CURE YOUR KIDNEYS

Why will people continue to suffer the agonies of kidney complaint, backache, urinary disorders, lameness, headaches, languor, Why allow themselves to become chronic invalids, when a certain cure is offered them?

Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use, because it gives to the kidneys the help they need to perform their work.

If you have any, even one, of the symptoms of kidney diseases, cure your self now, before diabetes, dropsy or Bright's disease sets in.

Mrs. L. Hodson, of 717 Aura St., Pendleton, Ore., says: "I just as enthusiastically endorse Doan's Kidney Pills today as I did nearly three years ago. They relieved me of kidney trouble which had bothered me for a considerable time. There was aching pains across the small of my back and down through my kidneys, which were aggravated by colds which settled in the back and loins and caused an awful lameness This was my condition when I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills. This remedy banished the backache and pains through the loins, regulated the kidney secretions and removed every symptom of the trouble, From that day to this there has been no recurrence, and I give Doan's Kidney Pills all the credit. I consider them to be the best kidney remedy procurable and recommend them whenever the occasion arises,"

SOUND FOOTED HOG.

A Hog Should Carry His Weight Squarely on His Feet.

We desire to call attention to one of the common weaknesses found in all breeds of hogs. We refer to the matter of poor feet. Some of the most inexcusable mistakes that we have ever witnessed in a show ring have been made by judges who placed little emphasis on the importance of a hog walking squarely on his feet, says Iowa Homestead.

When a hog walks down on his dewclaws the trouble is generally due to one of two causes or possibly both. A long pastern is a faulty formation, and a hog with this weakness will generally go down under heavy feeding—indeed, he need not be heavy and fat to reveal the weakness to one who knows how and where to look for it. A sharp judge ought to be able to detect it in a class under six months just as quickly as in an aged class where the animals are showing very heavy weights. The second cause of hogs going down, to which we referred, is a weakness either in the tendons or in the bones. It is sometimes possible to find a fairly good formation in the length and shape of the pastern, and nevertheless the hog goes down. In such a case the weakness must be due to failure of the muscles to hold the foot properly in shape, and in such a case the physiological weakness is in the muscles and not in the bone.

"No Foot, No Hog."

We find on turning to the scale of points of the various breeds that from five to ten counts are given for good feet and legs. While in making up a scale this is possibly all that could be allowed, it is strictly true, as is often said of horses, "no foot, no hog." There is no weakness that seems to propagate so easily as the long pastern or the weak tendons around the foot. It is important in the gilt and in the old sow, but it is doubly important in the case of the male. The idea of using on a herd of twenty or twenty-five sows a male with weak feet is the very acme of shortsightedness. Think of having on the farm 100 or 150 weak footed hogs, and yet this is just what is likely to occur if a poor footed male is used.—Iowa Homestead.

A Life Work For a Man.

Breeding good dairy animals is not yet an exact science. It is an evolutionary work, in which the painstaking, patient, intelligent breeder is cooperating with nature for the production of the improved animals. And nature will not be hurried, so the work of a breeder is not the work of a few tentative matings of animals, showing wonderful results in a few years. It is more nearly a life work for a man and one man's life so often so lamentably short for the length of the work.

BEEF CATTLE.

Results in finishing cattle at the Virginia experiment station indicate very closely that silage is a satisfactory form of roughness to feed during the winter to cattle that are to be finished on grass in the spring; that a moderate grain ration will make fairly satisfactory gains; that this grain ration may profitably consist of one pound of corn or cob meal and cottonseed meal, or, in other words, a considerable amount of protein, which will make for the development of the carcass rather than for the putting on of fat. Corn is sometimes fed to stockers in considerable amounts with the result that they put on a quantity of soft fat and often shrink and drift when put on grass because their bodies have not been nourished with the protein elements necessary to keep them in proper equilibrium.

Cattle Are Lacking.

Cattle we must have to feed our increasing population and to replace the continued drain from our soil made by our heavy yield of field crops. When we miss the cattle upon our thousand hills and along our thousand rills then we have lamentingly to admit that "all is not well." We traveled 800 miles in one trip last week through upper Georgia and through the heart of South Carolina and did not see as many cattle as we should find in a distance of eighty miles. The south has not the tenth of the cattle she should have. We are allowing food to waste for want of fencing. We are not growing one-tenth the grass our land would produce with a little work and care.—Editor G. F. Hunnicutt in Southern Cultivator.

Big Dividends on Blood.

The demand for feeding steers is going to keep well bred thin cattle at a pretty fair price this year. Of course some thin cattle are selling at comparatively low prices, but they are the kind that the feeder trade does not want. They will never be good cattle, no matter how much or how long they are fed, and with only one outlet (the cheap meat trade) they must sell low. The man who has well bred stuff always has two markets open to him, and this year, according to National Stockman, the feeder market promises to pay him big dividends on his investment in improved blood.

Current Market Prosperity.

Current cattle market prosperity admits of but one interpretation—the public is eating beef.

Beef is no longer on a bargain counter and despite high cost to the meat eater is going into consumption in unprecedented volume.

All signs point to an active feeder trade the rest of the season. Corn is maturing by the million bushels daily, and every day of high temperatures serves to increase the demand for thin cattle.—Breeder's Gazette, Chicago.

Food For Ducklings.

The proper food for young ducklings depends upon their age. When from one to five days old they need boiled egg and breadcrumbs finely chopped. After that age meal, preference given to oatmeal, and middlings in like proportion until they are three to four weeks old. Then grain in their water.

The Scratching Shed.

A scratching shed should be built tight so that the fowls are sheltered from the wind. The south side should be open or, on very cold days, covered with light muslin or other thin cloth.

NEWS AND VIEWS.

The Merino sheep industry in Vermont is again entering an era of prosperity that presages a boom, according to an exchange. While by no means approaching the palmy days of thirty years ago, the industry is reviving, and each year for a decade past has shown an increase in shipments of fancy strains of Merino breeding sheep to Africa and Australia. Within ten years past the bulk of the shipments have been to the Transvaal, in South Africa, and the leading Boer farmers are today breeding Addison county sheep almost exclusively.

Nebraska's Stretchy Hog.

We compliment the swine breeders of Nebraska on the wisdom they are showing in their breeding operations. They have not been carried away by pedigree fads, and today they are producing what one might call a profitable farmer's hog. It is our honest conviction that no state in the corn belt shows so many useful hogs as are seen at the Nebraska state fair. They combine scale with a large degree of quality. We concede that as you go east there will be found rather more quality, but the reduction in scale, in our opinion, more than offsets this superior quality. Men who are breeding hogs and feeding them out for the meat market are calling for stretchy hogs, and the fine stock breeders of Nebraska are just wise enough to satisfy this demand. No doubt the remarkable scale that is found in Nebraska hogs is to some extent the result of the free use of that splendid flesh forming food, alfalfa. It makes bone and builds the frame, says Iowa Homestead.

Intensive Farming.

Dr. E. C. Switzer, a veterinary surgeon of Springfield, Mass., has a fourteen acre farm within the city limits on which he keeps thirty horses and cattle—blooded Guernseys and Ayrshires. It is needless to say that he makes the land produce three times as much as ordinary farm land, using the latest machinery and quickest methods. In fact, ten acres support the thirty head. Rye, sorghum, millet, sugar cane and corn are raised, three crops in a season. On a three acre plat of rye thirty tons were cut. The six acres of corn this year is estimated to yield 300 tons. As much as possible goes into silo; the rest is stacked. A side industry is the preparation of fertilizer and fine lawn dressing, which brings high prices.—Country Gentleman.

Calf That Never Sucks.

Fix things so the calf can never suck its dam, and when the cow has mothered it for a few hours—don't be in too big a rush about it—milk about three quarts of her milk into a pail, put it up under the calf's nose so as to touch it, and in a minute it will drink from the word go, and you have won out and kept your piety besides, says H. E. Cook in Tribune Farmer. A calf that has never sucked will drink as readily as it will get the hang of finding its own dinner.

The Standard of the Herd.

In starting a herd one thing should not be forgotten. A superior boar may be used on inferior sows with good results, but the use of an inferior boar on sows of high quality will have a disastrous outcome. The one method raises the standard of the herd, the other inevitably lowers it.

GOOD WORK

Done Daily in Dallas.

Nearly every reader has heard of Doan's Kidney Pills. Their good work still continues, and our citizens are constantly adding endorsement by public testimony. No better proof of merit can be had than the experience of friends and neighbors. Read this case:

Mrs. N. Swaggert, of 819 Garden St., Pendleton, Ore., says: "Both my husband and myself have used Doan's Kidney Pills with most gratifying results. Mr. Swaggert was troubled quite severely with his back and kidneys for a long time, and nothing ever helped him as Doan's Kidney Pills have. I have known of the healing and curative power of this remedy for some time, and found that a few doses would quickly remove any lameness or pain in the back caused by kidney derangement. I am glad to help make Doan's Kidney Pills better known to all afflicted with backache or kidney trouble."
