LOGGER CRUSHED TO DEATH

Clarence M. Vermilion, Employee of Falls City Logging Company, Meets Fearful Fate.

Clarence N. Vermilion, an employee of the Falls City Logging Company, who was crushed to death under a log Wednesday afternoon, is the second man within less than a week's time, to become a victim to the sudden and unforeseen accidents that make the work of a logger one of the most haz-ardous of the various lines of labor on the Pacific Coast.

The accident occurred about three o'clock in the afternoon, while a num-ber of logs were being pulled down out of the timber with the donkey engine. Vermilion was employed as a line tender. The line caught in some manner and when it sprung free with a sudden jerk, caught him and pinned him to the log which rolled over his body, crushing and bruising his head and fairly grinding his chest and thighs to a pulp. Death was practically instantaneous.

The body was brought to Dallas, Wednesday evening, where Coroner Chapman dressed and cared for it and yesterday it was given into the charge of W. E. Johnston, a brother-in-law of the deceased, who will take the body to Jefferson City, Kansas, his native city for burial.

Vermilion was unmarried and was about 28 years of age. Both of his parents are dead and he is survived only by his sister, Mrs. Johnston, of Little Falls, Washington, and two two brothers.

The accident in which he met his death was entirely unexpected and could not be avoided and it is con-ceded that no blame can be attached to anyone for the unfortunate occur-rence.

SAWMILL MAY BE CLOSED

Spaulding Company Will Probably Suspend Operations Owing to Dis-agreement Over Water Rights.

It is rumored that the Spaulding Logging Company contemplates clos-ing its sawmill in Dallas and calling in its men from the camps above this city for an indefinite time owing to difficulties in arriving at a satisfac-tory agreement with certain of the property owners along the LaCreole, who claim that the logs and the flood-ing necessary to bring them down from the camps to the sawmill are injuring their land.

B. C. Miles, manager of the com-pany, was in Dallas last week looking into the matter, but, as yet, the direc-tors have taken no definite action upon it.

In a letter, replying to a message of inquiry sent from the Observer, Mr. Miles says:

"The writer visited your city last week for the purpose of coming to a satisfactory agreement with some of the parties owning property along the river, who complained that the logs were damaging their places. I found some of these parties very reasonable and had no difficulty in coming to an understanding with them. Others, who were very slightly damaged, demanded that we spend a large sum in planking the banks or buy their land at much more than its actual value. Others asked that we keep the water from overflowing their land during the winter freshets.

"To satisfy these parties would require an outlay of from $3000 to $3000 and after the money was spent, we have no assurance that we would not be called upon for additional expense.

"I have called a meeting of our directors and will lay the matter before them with the recommendation that we suspend extensive operations on the LaCreole river if we cannot come to a reasonable solution of the matter."

The Dallas sawmill and the logging camps from which it secures its timber furnish employment for from 80 to 125 men. Its payroll last year, although the mill was closed for several months during the financial depression, amounted to nearly $50,000. Should the company decide to suspend operations indefinitely it would mean the cutting off of an annual pay roll of more than $50,000, more than 100 men thrown out of employment and the cessation of one of the important industries that has proven a potent factor in the rebuilding of the city of Dallas.

The directors of the Spaulding Log-ging Company have not yet made a definite decision as to what course they will pursue, but at present it seems likely that they will determine to sus-pend operations in Dallas indefinitely, unless an equitable agreement with the complaining property owners can be arrived at.

Frank Kerslake, proprietor of the Colosseum rink, is negotiating with parties in Portland for a series of races between skaters of that city and George Brown. The races will be held in this city and will no doubt prove to be a popular attraction at the rink.

The members of the Christian Endeavor of the Presbyterian Church were pleasantly entertained at the home of Miss Jessie Wiseman, Wed-nesday evening. The evening was spent in an enjoyable social manner and light refreshments were served.

The cement crosswalk on Main street between the Vaudette and Boyd's grocery is completed, and another will be built across the street at the middle of the block on the west side of the Courthouse square. It is probable that the crosswalks throughout the entire business district will be changed to concrete.

An audience of between 50 and 60 people attended the Democratic speak-ing at the Courthouse, Tuesday night, when Colonel Robert Miller, of Port-land, gave an address on the issues of the present campaign. Colonel Miller is an excellent speaker, and his address was appreciated by all who attended regardless of their political views.

WISE TALKS BY U. S. LOUGHARY'S OFFICE BOY

The boss told me Saturday night that if he heard any one say I was a good-hearted boy I might go home and stay there. "When they can't say anything good about you," he went on to explain, "they'll say you are a good-hearted fellow, which is just about the same as saying you are no account." I spunked up a bit and said, "What am I to be when I'm not good-hearted?" He came right back at me and says: "I want you to be known as a hustler, and when they see you wheel up in front of their place I want them to know that their order has arrived right on time, and that it will open up just as they expected it would when they bought it, without any omissions or com-missions; well, sir, there are certainly no commissions or tips of any kind on this job, and not much chance for any omissions for the reason that the old man watches us too closely. He is good natured, all right, if every-thing goes right, but if anything goes wrong, he makes it right and that's no fair tale. You should see what a lot of home product we are selling now. Dallas bread, butter, cookies and cakes give perfect satisfaction and the boss takes pleasure in selling them.
