

Deafness Cannot Be Cured
 by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

ONLY A DEAD HEN.
 Lay her down gently in the sweet earth. She's only a hen, 'tis true. But how snowy her feathers, how noble her birth! And she did her best for you.
 Her comb was as red as a rose in June. How she trilled at work or play, And how she cackled in lively tune As she sang her fondlest!

You were proud of your beautiful snow white hen As you smoothed her glossy breast. You loved her most of the hens in the pen. She was prettiest and best.

weather proved conclusively that those provided with a tight roof did not contain nearly as much frozen sludge as those left open.

The freezing of sludge does not necessarily mean a loss, as it may be thawed out and made fit for feeding and when properly attended to need not rot or mold. The frozen sludge may be often thawed by mixing with the warm sludge at the center of the silo. It is generally considered dangerous to feed frozen sludge.

In order to secure a first class concrete silo it is necessary that good materials, well mixed in the right proportions, be used in preparing the concrete and that the whole be skillfully handled. If these requirements are fulfilled the writers upon investigation are confident that no better silo can be erected than one constructed of concrete. The investigations, however, would indicate that it is not advisable for the man with no experience with concrete construction to attempt the building of a concrete silo. The expense involved is too great for the individual farmer who has not previously constructed buildings of concrete to experiment. The work should be turned over to the concrete contractor under a guarantee that only a first class silo be built.

Among the desirable features of the concrete silo or any masonry silo are mentioned that it is essentially fire proof. A silo was found in use in Wisconsin which had withstood a fire that burned all the surrounding buildings.

How Long Are Cows Profitable?
 In my opinion, a milk cow remains valuable as long as she breeds and continues to give enough milk and butter fat to pay a reasonable dividend over and above cost of keep. The oldest cow I have is nine years old, and I don't remember having kept any until older. I find my cows after their eighth year begin to taper off in quantity of milk produced, though they would last longer if they had not been "crowded" so hard in former years. My experience and observation of Holstein cows lead me to believe that the decrease is gradual from the high point of efficiency, much as the increase from "freshness" on its gradual, but that the period of lactation is not shortened in the slightest.

I believe a good cow, one that has paid good dividends all her life, should be kept until she can no longer pay for her feed. And if she has been an exceptional cow she should be kept as long as she will breed, as calves from such a cow have every chance to become as good as or better than the dam, and great cows are not as yet very common.—R. B. Young in Farmers' Review.

Prevent Frozen Troughs.
 When watering stock from a stock well bore a hole in your trough, sharpen a pin and use for stopper. Make a lead from trough back into well. If your stock falls to drink all the water pumped into the trough remove stopper and water will run back into well. Your trough will then never be full of frozen water.

 Lay her down gently in the sweet earth. She's only a hen, 'tis true. But how snowy her feathers, how noble her birth! And she did her best for you.

 But the gleam has gone from her bright bay eye. Her white wing is stretched and stiff. For beset with illness, must die. We may prize them as we will.

CONCRETE SILOS.
Fireproof and Practically Frost Proof When Properly Constructed.
 It is desirable to prevent the freezing of sludge in the silo during cold weather as far as possible, and the silo of a construction to prevent freezing to the largest degree is the preferable one, other things being equal, says a bulletin issued by the Iowa experiment station. It is difficult to make a comparison between the merits of the various types of silos in this respect owing to the inability to find them under like conditions. Freezing of sludge is due to loss of heat, first, through the silo wall and, second, to the air in contact with the feeding surface. The first loss may be reduced by using a nonconducting wall in the silo and the second by preventing the circulation of air above the sludge in the silo.

It may be impartially said that as far as the prevention of freezing of sludge is concerned the stave, stone, single wall-brick and concrete silos are of equal merit. When properly made, however, the double wall concrete silo is perhaps the most nearly frost proof of all. The conducting material between the walls consists only in small metal ties, and the circulation of air may be cut off by the insertion of horizontal tar paper partitions. When the top of the silo is open and a free circulation of air permitted it is almost impossible to prevent the surface from freezing in severe weather. A personal investigation of silos in cold weather proved conclusively that those provided with a tight roof did not contain nearly as much frozen sludge as those left open.

The freezing of sludge does not necessarily mean a loss, as it may be thawed out and made fit for feeding and when properly attended to need not rot or mold. The frozen sludge may be often thawed by mixing with the warm sludge at the center of the silo. It is generally considered dangerous to feed frozen sludge.

In order to secure a first class concrete silo it is necessary that good materials, well mixed in the right proportions, be used in preparing the concrete and that the whole be skillfully handled. If these requirements are fulfilled the writers upon investigation are confident that no better silo can be erected than one constructed of concrete. The investigations, however, would indicate that it is not advisable for the man with no experience with concrete construction to attempt the building of a concrete silo. The expense involved is too great for the individual farmer who has not previously constructed buildings of concrete to experiment.  The Secret of a Beautiful Face lies in keeping the skin protected as well as cleaned. Just washing is not enough—that only leaves the delicate surface more exposed to the irritation of dust and germs; to merciless attacks of sun and weather. After washing, apply Robertine and experience its delightful refreshment. You will admire the line-lessness it imparts to face, neck and arms. It not only stimulates a radiant glow, but protects the skin from becoming coarse. Prevents burning, tan and freckles.

A TREACHEROUS TROUBLE
 If You Suffer From Headaches and Dizzy Spells Do Not Mistake The Cause.

The headaches and dizzy feelings that trouble so many persons are often late symptoms of kidney complaint. Nature gives early warnings of every disease, if you would but note and heed them. Backache, twinges of pain when sleeping or lifting, headache, faint spells and urinary disorders are among the first warnings of kidney trouble. If these signals are unheeded, there comes a steady, dull heavy aching in the back and joints, a noticeable weakness and loss of flesh, rheumatic attacks, swelling of the sight, irregular heart action, languor, attacks of gravel, irregular passages of the kidney secretions, sediment, painful, scalding sensation, dropsical bloating, etc. But there is no need to suffer long. Doan's Kidney Pills cure all kidney troubles. This remedy has made a reputation for quick relief and lasting cures.

Home proof is convincing evidence of the efficiency of this remedy. Call at Belt & Cherrington's drug store and to see the statements of Dallas people who have used this remedy.

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and no other.
