The way to build up Dallas is to patronize Dallas people.

BRYAN'S ACCEPTANCE.

Chosen for a third time to represent the Democratic party in its quadrennial struggle for governmental supremacy in the United States, William Jennings Bryan has duly acknowledged the honor conferred upon him in a speech of peculiar interest to the public, inasmuch as it outlines to them the new policies that are to be pursued in the present campaign by that masterly, but somewhat erratic genius in politics.

And on close examination its features of peculiarity are not slow in forthcoming. While his former productions have blazed with rhetorical display, that feature is strangely absent in this speech of acceptance. He trys rather to give it the appearance of a cold, dispassionate, logical discussion of mere facts, and to a remarkable degree he succeeds. Yet throughout the whole address, runs the sub-theme of the demagogue, plainly apparent to him who deigns to read between the lines.

In the very core and central thought of the address this appears most plainly. He asks the question "Shall the people rule?" and leaves the answer to be inferred by his audience, knowing full well that it can and will draw but one inference, and that that inference will draw after it a score of others that will make for the strengthening of his support. A well worn bit of demagoguery this, but one that has served as a life buoy to the Democratic party in more than one hard position. It was on this very plank that the Democratic party in Oregon succeeded in floating to the terra firma of the Initiative and Referendum, with its direct primaries, its "holy Statement" and score of attendant circumstances. A clever device this, for Mr. Bryan to use, but one that could have been employed with equal efficacy by his opponent, Mr. Taft. Unlike the famous French physician's pill that would kill a cobbler but cure a tailor, it is a specific that might be taken by the leader of either party with equally beneficial results.

The other features of the address show a strangely aggressive disposition masking an attitude of extreme caution and care. He ramps and roars 'tis true, yet he does it restrainedly, fearing to frighten the brooding "doubtful vote" from its nest. In selecting his points of assault he chooses carefully, so that no blow may bruise the head of a possible supporter. He refrains from following the suggestions of his party leaders and directly assaulting the administration of Roosevelt, and in this way hopes to make a strong appeal to the Roosevelt Republicans, so called.

In short, he will be a radical, but a cautious radical. He will follow the lines of least resistance. He will "be all things to all men that perchance he may win one." Double defeat has taught him caution, and more than he yearns to serve the commonwealth, he yearns at present to make sure of his election. In consequence he is careful to throw out nothing at the beginning that may prove to be a boomerang later in the campaign. Reduced to its essence and interpreted in its true intent, the famed speech of acceptance is in reality nothing more than a shrewd and well formulated appeal to the American people to give him the presidency, a toy for which he has cried in vain for sixteen years. This is his first and foremost aim, and until he has made sure of it, "the peerless one" apparently prefers to be as non-committal as possible.

Hearst's repudiation of Bryan, while probably failing to strike consternation to the heart of the national committee, is still of some import, for, as Dooley puts it, "it takes all sorts of people to make up the Democratic party and then there are hardly enough."—Tillamook Herald.

Benton county is turning her best efforts at present toward the preparations for her annual industrial fair, and plans to have a finer and larger exhibit than ever before. The plan of holding such fairs, which had its beginnings in the first of Polk county's Industrial Fairs a few years ago is rapidly finding favor throughout Oregon, and may soon become one of the regular features the fall season in all of the counties of this state.

While recognizing Ernest Diebler, who has for nearly two months played fast and loose with the police authorities of the Willamette Valley and of Washington, to be a consummate scoundrel, it is hard for one to keep from admiring the splendid nerve and cool effrontery of the man, and the reckless daring and determination by which he has thus far been able to outwit successfully the combined efforts of detectives and regular police to arrest and bring him to justice.

Ralph E. Williams, republican national committeeman for Oregon shows his good sense in a letter to a prominent Salem man, in which he declares he has no sympathy with the movement to supplant Wm. M. Cake by somebody else as state chairman, or with any other movement looking toward the disruption of the party. He says republicans are all the same to him, whether they favor Statement No. 1 or are opposed to it. That is the kind of talk that will make for a united party.—Harvey County News.

In spite of the fact that some have bewailed Polk county's poor representation at the recent Good Roads' Convention in Portland, we may yet take some consolation from the knowledge that for more than a month, the county has had its new rock crusher on the quarry near Salt Creek busily grinding out the material that will give us such a system of highways throughout Polk county that there will be no need for an apostle to be sent among us, preaching the gospel of good roads and bidding us make our paths straight.

August is probably the most dangerous month of the year for property owners. In addition to the danger of loss from mischievous passing hoboes and other such shady characters, a danger which remains a practically fixed quantity throughout every month of the year, they must also live in constant misgiving on account of the increased probability of destruction of property by fire. Everything that can be burned has had an opportunity to become as dry as tinder under the past weeks of hot rainless weather, and at present everything is ripe for a destructive conflagration should a blaze once gain any headway. A fire in the business portion of the city at this time would, unless promptly discovered and controlled, mean an immeasurable property loss. During such a time, if at no other season in the entire year, the demand for a night watchman becomes imperative, and the citizens should waste no time in securing the appointment of such an officer. Dallas' property is too valuable for her citizens to risk what a single unguarded night might bring forth.

Only A Mask.

Many are not being benefited by the summer vacation as they should be. Now, notwithstanding much outdoor life, they are little if any stronger than they were. The tan on their faces is darker and makes them look healthier, but it is only a mask. They are still nervous, easily tired, upset by trifles, and they do not eat nor sleep well. What they need is what tones the nerves, perfects digestion, creates appetite, and makes sleep refreshing, and that is Hood's Sarsaparilla. Pupils and teachers generally will find the chief purpose of the vacation best subserved by this great medicine which, as we know, "builds up the whole system."

Notice to Contractors.

The clerk of the school board of district No 8 will receive sealed bids for the construction of a schoolhouse in said district. Bids to be filed with the clerk on or before Thursday, August 20, at 10 o'clock a. m. Plans and specifications may be found with the clerk of the school board; in the office of the County School Superintendent; or at the Falls City Bank, in Falls City. The school board reserves the right to reject any or all bids submitted. W. M. Smith, Clerk of School Board, District No. 8, Monmouth R. F. D. 1. 8-11-3t

BUSINESS LOCALS.

[Advertisements under this head are charged at the rate of 1 cent per word, first insertion; ½ cent per word for each insertion thereafter; 30 words or less, $1 per month. No advertisement inserted for less than 15 cents.

Figures count as one word. For instance, the numeral combination "$250" counts as one word.

Two initials count as one word. For instance, "J. M. Jones" counts as two words.

The minimum charge is for 15 words; that is, an advertisement from 1 word to 15 words is counted as 15 words; an advertisement from 16 to 20 words, inclusive, is counted as 20 words; from 21 to 25 words, is counted as 25 words, etc.

The figures following the advertisement indicate how long it is to run, and are not charged to the customer. For instance, 3-21-2t indicates that the advertisement was first published on March 21, and that it is to be inserted twice. The figures and letters 4-1-tf indicate that the advertisement was first published April 1 and that it is to be run until the customer orders it discontinued.]

For this condition take

Hood's Sarsaparilla

It vitalizes the blood and gives vigor and tone to all the organs and functions.

In usual liquid form or in chocolated tablets known as Sarsatabs. 100 doses $1.

A Most Valuable Agent.

The glycerine employed in Dr. Pierce's medicines greatly enhances the medicinal properties which it extracts from native medicinal roots and holds in solution much better than alcohol would. It also possesses medicinal properties of its own, being a valuable demulcent, nutritive, antiseptic and antiferment. It adds greatly to the efficacy of the Black Cherrybark, Bloodroot, Golden Seal root, Stone root and Queen's root, contained in "Golden Medical Discovery" in subduing chronic, or lingering coughs, bronchial, throat and lung affections, for all of which these agents are recommended by standard medical authorities.

In all cases where there is a wasting away of flesh, loss of appetite, with weak stomach, as in the early stages of consumption, there can be no doubt that glycerine acts as a valuable nutritive and aids the Golden Seal root, Stone root, Queen's root and Black Cherrybark in promoting digestion and building up the flesh and strength, controlling the cough and bringing about a healthy condition of the whole system. Of course, it must not be expected to work miracles. It will not cure consumption except in its earlier stages. It will cure very severe, obstinate, hang-on, chronic coughs, bronchial and laryngeal troubles, and chronic sore throat with hoarseness. In acute coughs it is not so effective. It is in the lingering hang-on coughs, or those of long standing, even when accompanied by bleeding from lungs, that it has performed its most marvelous cures.

Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Med. College, Chicago, says of glycerine:

"In dyspepsia it serves an excellent purpose. [illegible] it is one of the best manufactured products of the present time in its action upon enfeebled, disordered stomachs, especially if there is ulceration or catarrhal gastritis (catarrhal inflammation of stomach), it is a most efficient preparation. Glycerine will relieve many cases of pyrosis (heartburn) and excessive gastric (stomach) acidity."

"Golden Medical Discovery" enriches and purifies the blood curing blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings and old sores, or ulcers.

Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., for free booklet telling all about the native medicinal roots composing this wonderful medicine. There is no alcohol in it.
