Surveying crews of the Oregon Electric are working out of Forest Grove establishing lines that parallel the track of the Southern Pacific. The lines have been staked out as far as Gaston. The lines run in the center of the main street of that city, according to reports coming from that section. Moreover, it is the general opinion that the line will be extended as far as Corvallis, as the surveyors when at Gaston asked what sort of country they would encounter. When asked "Do you intend to go up to Corvallis, then?" the chief of the crew said "No!" in a rather non-plussed fashion.

LONG LIFE ENDED

MRS. ELIZA EMMONS DIES AT AGE OF NINETY-TWO YEARS. Was Pioneer of 1852 and Oldest Woman in Dallas, Where She Had Resided Sixty-One Years. Mrs. Eliza G. Emmons, a pioneer of 1852 and the oldest woman in Dallas, died at her home yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, after an illness of ten days. Her death was the result of the decline due to old age.

Notwithstanding the fact that Mrs. Emmons had passed the age of four score and twelve, her mind had remained unimpaired and she retained her faculties until the end.

Mrs. Eliza G. Emmons was born October 14, 1817, in Logan County, Ohio, and was a descendant of an old English family that had early made America their home.

Her father, Lott Garwood, was born in Virginia in 1792 and died in Ohio in 1857. His wife was Ruth Branson, a native of Virginia. To this union three children were born. Mrs. Emmons being the second child.

In 1825, at the age of 18 years, Miss Garwood became the bride of John H. Robb, a native of Pennsylvania. Seventeen years after their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Robb crossed the plains to Oregon, reaching Polk County September 26, 1852. They located on a donation claim near Bethel, but later returned to Dallas, where they had stopped previous to the settlement on the claim.

After another effort at farming, this time a short distance south of Dallas, Mr. Robb took a trip to California. He died in the Fall of 1881, at the age of 47 years.

On January 18, 1882 Mrs. Robb was again married, her second husband being Johannes Emmons, a native of New York who had crossed the plains to Oregon in 1852. Mr. Emmons was a man of excellent business and clerical ability, and as a Republican, he held several political offices in Polk County, among them being County Treasurer, Deputy Court Clerk and Postmaster of Dallas.

He successfully conducted a general merchandise store in Dallas for several years, and afterward engaged in farming two miles east of town. He died June 16, 1902, at the age of 82 years.

Mrs. Emmons left no family, her only child having died in infancy. She had, however, been a kind mother to many orphan children, there having been no time in her younger years when she did not have in her home one or more motherless boys or girls. The late Newman Garwood and the late W. C. Brown were among those who had made their home with Mrs. Emmons in their boyhood.

She also adopted and raised from childhood, Mrs. J. S. Cooper, of Independence, and Mrs. Anna Coad, of this city. Mrs. Emmons was a woman of wide-reading and was a delightful companion. She possessed a keen memory of persons and events, and in her old age was able to vividly recall circumstances and incidents dating back as far as 1830.

She was a devoutly religious woman and was a faithful member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The funeral services will be conducted at the residence tomorrow (Wednesday) afternoon at 2 o'clock, by the Rev. M. E. Spahr.
