FAVORS APPROPRIATION

Representative B. F. Jones Wants Oregon to Shine at Alaska-Yukon Exposition.

B. F. Jones, of Independence, representative-elect from Polk and Lincoln counties, believes that the legislature ought to appropriate $50,000 for the additional use of the Oregon commission to the Alaska-Yukon exposition if the commission can show that they need the money. He also holds that the Washington exposition will be of as great benefit to Oregon as the Lewis and Clark exposition was in 1905.

When Dan Malarkey asked the legislature for $500,000 for the Lewis and Clark exposition I seconded his request, said Mr. Jones recently. "When I returned home a lot of my people jumped on me for what I had done. They see how the country has grown since the exposition and they realize that it was the exposition that started it. If the thing was to be done over again, my constituents would pat me on my back if I voted for $1,000,000 appropriation.

"The Washington exposition is next door to us," continued Mr. Jones. "The people who come to see that show will come to see Oregon. Therefore I believe that Oregon ought either to keep clear out of the show or go in with the intention of beating Washington in exhibits and advertising efforts. If we go up there we ought to go up to win all blue ribbons, and we can if we go after them. Therefore if the Oregon commission needs $50,000 more I think the legislature ought to give it to them."

Representative Jones is still working for the success of his Willamette locks bill, and hopes to be able to pass it through the next session.—Portland Journal.

Farm and Garden

AN INEXPENSIVE ICEHOUSE.

No Reason Why the Farmer Should Be Without It.

An icehouse and cool room may be constructed as follows: Excavate a half cellar in a perfectly dry place, from which the surface slopes (or may be made to slope) in all directions, so as to prevent danger of moisture from want of drainage. A stone or brick wall is built around this and laid in hydraulic cement. The floor is cemented. A frame or other building is built upon this basement to contain the ice. Twelve feet square will be large enough for a moderate sized family, as an icehouse of that size will hold about twenty loads or tons of ice.

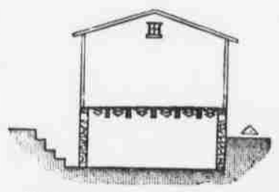

FIG. I.—ICEHOUSE AND COOL ROOM.

The main point is the division between the icehouse and the room below it. This must be perfectly air tight and a moderately good conductor of heat. The floor may be laid in the following manner:

Beams of sufficient strength are laid across and the ends well bedded in cement. A floor of zinc sheets is then laid upon the beams, the sheets being closely nailed to the beams upon strips of rubber sheeting to make the joints water and air tight. The beams should be dressed smoothly. The zinc sheets are bent, as shown in the illustration (Fig. 2). This is for the purpose of causing the moisture, which will condense upon the underside of this ceiling, to flow downward to the lower angle, where it will drip. The drip is caught in the little gutters of zinc shown in the figure attached to the ceiling and is carried off by a proper drain. With this water will also be carried off much of the impurity of the atmosphere, and if very little ventilation is given there will be little condensation and the air will be kept dry. This point must be well attended to, as the danger of excessive ventilation is very great. The beams and zinc ceiling should be painted with white paint—lead and oil.

Above the zinc ceiling a thin layer of dry, fresh sawdust should be laid smoothly, and a floor of matched pine boards should be laid upon that and thoroughly coated with melted pitch. This floor should slope a little to one corner so as to draw the waste water from the ice there, and an S trap drain should be laid from that to carry off the water into the drain above mentioned. The usual layer of sawdust is laid upon this floor to prevent too rapid conveyance of heat from below to the ice above. Small double windows should be used in the cool chamber below to prevent access of heat from the outside, and they should be fitted air tight. Ventilation should be provided for by means of a wooden pipe with a slide, by which the opening can be regulated. By carefully regulating the ventilation the air may be kept dry.

Market Hogs.

What kind of hog will bring the most money in the market, and what breed will make the best market hog? These are questions hard to answer definitely. Markets vary as to the class of hogs that will sell at the top. When lard is at a premium the hog that yields a large amount of lard is the market topper, and that means the heavy, thick, fat hog. When lard is below other products this kind of hog sells for less than the light weight which will make handy pork loins and good hams without too much fat on them. Taking one year with another in eastern markets, the hog of 180 to 200 pounds will lift the top oftener than any other weight. In western markets hogs of around 250 pounds will probably average best. Sometimes lighter or heavier hogs will outsell these grades, according to the fluctuations in price of the product. In summer hog prices cover the widest range because there is the greatest difference in the yield of product at this season. In the winter all hogs are corn fed and yield more uniform quantities of product. In summer many are grassers that make low yields and of inferior quality to corn fed hogs. A 200 pound hog that dresses 80 per cent yields 160 pounds, one that dresses 75 per cent yields 150 pounds, and one that dresses 70 per cent yields only 140 pounds, an enormous difference in a carload of hogs, which the buyer makes allowance for in buying them on foot. As a rule, of late the best hogs have been the cheapest on the hooks at the top of the market because they have yielded so much more product than the others, which looked cheaper to the inexperienced observer. As to the breed that killers like best, probably more would answer Berkshire than any other breed. But hogs are what killers want, and the kind they want will top the market, whether black, white, red or spotted.

Remedy For Cowpox.

Oxide of zinc ointment rubbed on the cow's bag morning and night is a very good remedy for cowpox. The disease is carried from cow to cow on the hands of the milker, so when the disease is in the herd milkers should wash their hands carefully after milking each cow. Do not use the milk from affected cows until they are cured.

HIDDEN DANGERS

Nature Gives Timely Warnings That No Dallas Citizen Can Afford to Ignore.

The kidneys are bean-shaped organs, composed of masses of little tubes, all of which pour their secretions into a main channel that leads to the bladder. In this way the kidneys pass off more than an ounce of poison every day when in health. But it does not take much to set the kidneys back, and when they get behind, they cannot right themselves without help. The uric acid begins to clog the kidneys, causing that dull, heavy aching in the back, and sharp twinges when stooping or lifting. It crystallizes in the muscles and joints, and every turn or twist brings keenest torture. It attacks the nerves with neuralgia, and sciatica, it brings headache, dizziness, languor and disorders of the urine. Try a good kidney medicine, if you have any of the above symptoms. There is nothing else so prompt and effective as Doan's Kidney Pills, and this remedy has no effect on the other organs, except to drive out the uric poison that interrupts their action. It cures the kidneys and thus ends the cause of disease. Rich, pure blood and lasting health result.

Home proof is convincing evidence of the efficiency of Doan's Kidney Pills. Call at Belt & Cherrington's drug store and ask to see statements of Dallas people who have used this remedy.
