RINK WILL SOON OPEN
 Skating Season Will Begin at the Colosseum Thursday Evening, October 1.
 W. J. White has sold his interest in the Colosseum skating rink to his partner, Frank Kerslake, who will conduct the big amusement hall alone during the coming season, and on Thursday night, October 1, the skating season will be commenced.
 Mr. Kerslake has been busy early and late with the work of cleaning, oiling and repairing the skates and putting the floor in condition so that the season can be commenced with everything in ship-shape order and as good as new.
 George Brown, the skillful trick skater and fancy dancer, who resigned from his position as floor manager early last spring, has accepted the place once more and will be back on the floor upon the opening night. Assisted by a corps of able and skillful instructors, he will conduct the rink in the best possible manner and Mr. Kerslake anticipates a larger and more constant patronage at the rink during the coming season than ever before.
 Later on, after the skating season is well under way and the new beginners have had a fair opportunity to grasp the rudiments of the art of roller skating, special features in the form of masked skating parties, invitation skating parties, ghost walks and other pleasant forms of entertainment will be introduced to make the Colosseum rink one of the most popular and attractive amusement resorts in the city.
Quarterly Inspection of Company H.
 The Quarterly Inspection of Company H., O. N. G. was held in the drill room in the Armory, Saturday evening. Captain Chierping having come down from Eugene for the purpose of conducting the inspection. After the close of that business the captain gave a short address to the men of the company, announcing his intention of resigning from the command, since his business made it necessary for him to change his residence from Dallas to Eugene. He commended the men highly and at the close of his speech recommended that they choose First Lieutenant Bollman as his successor, since Mr. Bollman, by virtue of his office, was the next officer in line for the promotion. After the dismissal of the company the men who had served at the encampment at American Lake were summoned to the captain's headquarters, where they received their pay from the State of Oregon for their work.

Nairn's Collies at State Fair.
 Ten Scotch Collie dogs of the best quality ever seen at an agricultural fair, comprised the canine exhibit at the State Fair, with C. D. Nairn, of Ballston, the veteran dog fancier and breeder, as superintendent. They were benched under a tent in the rear of the poultry pavilion and considerably crowded for room. It is to be hoped that the fair board will set aside a few hundred dollars of its funds and have a suitable building erected for the dog show for the 1909 fair. Mr. Nairn (should he be the superintendent again) will guarantee a showing of at least fifty Collies from different parts of the state, besides bringing over a large number of his own beauties. At the fair just closed he had two Collies, one of them being the imported "Inverness Prince" (male), the other "Shad-land Fidgett" a brood bitch; both received blue ribbons and "Fidgett" was awarded the special premium for being the best female dog in the show.—Pacific Homestead.
