CURE YOUR KIDNEYS

Why will people continue to suffer the agonies of kidney complaint, backache, urinary disorders, lameness, headaches, languor. Why allow themselves to become chronic invalids, when a certain cure is offered them?

Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use, because it gives to the kidneys the help they need to perform their work.

If you have any, even one, of the symptoms of kidney diseases, cure your self now, before diabetes, dropsy or Bright's disease sets in.

Mr. L. Holson, of 717 Ana St., Pendleton, Ore., says: "I just as enthusiastically endorse Doan's Kidney Pills today as I did nearly three years ago. They relieved me of kidney trouble which had bothered me for a considerable time. There was aching pains across the small of my back and down through my kidneys, which were aggravated by colds which settled in the back and loins and caused an awful lameness. This was my condition when I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills. This remedy banished the backache and pains through the loins, regulated the kidney secretions and removed every symptom of the trouble. From that day to this there has been no recurrence, and I give Doan's Kidney Pills all the credit. I consider them to be the best kidney remedy procurable and recommend them whenever the occasion arises."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

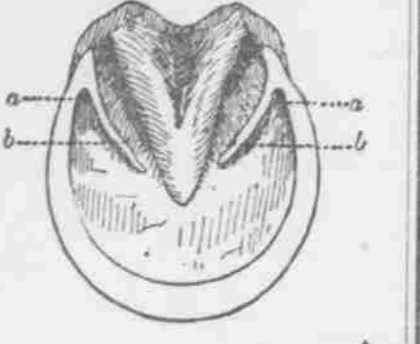

Remember the name—Doane—and take no other.

HORSES' CORNS.

Cause, Location and Treatment—Shoeing and Trimming.

Bruises of the sensitive structures underlying the sole in the angle formed by the bar and wall of the hoof at the heel are termed corns. See Fig. 1, A, B. The sole horn is very thin at this part and is therefore less able to protect the sensitive structures underneath against injury from pressure of the shoe or other violence. The bruise is evidenced by the blood staining, softness and sponginess of the horn of the part, which will be moist or may even discharge matter if the bruise has been a severe one.

It is only in rare instances that corns are found on the hind feet, which have seldom the flat conformation of the fore feet. The lower heels of the fore feet are the most frequent seat of corns on account mainly of the horn on the inner heel being weaker than that of the outer. The practice of fitting the inner web of the shoe to the wall whereby part of its bearing is on the seat of corns is also responsible in some degree. This practice is adopted presumably to prevent brushing, but it is unnecessary, as in brushing a horse does not touch with the heel, but with the quarter, or toe.

The lameness caused by corns consists in a short, stilty, stumbling step, is most apparent on hard roads and increases with exercise. When at rest the animal has a tendency to "point" the foot, with the heel slightly raised, toe resting on ground and limb bent. If there are corns on both feet there is alternate pointing or frequent change of the pointed foot. Unlike navicular lameness, that from corns increases with exercise.

The spongy, bruised horn should be pared away so as to allow any effusion or matter to be discharged. The spot should then be dressed with balsam, butter of antimony or other antiseptic and hardening agent. It is essential that pressure should be kept off the part, and to insure this a horse with corns ought to be shod with slippers, the heels of which should not extend beyond the quarters, or if only one heel is affected then a three-quarter shoe. See Fig. 2. In case of a corn discharging matter after paring the supporting surface may be lightly cauterized with a red-hot iron and afterward treated with pine tar, quicklime, carbolic powder or other antiseptic dressing. The parts should be kept dry, and on no account should "stoppings" of cow manure, clay or other softening material be used.—S. S. Cameron in American Cultivator.

THE SWINEHERD.

During November and December, when March shoots should be fitted for the block in the south, they are often turned on to patches of artichokes and Spanish peanuts, which made an excellent combination of feeds and moreover have the advantage of enabling the hogs to do the harvesting. Sweet potatoes and chufas may be fed as substitutes for artichokes, but on account of the watery condition of the potatoes and artichokes they should never be fed alone, but in conjunction with more concentrated feeds, like peanuts, peas, corn and grains. Rape (Dwarf Essex) is an ideal hog feed and when sown in the fall makes excellent late fall and early spring grazing. Crimson clover, rye, oats and vetch can be used successfully for grazing swine during the fall, winter and spring.

NEWS AND VIEWS.

The Merino sheep industry in Vermont is again entering an era of prosperity that presages a boom, according to an exchange. While by no means approaching the palmy days of thirty years ago, the industry is reviving, and each year for a decade past has shown an increase in shipments of fancy strains of Merino breeding sheep to Africa and Australia. Within ten years past the bulk of the shipments have been to the Transvaal, in South Africa, and the leading Boer farmers are today breeding Addison county sheep almost exclusively.

Nebraska's Stretchy Hog.

We compliment the swine breeders of Nebraska on the wisdom they are showing in their breeding operations. They have not been carried away by pedigree fads, and today they are producing what one might call a profitable farmer's hog. It is our honest conviction that no state in the corn belt shows so many useful hogs as are seen at the Nebraska state fair. They combine scale with a large degree of quality. We concede that as you go east there will be found rather more quality, but the reduction in scale, in our opinion, more than offsets this superior quality. Men who are breeding hogs and feeding them out for the meat market are calling for stretchy hogs, and the fine stock breeders of Nebraska are just wise enough to satisfy this demand. No doubt the remarkable scale that is found in Nebraska hogs is to some extent the result of the free use of that splendid flesh forming food, alfalfa. It makes bone and builds the frame, says Iowa Homestead.

Intensive Farming.

Dr. E. C. Switzer, a veterinary surgeon of Springfield, Mass., has a fourteen acre farm within the city limits on which he keeps thirty horses and cattle.—blooded Guernseys and Ayrshires. It is needless to say that he makes the land produce three times as much as ordinary farm land, using the latest machinery and quickest methods. In fact, ten acres support the thirty head. Rye, sorghum, millet, sugar cane and corn are raised, three crops in a season. On a three acre plot of rye thirty tons were cut. The six acres of corn this year is estimated to yield 300 tons. As much as possible goes into silo; the rest is stacked. A side industry is the preparation of fertilizer and fine lawn dressing, which brings high prices.—Country Gentleman.

Vigorous Males Needed.

The virile, vigorous male is the one that will beget vigorous offspring, and it is the vigorous offspring that lay eggs. If you have a male that does not care much about the females, is indolent and unattentive to them, make a potpie or fricassee of him. That is all he is good for.

The Columbian Wyandotte Abroad.

The Australian Hen says that the demand throughout America for Columbian Wyandottes is very great and that large numbers of this popular variety are being imported from the United States and England.
