ella Carpenter, third grade; Eloise Phillips, second grade; Ednelle Collins, first grade.
 W. I. REYNOLDS, Principal.
