Dr. W. Carleton Smith.

Dr. Steiner came to Salem from Ohio twenty years ago, and some years later engaged in the drug busiless, being for several years at the head of the Steiner Drug Company. He finally took up a course of medicine, and after receiving his diploma located at Dallas, Polk county, where he practiced his profession for a period of three years. He then moved to Lakeview, Lake county, where he established a big practice and prospered. A few months ago he decided to remove to a more desirable country, where his family might enjoy greater advantages and where he would not be subjected to the hardships necessarily endured by a physician in the inland country. As a result of his de site for a change he is now permanently located among his large circle of old-time friends, who most heartily welcome him and his family back to their midst.

Dr. Steiner gained many friends during his residence in Lake county and during the last session, repreresented that county in the lower branch of the legislature.

Raises Cotton in Oregon.

J. W. Baker has a patch of cotton at his home in this city which would make the Sunny South turn green with envy. He has been making a specialty of cotton raising and has some large well developed plants this year that look as thrifty and large as could be found down south. They are quite a curiosity here, and attract a great deal of attention. George Calhoun has a display of Mr. Baker's cotton in his window.—Grants Pass

Hops Sell at Fifteen Cents,

C. L. Fitchard, an Independence hop buyer shipped two carloads of R. B. Hoy's hops at Creswell, Lane county last Thursday, Fitchard having contracted for them last spring. It is understood that the price was in the neighborhood of 15 cents per pound. The first hops of the 1905 crop to change hands in Salem were sold by Catlin & Linn to Julius Pincus for 13 cents. The lot consisted of 47 bales of the Early Fuggles variety and were choice hops.
