DALLAS, OREGON, AUGUST 16, 1910

The way to build up Dallas is to patronize Dallas people.

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES.

(Recommended for Nomination by the County Assembly, held in Dallas, June 25, 1910.)

Representative,
IRA C. POWELL.

Clerk,
E. M. SMITH.

Sheriff,
W. L. BICE.

Commissioner,
JOHN B. TEAL.

Treasurer,
JOHN L. CASTLE.

Coroner,
R. L. CHAPMAN.

(Indorsed by State Assembly.)

Joint Senator,
C. L. HAWLEY.

Joint Representative,
HENRY NICE.

Tom Kay of Marion has filed his declaration of intention to be a candidate for State Treasurer. Another anti-assembly patriot that wants an office.

The Portland Journal strenuously denies that an effort was made by the Democratic Central Committee to pull West and Myers out of the race for Governor, and center on a new candidate. Of course, the Journal will deny it. But West and Myers are not denying it, judging from the vigorous protest of each against being neatly ironed out by the central committee steam roller.

Democratic central committees may meet and urge the voters of their party to center on one set of candidates. Socialists and Prohibitionists, under the provisions of the primary law, may even hold conventions and nominate candidates for office. The Republican party, being the majority party in Oregon, may do neither of these things. The Republican party must be crippled and weakened. It must sit idle while its opponents walk off with the offices. This is the whole anti-assembly scheme, and the Republican who cannot see it doesn't want to see it.

"I feel that it would be proper to call an assembly, both in the several counties and in the state, to adopt a declaration of principles and to suggest to voters capable and trustworthy men to be nominated at the direct primary nominating election and to be voted for at the general election."

So wrote Governor George E. Chamberlain to the Democratic chairman of Umatilla County in 1906. It was a sensible suggestion, and one in no way in violation of the spirit of the primary law. It is reprinted here for the benefit of those Democratic and Bourne Republican editors who are just now so hysterically denouncing the assembly plan.

It is probable that the farmers of Oregon will ask the next Legislature to pass a law making it incumbent upon the railroads to provide lanes across their tracks in fields where livestock is now fenced away from water. In complying with the law requiring all track to be fenced, the railroads have built gates to close all passage-ways across their tracks. This makes it necessary, in many places, for the farmers to drive their stock back and forth between the pastures and the water supply. What is wanted, it is said, are open lanes, where stock may cross at will. The change will necessitate the removal of the gates, a few extra feet of fencing, and the construction of a cattle-guard on each side of the lane.

At the city election held in Salem yesterday, the judges found themselves confronted with a large number of voters who had neglected to register. All such procrastinators were required to subscribe to Blank A before being permitted to vote. The preparation of these blanks caused the election officers and business men of the city much work and needless worry. Voters who neglect to register because they are unwilling to take the necessary time from their work, have no right to ask their neighbors, who have registered, to quit business and put in the whole of election day signing blanks for them. Such neglect is thoroughly selfish. The writer hereby serves notice that he will sign no man's blank on election day unless such delinquent can show that through sickness or absence from the county he was unable to register. If all registered electors would only serve the same notice, a grand rush for the nearest registry office would at once be seen in every precinct in Polk County.

HOW DO YOU LIKE THIS?

You voter who believe in Polk County electing its own Senators and Representatives: How would you like for Multnomah, or Marion, or Lane, or some other strong county, to take the job out of your hands and elect these officers for you? That is precisely what one of U'Ren's proposed measures provides shall be done. Here is a section from the porposed amendment to Article IV of the constitution. Read it for yourself:

"Section 4a. Until otherwise provided by law, candidates for the offices of Senator or Representative shall be nominated in like districts as have heretofore been provided for their election, but they shall be elected by the voters of the state at large."

Pretty scheme of "representative government," isn't it? And yet it is what the Oregon City Progressive Power League is attempting to ram down your throat under the beneficent provisions of the initiative.

TAKE YOUR CHOICE.

In the name of consistency, what is this we read? Members of the Democratic State Central Committee meet in Portland. But we are informed, of course, that the subjects of the political situation in this state or prospective candidates on the Democratic ticket were not considered. Of course not! These sole defenders of the direct primary would not think of such a thing! They are "agin" anything that smacks of an assembly. It is probable these patriots deliberated over the possibility of Halley's comet reappearing in 1985. Or, perhaps, they debated how best the drawbridge controversy in Portland might be finally adjusted harmoniously.

In one breath these defenders of direct legislation denounce the right of 1200 Republicans to assemble and in the next breath we find the members of their State Central Committee meeting in Portland. Let's reflect a moment. What do we see? Senator Chamberlain hastens back to Oregon immediately following the assembly. Less than a week later, State Chairman Sweek calls a meeting of his Democratic committeemen. To say the least, the action of Chairman Sweek so soon after the return of "Our George" is decidedly significant. It is further announced that Senator Bourne is soon to return to this state.

These circumstances are not without some relation. It seems plans are now hatching between the Bourne and Chamberlain camps for a determined fight against the assembly movement. An attempt will first be made to defeat the Republican assembly candidates in the primary election. Failing in this, voters may expect to see a coalition of these two forces in the general election against the Republican state ticket. At the same t time hybrid legislative tickets, framed up by the same forces, may be expected to put in an appearance in the various counties.

Plainly stated, it will be a fight against the assembly ticket. In other words, the issue is a perpetuation of the Bourne-Chamberlain program vs. Republican success through the nomination and election of the candidates recommended by the assembly. Republican voters, take your choice.—Salem Statesman.

PROFIT IN ALSIKE SEED

Yield of Nearly $100 an Acre Reported In Yamhill.

Bumper crops are being raised in Yamhill County this year, but one of the best that has so far come to light is a yield of 165 bushels of Alsike clover seed from a 14-acre patch of bottom land farmed by W. L. Gilson, two miles west of Amity. Mr. Gilson sold the seed as soon as it was hulled for $8.40 a bushel, which netted him $1386 or nearly $100 an acre.

An adjoining field of 40 acres farmed by J. L. Loop, and also in Alsike clover, gave a yield of little over 300 bushels and brought between $2500 and $2600, or about $60 an acre for the 1910 crop.

RICH HILL COUNTRY

FINE FRUIT FARMS BETWEEN DALLAS AND MONMOUTH.

Observer Representative Finds Many Herds of Blooded Stock in Pleasant Valley.

For a real, sure-enough picture of prosperity in Oregon, one should pay a visit to the 150-acre farm of Glenn O. Holman, a few miles south of Dallas, in Pleasant Valley, formerly called Cooper Hollow.

Here is a large orchard, planted 60 years ago, loaded to limb-breaking fullness with beautiful fruit; a grape vine, which, Mr. Holman says, will yield a ton of grapes this year; plums in plenty, and of the most delicious flavor; peaches, pears, and other fruits in great abundance. Forty-six plums were counted on 12 inches of one small limb.

Mr. Holman has 47 head of hogs of mixed breeds, mostly grades. Although not registered, they bring him a handsome profit.

Mr. Holman was formerly an attorney at law. "I like this better," said he, in speaking of the beautiful farm. "Here, I am not vexed with an endless anxiety over motions overruled and demurrers not sustained. Here, there is a maximum of profit for a minimum of labor."

Walnuts Will Pay.

If every land owner in this county would only make as much of his opportunities as does John B. Stump, whose ranch adjoins the town of Monmouth, there would be no more talk about undeveloped Oregon.

Mr. Stump owns 1000 acres, which he certainly knows how to use to the best advantage. His stock is all of the best. He has some extraordinary fine Jersey cattle—all registered. He has one bull which was shipped directly from Jersey Island, a distance of 7000 miles.

Among the interesting sights to be seen on this farm is a walnut grove of 350 trees. These trees are six years old and are planted 40 feet apart. All are bearing well this year. Mr. Stump thinks the walnut industry can be made profitable in Polk County and is well pleased with the results he has secured.

On this farm is a 20-acre field of corn, which, while not measuring up to the standard of the Middle West, is certainly a promising crop. Work did it. Mr. Stump makes liberal use of fertilizers, and neglects no opportunity to increase the productivity of his land.

Makes Money on Bees.

P. L. Fishback, who lives on R. F. D. 1, northwest of Monmouth, has a pretty place, on which he has lived for 20 years. The farm is good soil, capable of producing any crop that grows in Oregon. He has 19 stands of bees, which are a source of considerable profit and require but a small amount of care.

Frank Raines, a prosperous farmer of this neighborhood, has been quite sick for the last two weeks, but is recovering.

H. Wunder, of Monmouth R. F. D. 1, has been keeping house alone while his family and daughter, and the Clapp family enjoyed an outing at the coast.

Alfalfa Thrives in Polk.

R. B. Chaney, a prosperous farmer living near Monmouth, is another farmer who believes alfalfa will prove a profitable crop in Polk County. A representative of the Observer visited his farm yesterday and found there a field of alfalfa which gives promise of becoming a luxuriant crop. At present it needs rain, as does all vegetation in the Willamette Valley. Mr. Chaney predicts that alfalfa raising will be made highly successful in Polk County, once the proper method of cultivation is thoroughly understood.

Mr. Chaney owns 100 acres of rich land, every acre of which is making money for him. His stock is well selected and is in excellent condition. His cow barn is a model of convenience and cleanliness. It is provided with concrete floors and with the new-style feed racks, capable of adjustment according to the size of the animal occupying the stall.

Two other successful stock raisers are A. W. and H. D. Tredway, who live north of Monmouth. They bought the farm three years ago, and have it well stocked. Their herd of blooded Poland China hogs looks well. A 6-months- old Percheron colt, which may be seen running loose in the barnyard at any time, would be a sure prize-winner at the State Fair. The Tredways came to Oregon from Dakota and are well pleased with this country.

Two Deer at One Shot.

Fred Toner, the accommodating Deputy Clerk of Polk County, arrived home, Friday, from a ten days' hunting trip in the Cow Creek mountains in Southern Oregon. He was accompanied on the trip by John Clark, Harvey Farmer and John Lewthwaite, of Oregon City, and Stewart Stayner, of Portland. Mr. Toner, already skillful as a hunter of big game, returns from this trip with added laurels, having killed two deer at one shot. Coming suddenly upon a band of deer, the hunter managed to secure a position where both animals were in range of his rifle. A well-directed shot sent the bullet through the body of the first and almost through the body of the second, killing both instantly.

Scarcely Consistent.

How does the Albany Democrat reconcile these two items, printed in the same issue of that excellent newspaper?

"One of the dirtiest shames of the age is the abuse of Col. Hofer by senseless newspapers and others."

* * * * *

"Several editors have received letters from Col. Hofer, in which he says he expects to be the target of abuse from narrow minds and does not appeal to radical people who take their orders from some imported and salaried agitator, but to honest men. The Colonel has become considerable of a joke."

PIONEER LOSES HIS MIND

Dr. Ira Kimball Committed to the State Insane Asylum.

Dr. Ira Kimball, an early pioneer of Polk County, was committed to the Oregon Insane Asylum by County Judge Coad, Saturday afternoon. The examination was conducted by Judge Coad, assisted by County Health Officer McCallon.

Dr. Kimball is an aged bachelor, and for many years has been living the life of a recluse in a little cabin in the Smithfield neighborhood. In his younger days he practiced dentistry in this county.

The old man seems to be haunted by fear that his life is in danger from unknown enemies. For several weeks prior to his committent to the asylum, he seldom ventured outside his cabin.

It is believed that the nourishing foods and good care he will receive in the asylum will soon restore his reason.

OSWALD WEST STANDS FIRM

Refuses to Retire From Race in Favor of John Manning.

"If John Manning wishes to become a candidate for Governor I have no objection, as he is a good friend of mine," said Oswald West in Salem, Friday night.

"But I have filed my declaration, and I intend to stay in the race. I like to see everyone run for office. It creates interest. If Mr. Manning is nominated I will support him, but I believe in the direct primary and consider it the privilege of anyone to be a candidate if he thinks himself qualified for the office to which he aspires.

"I wish to reiterate the statement I have made many times, that I am in the race to stay, if every man in Oregon becomes a candidate."
