Builds Another Cottage.
G. E. Culler is building a pretty little cottage on the lot east of his residence on Washington street.

Profitable Hogs.
Frank Longhary came to town last week with eleven hogs, about 8 or 9 months old, and received $218.40 for them. Verily, the pig was right when he said, "If you want to ride in an automobile, raise a pig."

Assists in Operation.
Dr. A. B. Starbuck went to Salem today to assist in a delicate operation on the wife of his friend, Dr. C. H. Robertson. Mrs. Robertson has long been a sufferer from kidney trouble and this operation was resorted to in the hope of saving her life.

Changes Street Plans.
The city council passed an ordinance last night providing for a new method of building macadam streets. Hereafter the streets will be graded with a higher crown, giving better drainage and keeping the macadam drier in the rainy months. Councilman Acres reported many defective sidewalks and the Marshal was instructed to notify the property-owners to make the needed improvements without delay.

Your Stationery.
There is a satisfaction in using good stationery. It advertises your business. It brings business to you. If the man who receives your letter is favorably impressed with your stationery, he will form a similar opinion of your business, even though he has never visited your store. The Observer prints the good kind. It prints no other kind. It wants the work of the man who is particular of the man who cares. It has the paper, the type, and the presses—and it has men who know how to use them to get the best results for you. May we have your next order?

Notice.
I have opened a Real Estate office in the City Hall building on Court street, opposite Gail Hotel, and I am now in line to handle all kinds of property. I shall endeavor at all times to give my patrons a square deal.
Yours for business,
EDWIN JACOBSON.

SET DATE FOR SALE

MOHAIR POOL WILL BE OFFERED AT AUCTION, APRIL 16.

Home Market Improves and Eastern Competition Indicates There Will Be Lively Bidding.

The Polk County mohair pool will be sold April 16. This date was decided upon at a well-attended meeting of growers in Dallas, Saturday afternoon. It is believed that the pool will consist of about 75,000 pounds of hair, but the amount may be a little less, as many goats have been shipped out of the county in the last year. Secretary H. L. Fenton urges upon all growers the necessity of reporting at the earliest possible date the number of fleeces each will be able to furnish.

Goat-raisers of Oregon expect a highly profitable market for mohair this season, says yesterday's Oregonian. The prospects for good prices are better than they have been for several years, as stocks of old mohair are now entirely cleaned up and the new clip will come on a bare market, something that has not occurred for many seasons.

Mohair prices in Oregon in the past few years have ranged from 21 to 25 cents, and the growers believe they will receive more this year. Last year the opening quotations were 23 to 25 cents. A few small lots of the 1910 clip have already changed hands at prices ranging from 23 to 25 cents. The bulk of the output will be disposed of in the customary manner, by means of auction pools. The largest pool will be that of the Polk County Mohair Growers' Association.

What the goat-raisers believe will prove an influential factor in the coming market will be the home demand for mohair. It is expected that the new Multnomah Mohair Mills will be on the market for a considerable quantity of hair, and the competition between the local buyers and the buyers for the various Eastern mills is likely to give a healthy tone to the market.

YOUR HOME TOWN

Next to Family and Business, It Deserves Your Energies.

Next to a man's family, his personal friends and his business, nothing should arouse his energies in its behalf more thoroughly than the town in which he lives, particularly remarks the Astoria Star. It is his home. It is the place in which he earns his competence and educates his family. If he wants to make it as populous, as thrifty and as widely known as possible, he cannot afford to be indifferent to anything which will further those ends.

It can be said a town that is not worthy of the devotion of its citizens in making it widely and generally prosperous is a town in which it is not worth while to live at all. If a town is worth anything it is worthy of our greatest energy, whether we receive an immediate dividend in dollars and cents, or whether we merely take our share of the common benefits accruing to the town and community we call home.

Everyone can be a booster. Keep your money at home. Patronize those who patronize you. Spend your money among home institutions where you stand a good chance to get it back. Every dollar you spend with a home man finds its way back to your pocket. A dollar spent here goes to help build up your home town. Figure it down fine and you lose money by buying away from home, even if you do get the article for less than what it cost you at home.
