The recent sale of Coraellus Hughes' shoe repairing business to T. Irvine, marked the retirement of another of the few remaining men who have been in active business in this city almost since its beginning. Mr. Hughes says that when he began his work in Dallas in 1864, there were but three men in business here who are still residents of this city. These were Hon. W. C. Brown, J. L. Collins and A. Shultz. Mr. Hughes has been a personal witness of the growth of Dallas from a mere "cross-roads" village to a thriving city of over 2,000 inhabitants, and has seen its property values double, triple and even quadruple themselves.

An effort has been made to scatter the agencies widely throughout Polk county, so that goat raisers in any locality will be able to secure the sacks promptly and with little trouble. H. I. Fenton, secretary of the Polk County Mohair Association, will conduct a meeting of the mohair men of the northern portion of the county, in Sheridan tomorrow.

IOWA BOYS VICTORIOUS

With Fenton Out of Game, and Shaw Crippled, Dallas Goes to Defeat.

Handicapped by the loss of its big forward, Fenton, and by the injured arm which prevented Shaw, the center, from playing his usual game, the basketball team of Dallas College met its first defeat for this season, at the hands of the fast aggregation from Muscatine, Iowa, Tuesday and Wednesday nights. The score in the first game was 21 to 14, and in the second, 15 to 13.

The seats for the first game were all sold before 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, and when the game was called at 8:30 o'clock that night, the gymnasium was packed with the largest throng of spectators that had ever attended a basketball game in this city. Especially large delegations from Bickreall and Independence were present, with their usual striking show of state loyalty and staunch support of the team in crimson as representing the athletic prowess of Oregon against the pick of the Eastern states.

The local team played hard and well but it was clearly a hopeless fight long before the end of the first half, since the absence of Fenton, and the injured condition of Shaw's arm effectually broke up the plays upon which Dallas relies mainly for its scoring. Rice, the substitute for Fenton, played a beautiful game on the floor however, and succeeded in making 8 of the 14 points scored.

The Iowa team seemed to be perfect in goal throwing, and scarcely a shot that they took during the game failed to score, while Dallas seemed to be laboring under adverse fortune in the matter of basket tossing. Superior to their opponents in team work, they secured three shots to Iowa's one, but nearly every time the ball rolled round and round the basket rim and dropped back into the court, while the crowd of rooters fairly howled with exasperation.

In the second game Wednesday evening, Dallas went in with renewed determination, and until the last second of the play it was a mere toss-up which team had the advantage. Dallas again demonstrated its marked superiority in team work, while Iowa showed, if possible, an even greater degree of sureness in its goal throwing than in the previous game. Fuller easily played star for the visiting team, scoring three baskets, two of which were the most sensational long shots ever made in a game on the local floor. Shaw played a much faster game than he had played on the night before and scored another goal, shutting out Littlebridge, the opposing center, for the first time in 64 games. This game was without doubt the fastest that has been played on the local court during the past two years, and it is commonly conceded that had the Dallas team been in its usual condition, with its regular line-up, the tide of victory would probably have been turned in its favor.

The Iowa aggregation left yesterday for Corvallis, where a return game will be played with the O. A. C. five.

Wise Talks

By U. S. Loughary's Office Boy

Did you ever have the grip, ache all over in spots, and have your head feel as though you'd been out the night before trying to make "Milwaukee famous," when in reality you went to bed at 7:30 with an antifoogistine plaster over your wishbone and your system full of hot lemonade and flaxseed tea and your mouth all puckered up with quinine? Pa says there is no parting so bitter as the parting of a quinine capsule just as you are in the act of swallowing it. Ma hasn't any doctor's diploma, but when it comes to things like grip or cold, she knows the proper dope to knock them silly. And when you're coming through, she knows how to make the dandy broth and gelatine and poached eggs and lots of things to bring you right up on the bit and make you feel like old self again. We have all the things and lots more, like olive oil and grape juice and stuff to tone up your system after you have been up against it.
