THE WRITING REFORM.

News comes from San Francisco that the vertical system of writing has been abandoned and the old Spencerian hand adopted in the public schools of that city. This has resulted because of the demands made by business men for a free and easy hand, and one that is legible and shows the individuality of the writer, which is not true of the vertical hand. With the change of the system, all children have to be taught writing all over again and a writing master has been employed to visit every school in that city and give instructions. The change is received with delight by all concerned, as the vertical system has been given a long trial and found wanting.—Oregonian.

A wise step for our sister state and she deserves praise for making the change in a single step instead of trying to do it gradually. In its effort to get back once more from the vertical to the Spencerian style, Oregon schools have adopted a mongrel style called the "medial system," which retains the objectionable features of the vertical system without achieving the merits of the Spencerian, and which must sooner or later be abandoned for a complete return to the old flowing hand—the hand that combines speed and legibility with character.

The vertical system attains the maximum of legibility, at a sacrifice of speed and ease, and the almost complete eradication of individuality in hand writing. A signature in the vertical is the easiest thing in the world to forge for the reason that it is not a signature in the true sense of the word, but merely a laborious drawing. The Spencerian system, on the other hand, with its flowing arm movement, reaches the maximum of speed and individuality with a scarcely appreciable loss in legibility. Every line is clear, bold and strongly defined, possessing character that is inimitable. The handwriting of two persons using the Spencerian style may be equal in legibility but one will never be mistaken for the other, while vertical writers are turned out like so many table legs, equally round, equally symmetrical, but equally devoid of character, so that the papers handed in by half a dozen pupils in our public schools often look as though they had all been written by one person.

It is indeed to be hoped that the time is not far distant, when the vertical, medial, backhand and all other such excrescences on the noble art of chirography, shall have been consigned to the oblivion that they richly deserve, and the system shall again come into use whereby school children may learn to write with speed and clearness without having to sacrifice the personality which alone makes handwriting beautiful.

William Taft definitely stated his views on the subject of tariff revision and the method he intended using in dealing with it, in case he becomes president, in the following words last Saturday:

"If elected," he said, "I shall call the Sixty-first Congress together in extraordinary session to revise the tariff at the very earliest moment. I have authority to do so. I consider such action to be my obligation under the tariff plank of the Republican platform." This statement was made before Mr. Taft had received or had an opportunity to read Mr. Bryan's recent tariff speech. It was made without any reference to what the Democratic nominee had said upon the subject, but was a plain, straight-forward, matter-of-fact reply to a query as to how Mr. Taft interpreted the Republican tariff plank. And thereby is another frayed string of the Democratic harp, on which our friends the enemy have so long been playing "doloroso," effectively broken and silenced. Now perhaps they will give us a short rest while they are hunting for some other theme to set to minor music.

Fingers Mangled in Separator.

James Miller, of Bridgeport, seriously injured his right hand this morning while working with a threshing crew in that vicinity. Mr. Miller attempted to clean a part of the machinery while it was in motion and his hand became entangled, the fingers being cut and mangled in a terrible manner. He was brought to Dallas at once for medical assistance, but unfortunately none of the local physicians were in the city at the time, and he was forced to go on to Independence, after having the injured hand temporarily cleansed and dressed at one of the drug stores. It was thought from the nature of the injuries that it would be necessary to amputate some of the crushed fingers.

Big Log Drive.

Ten million feet of lumber is being taken down the Willamette river by the Spaulding Logging Company in the form of an enormous log drive containing timber for use in the Spaulding mills in Salem and the paper mills at Oregon City. The drive passed Independence last week and is now in the neighborhood of Salem, where three million feet of yellow fir will be taken out of the river for sawing, and the remainder will be driven on to Oregon City. The majority of the logs are fir and pine and were cut in the Spaulding camps on the McKenzie river near Walterville.

Notice to Contractors.

BUSINESS LOCALS.

[Advertisements under this head are charged at the rate of 1 cent per word, first insertion; ½ cent per word for each insertion thereafter; 30 words or less, $1 per month. No advertisement inserted for less than 15 cents.

Figures count as one word. For instance, the numeral combination "$250" counts as one word.

Two initials count as one word. For instance, "J. M. Jones" counts as two words.

The minimum charge is for 15 words; that is, an advertisement from 1 word to 15 words is counted as 15 words; an advertisement from 16 to 20 words, inclusive, is counted as 20 words; from 21 to 25 words, is counted as 25 words, etc.

The figures following the advertisement indicate how long it is to run, and are not charged to the customer. For instance, 3-31-2t indicates that the advertisement was first published on March 31, and that it is to be inserted twice. The figures and letters 4-1-tf indicate that the advertisement was first published April 1 and that it is to be run until the customer orders it discontinued.]

Bad Symptoms.

The woman who has periodical headaches, backache, sees imaginary dark spots or specks floating or dancing before her eyes, has gnawing distress or heavy full feeling in stomach, faint spells, dragging-down feeling in lower abdominal or pelvic region, easily startled or excited, irregular or painful periods, with or without pelvic catarrh, is suffering from weaknesses and derangements that should have early attention. Not all of above symptoms are likely to be present in any case at one time.

Neglected or badly treated and such cases often run into maladies which demand the surgeon's knife if they do not result fatally.

No medicine extant has such a long and numerous record of cures in such cases as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. No medicine has such a strong professional indorsement of each of its several ingredients—worth more than any number of ordinary non-professional testimonials. The very best ingredients known to medical science for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments enter into its composition. No alcohol, harmful, or habit-forming drug is to be found in the list of its ingredients printed on each bottle-wrapper and attested under oath.

In any condition of the female system, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can do only good—never harm. Its whole effect is to strengthen, invigorate and regulate the whole female system and especially the pelvic organs. When these are deranged in function or affected by disease, the stomach and other organs of digestion become sympathetically deranged, the nerves are weakened, and a long list of bad, unpleasant symptoms follow. Too much must not be expected of this "Favorite Prescription." It will not perform miracles; will not cure tumors—no medicine will. It will often prevent them, if taken in time, and thus the operating table and the surgeon's knife may be avoided.

Women suffering from diseases of long standing, are invited to consult Doctor Pierce by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser (1000 pages) is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound copy. Address as above.
