STRAWBERRIES
WISE TALKS BY U. S. LOUGHARY'S OFFICE BOY

I heard of a farmer who made his first trip through Colorado over what is called "The Scenic Route," handing out objections to the mountain peaks and gorges because he said they obstructed the scenery. The boss says, "It all depends upon your point of view." I was reading about Mr. Todd, the New York banker with skids of money and brown stone houses who is living out in a hut, about twenty miles from nowhere, doing their own house-keeping and eating grublike the poorest people in the world. Mrs. Todd and he are out there to get the fresh air. But with all their money, they can't use up no more than a poor kid like me. Fresh air is so cheap, I guess that's why some folks don't want it. There's bunches of 'em that like a bit of hot air and some sugar-coated flattery. But what most people want is value. And that's what they get when they buy anything of Loughary's Grocery, especially fresh fruits. We are strong on strawberries and they are coming in fine now.

SUPERIOR CLOTHING

You know that its the quality of the wheat and the process of turning it into flour that determines the kind of bread you'll get. Just the same, its the character of materials and the method of making them into garments that decides the wear your boy will get from his clothes.

CARPETS

During the month of June it will be our privilege to exhibit the most exclusive line of carpets ever brought to this city. Particular attention has been paid to getting designs that would please the most fastidious tastes in carpets. Pretty designs when taken with good solid weaving is what makes a carpet to be desired. We can guarantee that our carpets are first-class. We have been asked by some manufacturers to buy seconds in carpets. Some with slight defects, something a customer would never notice, just a few mis-threads, but we declined. Its something you would find out in the time to come and we can not afford that. We have always bought the first-grade and let some one else have the other kind.

Thats what we want you to know and we want you to examine the goods and know for yourself its the truth.
