

Taft Vetoes Bill

Secretary Ballinger Still Fights Siltz Settlers.

On the advice of Secretary Ballinger, President Taft declined to sign Representative Hawley's bill concerning the Siltz Reservation and by reason of this "pocket veto" the bill is dead.

This bill passed the House of Representatives several weeks ago, was promptly reported to the Senate and lay on the Senate calendar for two weeks before it was called up by Senator Chamberlain yesterday and passed. Saturday the bill was engrossed, signed by the Speaker of the House and Vice-President Sherman, and was held before the President when he came to the Capitol Saturday night.

The bill relates to affairs of the Interior Department, the President referred it to Secretary Ballinger, who was present, and he advised against its approval, contending it would legalize titles that might better be handled in the regular way by the Interior Department. On this advice President Taft declined to sign the bill.

Representative Hawley is deeply disappointed at the failure of this bill, for he devoted a vast amount of time securing its passage through the House and regarded it as a measure intended to grant relief to persons who have honestly striven to acquire title under adverse circumstances.

As the Interior Department probably will pass upon all entries that will be affected by the Hawley bill, Congress reconvenes in December, but probably no further attempt will be made to legislate along this line.

Had this particular bill been promptly passed through the Senate when reported, however, Hawley would have had an opportunity to explain its provisions to the President, and he feels that under those circumstances Taft would have acted favorably.

Saturday night, with a great mass of bills to sign, the President had no opportunity to discuss any one in detail.

TRAGEDY AT BALLSTON

PLEASANT FISHER TAKES LIFE OF WRIGHT CLARK.

Malden Husband Surprises His Wife and Clark in Hop House and Shooting Follows.

Pleasant Fisher shot and instantly killed Wright Clark in a hop house on the Fisher farm south of Ballston yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Clark had been paying attention to Fisher's wife, and although frequently warned by Fisher to cease his visits Mrs. Fisher at every opportunity, this refusal on the part of Clark to heed Fisher's warnings resulted in yesterday afternoon's tragedy.

Clark was about 23 years old, and his slayer is about three years younger. The principals to the killing were Pleasant Fisher, a son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Fisher, and was formerly a resident of Dallas, and was a widower, having been divorced from his wife about two years ago.

Husband Returns Unexpectedly.

After eating his lunch yesterday, Fisher went to work in a hop yard a short distance from the house. He had been slightly ill for several days, and early in the afternoon he decided to quit work for the day.

Upon returning to the house, he found Mrs. Fisher absent. His suspicions were at once aroused and he decided to ascertain her whereabouts.

After looking around the house and yard, he went to a hop house and there found his wife and Clark in the upper story. Seeing, as he claims, enough to startle his suspicions, the maddened husband drew a 25-caliber Smith & Wesson revolver and shot Clark through the head.

The ball struck Clark just above the left eye, passed through the skull, and lodged in the skin in the back of the victim's head. Death was instantaneous.

Fisher Notifies Sheriff.

Fisher at once returned to the house and called up Sheriff Grant by telephone, informing the officer of what he had done. Sheriff Grant, accompanied by Dr. Starbuck and Justice Hardy Holman, left immediately for Ballston in an automobile. Arriving at the farm, the sheriff placed Fisher under arrest.

Justice Holman, acting as Coroner in the absence of Coroner Chapman from the county, decided that no inquest was necessary. The manner in which Clark had met his death was plainly apparent, and the Justice decided that it would not be necessary to put the county to the expense of an inquest.

The officers then returned to Dallas, bringing Fisher with them. The young man was lodged in the county jail and will be given his preliminary hearing before Justice Holman at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Fisher maintains a cool demeanor and at no time has he shown any particular excitement or emotion.

Fisher Married Widow.

Fisher's wife is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elbertson, who live just across the Yamhill river from Ballston, and was a widow when she married Fisher.

Her first husband was Harvey Branson, from whom she separated a few years ago. One child, a son now aged about six years old, was born to this union.

Much sympathy is felt for the families of all concerned in the lamentable affair.

Will Dedicate Church.

Father H. J. McDevitt, of Portland, was a Dallas visitor Sunday. While here he completed arrangements for the dedication of the new Catholic Church in this city. The dedicatory exercises will be held next Sunday, a complete program of the services will be printed in Friday's Observer.

GIFT FROM JOHN TEAL

Polk County Trout on Exhibition at State House.

People working in the capitol these days are casting longing and yearning looks toward the master fish warden's office and, if the call of the wild gets a little too strongly, slip in there and enjoy to the full gauding upon five trout as ever mortals have seen in any stream that gets its waters from the snows of the CRAGGY CASCADES.

The trout are a recent addition to the governor's family and have considerably brightened the atmosphere of the state house. No doubt many a one, down from the governor's private secretary down to the news-gatherers who haunt the house with the big black dome on East State street and worry the officials there for news, has felt a tug in his or her breast and wished they could have those fish out in some wild mountain fastness and put them sizzling over a camp-fire on an old-fashioned skillet.

Anyhow, to look at them call up memories of long-forgotten trout that looked pretty well and tasted a mighty sight better. But the fish kept in a fresh water tank in the fish warden's office are too beautiful to eat and one gets more pleasure out of contemplating their beauty, their fine coloring than in wishing to see them sizzle in a frying pan.

Coming from the private hatchery of J. B. Teal, of Falls City, who raises them in a pond for his own pleasure and enjoyment, the trout are fine specimens of the finny tribe. There are five in all, four brook trout and one rainbow trout. The latter is the prettiest of all, his coloring being exceptionally brilliant. Besides he seems to be more spirited than the others and has been quite restless since being made a captive in such a strange place. The other trout were also restless for a time, but soon quieted down and now seem to be enjoying themselves as good, respectable fish ought to. If all fish worried as the master fish warden would be in all the time!

The highest of the brook trout measures about two feet from tip to tip and is as beauty as it swims gracefully back and forth, heeding little the gaze of the curious. The rainbow will measure about fourteen inches. The other three vary in size. All have the interesting black eyes.—Salem Statesman.

AGES TOTAL 460 YEARS

Seven Cooper Brothers Hold Reunion in McMinnville.

The seven Cooper brothers, all prominent in the local history of Oregon, held their sixth annual family reunion at the home of Colonel J. C. Cooper, in McMinnville, Saturday. The combined ages of the seven brothers aggregated 460 years. The members of the family group consist of W. H. Cooper, of Stayton, aged 74 years; J. C. Cooper, of The Dalles, aged 74 years; J. S. Cooper, of Independence, aged 69 years; J. C. Cooper, of McMinnville, aged 65 years; R. D. Cooper, of Grass Valley, aged 60 years; E. W. Cooper, of Grass Valley, and J. E. Cooper, of Portland, twins, aged 58 years.

The Cooper boys, all loyal to the Union cause during the Civil War, witnessed much of the border warfare in the vicinity of their Missouri home. To J. C. Cooper, who was the host at today's reunion, was intrusted the family hoard of gold. This he buried safely just before one of the numerous guerrilla raids, the members of which came near hanging his father because he could not tell them where the treasure was hidden.

W. L. Cooper, the eldest of the boys, bears the distinction of having cast the one solitary vote that was polled for Abraham Lincoln at Springfield, Mo., in 1860.—Oregonian.
