

POLLOCK'S RECITAL

Dramatic Reader Will Appear at M. E. Church Next Friday Night.

Miss Pollock will be pleased that Miss Elizabeth Mae Pollock, a talented dramatic reader and actor, is to give a recital in Dallas next Friday evening. This is her first appearance in regular recital in her home town, and a number of people will be anxious to hear. Miss Pollock has shown her ability and expression in some of the cities in the United States, her latest engagement being in Colorado.

Mary A. Blood, principal of the High School of Oratory, Chicago, writes: "As Miss Elizabeth Mae Pollock comes upon the platform to recite by her readings, all feel that womanly, genial presence. Her reading is delightfully clear and an ever present sense of appreciation for, and sympathy with her audiences and she leads them with her to the end."

Her reading is delightfully clear and an ever present sense of appreciation for, and sympathy with her audiences and she leads them with her to the end." Miss Pollock will appear under the auspices of the Epworth League, in the M. E. Church, next Friday evening, October 14. Admission, 25 and 15 cents. The program will be published next week.

The next session will be held on Wednesday, January 4, 1905.

The season for killing China geese opened last Saturday, and the local hunters were afield early in the morning. None of them experienced any difficulty in keeping the limit of ten birds, and all returned to town with reports of instant success. For some unaccountable cause, the pheasants are fewer than usual this year, and few are to be seen. The season will close December 1.

H. McElmurry, of Lebanon, has been in the hands of Weatherford & Co. for a claim for $50 damages sustained by the drivers of an automobile, which that on Saturday evening the automobile frightened his horses and caused them to overturn the buggy. Two sons were thrown into a ditch, one being bruised, and knocking the driver insensible, and shattering the buggy. Mr. McElmurry formerly resided near Independence, in Polk county.

The season for sowing grain is here. Farmers can buy Formaldehyde at Belt & Cherrington's drugstore for 40 cents a pound, or two pounds for 75 cents. Never a case of smut known where this preventive was used.

The annual run of silverside salmon in Yaquina Bay has commenced. Edwin Stone, manager of the Corvallis & Eastern railroad reports that the fishermen are enjoying all kinds of sport. A large number of men from the Valley go to Yaquina every year during the salmon fishing season, as trolling for the silversides is considered fine sport.

Andrew N. Martin.

Andrew Nicholas Martin died at his home in McMinnville, Monday, aged 52 years. He formerly resided in Polk county, and at one time owned the land upon which the town of Falls City now stands. He afterwards moved to Ballston and opened a general merchandise store. He was also associated with Dan P. Stouffer in the management of the Ballston warehouse. He became a resident of McMinnville about fourteen years ago. Mr. Martin was an invalid for the last twelve years of his life, being afflicted with a form of paralysis. He was a man of fine literary attainments, and spent a great deal of his time in his library after he became unable to attend to his business affairs. He was a pleasant, companionable man, and bore his long illness without a complaint. He leaves a wife and two daughters—Mrs. J. C. Uglow, of Dallas, and Miss Viola Martin, of McMinnville.
