DALLAS, OREGON, AUGUST 4, 1908.

The way to build up Dallas is to patronize Dallas people.

The new catalogue of the Oregon Agricultural College that has just been issued is bigger and better than ever before, a characteristic which will no doubt apply equally well to valuable rug and table were saved. the school itself in the coming season.

While 50 of our liveliest young men are away in the militia company, fighting imaginary battles at the National Guard encampment at Amerioan Lake, the prevailing and appropriate song among at least some of those who are left behind will no doubt be "Gee! But Aint This a Lonesome Town.'

Boosts For New Road.

The Salem Capital Journal waxes authusiastic over the proposition of building a railroad between Dallas and Salem in the following paragraph. "It now looks as if the Salem. Dallas and Falls City railroad will be built. Saturday about $60,000 was down system as no other tonic can in secured in large subscriptions from which alcohol is used. The active medicseveral Oregoe bankers, and more noney is to be raised this week. About $100,000 more is needed on first mortgage bonds, and as the loan is first-class there should be no difficulty in raising it. Let everybody subscribe something, and let the money be put up with a rush. That is the way to show color and do things right. The old way of hanging back and all doing as little as possible or nothing has killed a great many laudable enterprises, and the habit is a discouraging one.
