Users of coffee should not be misled by offers of dealers to sell "M. J. B." coffee at 25c. No dealer sells the genuine "M. J. B." brand at this price. M. J. Brandenstein puts out a cheap grade of coffee that can be sold for 25c, but it is not his "M. J. B." brand which is always sold at 40c., or 3 pounds for $1. None genuine unless put up in tins with the initials "M. J. B.," ("not M. J. Brandenstein") plainly marked thereon. Get the good kind at Loughary's grocery.

R. Jacobson writes J. H. Hollister, of Dallas, that the wholesale notions and furnishing goods house of Jacobson, Nayberger & Company in San Francisco was totally destroyed by fire and earthquake. The Jacobson home was also destroyed. The family spent the first night in a park, the next night at the Presidio, and are now in Oroville, where Mr. Jacobson has a store. He writes Mr. Hollister that nearly all the earnings of his lifetime were swept away by the disaster.
A. F. Toner arrived home from a six weeks' vacation in Southern California, Saturday. He was in San Francisco when the great disaster occurred, and had a narrow escape from death. Fleeting from the hotel where he had been staying, he spent one day in a small park, without food or water, and the next day made his escape to Oakland. He says the newspaper accounts of the disaster have not been exaggerated, and that only a limited idea of the extent of the loss can be gained by reading the printed reports. Aside from his never-to-be-forgotten experience in San Francisco, Mr. Toner had a pleasant vacation in Golden State.

DALLAS GIVES FREELY

August P. Bissler of this city was one of the fortunate winners of a prize credit certificate in the mammoth publicity word contest, recently conducted by Eilers Piano House, the popular piano and organ dealers of Portland, but being unable to take advantage of this certificate, he transferred it to Roscoe Ballantyne, who applied it toward the purchase of one of the popular Pease pianos.
Attention is called to the advertisement in this paper. This well-known house is now in charge of C. W. Nixon, formerly of Polk county, who is assisted in its management by Mrs. Nixon. Newly furnished and improved throughout, the house is furnishing excellent service and building up a good patronage. The Occidental will doubtless be a popular stopping place for Polk county people on their way to and from Newport next summer.

DEATH VISITS TWO HOMES
Dr. William J. Farley and Mrs. Hester Ellis Are Called to Their Reward.
Mrs. Hester A. Ellis died at her home in this city, Monday, April 23, at 10 o'clock p. m., aged 55 years. She had been in failing health for many years. The funeral was held from the residence at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, and interment took place in the family cemetery three miles east of Dallas.
Mrs. Ellis was a daughter of M. L. Robbins, and was born in Iowa, June 13, 1848. She came to Oregon with her parents in 1853. During her early life she taught school for many years in Polk county, and on July 3, 1875, married J. D. Ellis and settled on a farm in the Salt Creek neighborhood. The family afterwards moved to Dallas, where Mr. Ellis died in 1893. Mrs. Ellis left three children. They are: Ross Ellis, a merchant of this city; Miss Bertha Ellis, living at home, and Mrs. H. L. Miser, of San Francisco.
Mrs. Ellis was a good woman, and had many friends. Her greatest interest was centered in her home affairs, and her children will miss a kind and loving mother. She was a faithful member of the Christian church, and lived a useful and consistent Christian life.
Dr. William J. Farley died Monday at his home two miles south of Dallas. He had been a constant sufferer from rheumatism for many years, although the immediate cause of his death was heart disease. The funeral was held from the M. E. Church, Wednesday afternoon, and was largely attended. An eloquent address touching his life and character was delivered by Judge N. L. Butler, his life-long friend. The burial was held under the auspices of the Masonic order.
Dr. Farley was the oldest child of the late Robert and Lydia Farley, honored pioneers of Polk county. He was born in Platte county, Missouri, November 18, 1848; crossed the plains in 1852, and settled in Yamhill county. Six years later, the family removed to Polk county. Dr. Farley's first wife was Miss Sarah Shrove, who died a few years after her marriage. He was a graduate of the Medical Department of Willamette University and also of Bellevue Medical College of New York, and was a successful practitioner. He was in the Government employ as physician at the Warm Springs Indian Agency for many years, and was afterwards stationed at the Chemawa Training School in a like capacity. Several years ago, at the time of the Lake Labish train wreck, near Chemawa, he worked all night over the injured, and suffered severe strain and exhaustion, inducing rheumatic tendencies, from which he suffered constantly in later life. In 1892 he resigned his position at the school and removed to his farm near Dallas, where he lived the remainder of his life. His second wife, a daughter of Rev. C. E. Cline, of Portland, survives him. There are no children.
Although an invalid for many years, and sadly crippled by his disease, he bore his affliction patiently, and no word of complaint ever passed his lips. He was a courteous, pleasant gentleman, and had many friends. The people of Polk county will ever remember him as a good neighbor and an honorable and upright citizen.

MOHAIR BRINGS GOOD PRICE
Polk County Pool Sold to Herman Metzger for 30 1-2 Cents Per Pound.
The Polk County Mohair Association, through President G. W. McBe, Secretary H. L. Fenton and G. W. Myer, the selling committee, disposed of the 1906 pool to Herman Metzger, of Portland, Tuesday. The price realized was 30 1/2 cents per pound, all sacks to be returned to the growers. While the price paid was not as good as had been expected earlier in the season, it is generally satisfactory to the growers, and is the highest price yet paid for a pool in Oregon this year.
It is reported that the Luckiamute pool of about 6000 fleeces was sold to T. Bernheim, of Portland, last Saturday, for 30 cents a pound.
To Make It Unanimous.
S. L. Kline and J. Fred Yates, of Corvallis were in Albany Sunday evening and they were enthusiastic over the success of Dr. James Withycombe's campaign for the republican nomination for governor. Dr. Withycombe received almost the unanimous vote of the republicans of Benton county at the primaries, and these two gentlemen stated that the purpose of the Benton county people was to give Dr. Withycombe the unanimous vote of that county for governor at the election in June, and arrangements were made to carry this plan into effect as a general recognition of the worth of the nominee as a citizen and gentleman, one in whom the citizens of Benton county, without regard to party affiliations, have the greatest pride and complete confidence. This testimonial to Dr. Withycombe would be worthy of Benton county, and would place the citizens on a high plane of patriotism.—Albany Herald.
