J. C. HAYTER, EDITOR AND PUBLISHER. Published Semi-Weekly at $1.50 per Year. Strictly in Advance.

Entered as second class matter March 1, 1907, at the post office at Dallas, Oregon, under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

DALLAS, OREGON, JUNE 17, 1910.

The way to build up Dallas is to patronize Dallas people.

A FINAL WORD.

Next Wednesday afternoon, the Republicans of Polk County will hold their precinct primaries. These primaries have been called for the purpose of electing delegates to a county assembly to be held in Dallas on Saturday, June 25.

The county assembly will elect twenty-nine delegates to the state assembly and will also recommend a ticket for the consideration of Republican voters at the regular primary election to be held in September.

All assertions to the effect that the purpose of the proposed assembly is to destroy the direct primary law are unworthy of serious notice. The purpose of the Republican assembly is to preserve the Republican party. Meetings such as the Republicans of Oregon are planning to hold cannot act in other than an advisory capacity, so far as the selection of candidates is concerned.

The Observer does not deem it necessary to say more in favor of the assembly. The position and views of this newspaper are thoroughly understood by all of its readers. The Observer believes in party organization. It believes that the rights of the people are best protected and the most beneficial results in government obtained by the maintenance of political parties. It believes that in maintaining a political organization, the members thereof have the right to assemble together and take such proper steps as are necessary for their welfare, as well as to let the people know where it stands on questions affecting their interests. It believes the people of free America have still, as they had in the beginning, "the right peaceably to assemble."

Folk is one Oregon county that has never been given to chasing after Populist gods.

The Eugene Register refers to the recent heavy showers as "The Million Dollar Rain." The figures are probably not overdrawn.

W. P. Elmore for Congress; Leslie Butler for Treasurer; C. J. Bright for Supervisor. Judges. These names will have a familiar ring to the print shops that have been turning out the election ballots in Oregon for the last twenty years.

Of course, George Brownell opposes the assembly. The plan is not strong in Clackamas, and George wants to get back in the Senate again. The Initiative and Referendum and Statement No. 1 is the price the Republicans of Oregon paid to keep George Brownell in the Legislature from a Populist county all those years. And George wasn't worth it.

Typing machines have come in to see through their ability to rush things through at a fast rate, but when a fine job is desired to be turned out, the type is set by hand. The reason why the Inland Printer, conceded by all to be the finest example of the printing art in the United States, is set on a machine. When the day arrives that old-fashioned, worn-out type is better than new type, the above argument will probably hold good.

Who Wants a Gasoline Engine? If any farmer in Polk County is thinking of purchasing a gasoline engine and wants a big bargain, he is requested to call or write to the Observer office. The engine for sale is practically as good as new; will run any machinery on a farm, and will be sold at a very low price. Here is a bargain for the lucky man who gets it, so do not delay.

Carl Wood, of Portland, came up Wednesday for a short visit at his home in this city.

A DEMOCRATIC VIEW.

(Weston Leader.) So much to do over the republican assembly is tiresome. If a certain number of republicans wish to get together and recommend certain men for certain offices, well and good. It is their blessed privilege and does not interfere with the privileges of anybody else. Other republicans may boost for other candidates, if they wish. In fact, one advantage of the primary law is that it affords a "fair field and no favor." Anyone may run for office who chooses, if he can secure the required number of names on his nomination petition. Upon second thought, this may not be such an admirable advantage to the republican, although it undoubtedly is such to the office seeker. But, as we say, it shuts out no aspiring patriot; and the republican assembly cannot shut him out. The race is open, gentlemen! Free for all, and no handicaps.

We trust that no discerning democrat will howl about the republican assembly. It is not his affair, anyway, since he will not be hailed to the primary polls and forced to vote for the republican nominees. And the leader confesses to a feeling of prejudice against any democrat who runs for office without availing himself of the privilege of some sort from a representative body of his political friends—either in secret or open assembly.

The Leader is not of those who bow down and worship the direct primary law, or the initiative and referendum, or the recall, or any of the brand-new measures that have come to us through a populist craving for novelty in politics. These things are inevitably popular. They give the people direct power, aside from indirect power through their chosen representatives. They are very likely destined to stand in Oregon, with some few modifications, for all time. But their value will depend upon the political sanity of the people. We fall to see that anything good has as yet come out of the initiative feature of the law that could not have been as well or better accomplished by the legislature. And four years ago the referendum was responsible for pronounced harm through a financial hold-up of the general appropriation bill. These gaudy toys of the people, we say, are as yet under trial, and should not be blindly upheld as flawless fetiches. They are made and purchased by the legislature. And so, the republican assembly may prove to be an adjunct of value to the direct primary, as its advocates assert, since we are all experimenting in a rather wholesale and comprehensive way, we may as well let the assembly republicans try their little experiment and watch the result.

Have your printing done the Observer way—the Hooty way.

IS STRONG IN MARION

Assembly Plan Grows in Favor With Voters Every Day.

W. L. Jones, of Jefferson, chairman of the county central committee of the Republican party, was in the city yesterday to prepare notices calling for mass meetings for Saturday, July 2, at which delegates will be chosen to attend the county assembly, who will in turn choose delegates to attend the state assembly to be held in Portland.

In this city the precinct committees will designate the time for the mass meetings in each precinct, while the central committee will name the time for the mass meetings in the county precinct.

"The assembly plan is becoming stronger every day, particularly in this county," stated Chairman Jones. "I have noticed this in the north end, especially in Turner, Jefferson, Stayton and other towns and precincts. Marion people believe, will vote for the assembly candidates a big send-off."—Salem Statesman.
