ANOTHER TRIBE OF BEANS

Candidate for Supreme Justice Not Relative of Federal Judge.

One Henry J. Bean, a lawyer residing in Eastern Oregon, is a candidate for the nomination for Supreme Judge, and in the hope of winning in the primary is sending out a letter in which an unprofessional and undignified attack is made on Wallace McCamant, of Portland.

Representative L. E. Bean, of Eugene, fearing that some voters may be led to vote for this Eastern Oregon lawyer, under the impression that he is a brother of Federal Judge Robert S. Bean, has written the following letter for publication:

Eugene, Or., Sept. 2, 1910.

I am advised that there is some misapprehension throughout the state in connection with the candidacy of Henry J. Bean for Supreme Judge. It comes to me from many quarters that his name is being confused with that of my brother, Robert S. Bean, who for many years was a member of the Supreme Court.

I take this means of correcting any misapprehension in the matter, and to say that Henry J. Bean is not related to me nor to our family. Furthermore, I am not supporting him in his candidacy, and hope that no friends of mine or of my brother, Robert S. Bean, will vote against Mr. McCamant or Judge McBride under the impression that they are supporting some member of our family.

(Signed) L. E. BEAN.

GOAT MEAT TO BE SOLD

Will Be Put on Market in Oregon Under Its Right Name.

Angora goat meat, under its real name, will be put on the market in Salem next week. It may be purchased at either Steusloff's or at the market of E. C. Cross & Son, and people of Salem are urged to promote the Angora goat industry in this valley by trying a quarter of it. Assurance is given that those who try it will come again, as Angora goat meat eaters declare there could be nothing finer on the table.

An effort is being made by raisers of the goat to establish a regular market for the meat in Salem and state that nothing but choice young Angoras will be put up for sale. It is strongly urged in Salem that every family try it at least once. That there will be further purchases is confidently expected. —Salem Statesman.

MAN IS A QUEER DUCK

Some of His Ways Are Beyond Mortal Understanding.

Men are queer. Wouldn't there be a roar when they went home to their meals if they had to climb up on a high stool in front of a table on which there was no cloth, and eat their meals in that fashion? Yet the majority of men, when they go to a restaurant will pick out the high stool and the feed board with no cloth on it in preference to a comfortable chair with a cloth covered table.

A man will borrow a chew of tobacco and most of them will set their teeth into the plug where some other man has gnawed off a chew. Offer him a piece of pie at home from which his wife or one of the children had taken a bite and he would holler his head off.

At home he will not drink out of a glass from which one of the family has been drinking. Call him into the back stall of a livery barn, pull out a bottle and he will stick the neck of the bottle half way down his throat in order to get a swig, after half a dozen fellows have had the neck of the bottle in their mouths. Truly, a man is a queer duck.

Real Reform In Farm Life.

There can be no real reform in farm life unless the farmer grows as well as his crop. He can grow only by achievement—by accomplishing something of which he may be justly proud. As soon as he begins to achieve and to grow he will become watchfully discontented with his unnecessary hardships and limitations. He will want a better house in which to live, a better school for his children and better public roads.—Outlook.

Best Varieties of Oats.

Among twenty-five best varieties of oats grown at the Ohio experiment station, Siberian, Sixty Day, Improved American, Illinois German, Joanette, Green Mountain and Big Four led in productive capacity. The range in yield of grain on the average for the five years was 68.34 bushels for the last mentioned variety to 70.46 bushels for the first mentioned.

Dehorn In Cool Weather.

If the animals are dehorned in warm weather it is well to apply some pine tar with a view to keeping flies from the wound. Some operators do this in nearly all cases, thinking that it facilitates healing. The dehorning operation should always, when possible, be performed in cool weather and upon animals which have at least attained the age of two years.

W. C. Hawley

Member of Congress

Republican Candidate for Renomination to

CONGRESS

Has a good clean record of effective service and has faithfully lived up to his motto adopted four years ago:

"No Interests to Serve but the Public Interests."

Some of the things accomplished at the recent session of Congress: Secured over $880,000 for river and harbor improvement in this Congressional District.

Secured over $620,000 for public building and other purposes in this District, including Oregon's Civil War Claim.

Defeated the Lafean Apple Box Bill.

Aided miners and settlers on the public domain, including Siletz settlers.

Secured passage of many bills of interest to localities and for the relief of veterans of our wars.

Has been an active supporter of the administration in redeeming platform pledges and assisted in passage of Railroad Rate Act, Postal Savings Bank Act, Bureau of Mines Act, Reclamation Certificates Act, and many other acts of great national importance.

He has won the hearty commendation of ex-President Roosevelt for upholding progressive measures urged by him while President of the United States:

Washington, May 29.—President Roosevelt today issued a statement commending the Oregon members of the House for their support of administration policies and wishing them success in the coming elections in that state. The statement follows:

The President today said goodby to the two Oregon Congressmen, Messrs. Hawley and Ellis, and stated publicly that he took the occasion to thank them for the attitude they had consistently maintained in support of the administration's policies, and to wish them success in the election which is to take place on Monday next.

The President stated that he wished publicly to express his appreciation of the cordial manner in which the gentlemen has backed up the policies and the measures which the President felt were of such consequence for the welfare of the country, in connection, for instance, with such matters as * * * securing proper employers' liability legislation, both as regards interstate commerce and as regards the employees of the government itself; securing child labor legislation, and the effort to secure the proper administration by the courts of the power of injunction, and finally securing by the nation of thoroughgoing and adequate control over the great interstate corporations, a control which shall be both effective to prevent any wrongdoing by them and at the same time of sing by them and at the same time of ward in ample fashion of all business which is so conducted as to be for and not against the public interest.—From the New York Tribune, May 30, 1908.

SOMETHING NEW IN SILOS.

Solution of Problem Found by Iowa Agricultural Experiment Station.

Cheaper than wood, as durable as concrete—that is the essence of the new Iowa silo devised by the Iowa experiment station. Two years ago the station set out to solve the silo problem. The result was a silo made of hollow tile blocks, hard burned. Thirteen of these silos were in practical operation on Iowa farms last winter. In no case was an unfavorable report made. It was found that the silage kept fully as well as in stave or concrete silos. There was no more freezing than in stave silos and less than in single walled concrete silos.

The material from which the hollow tiles are made has been used for years in brick construction. It has proved to be very durable. There is no reason why a silo made from such material should not last for generations. This will do away with the principal objection of the stave silo—lack of durability. Another objection to the stave silo is that it blows down easily when empty and also dries out badly. None of these objections applies to the Iowa silo.

THE IOWA SILO.
[From the Iowa experiment station, Ames, Ia.]

Concrete is an excellent material for silo building. About the only serious difficulty is that expensive forms and skilled labor must be used. No forms are required for the Iowa silo. Any mason familiar with brickwork can put up one by following directions. Owing to the air space in the walls of the Iowa silo, there is less freezing than in a single walled concrete silo. A double walled concrete silo is most effective in keeping out frost, but the cost is so great as to prohibit its general use.

The material for making hollow tile blocks is found all over the country. They are comparatively light, so as to require a minimum freight charge when shipped. Many of the leading tile manufacturers are arranging to make these blocks especially for silo construction. Others will do so upon demand.

Directions for building these silos have been put out in bulletin form and may be obtained free by addressing Bulletin Editor, Ames, Ia., and asking for a copy of bulletin 117.

When thousands of dollars are spent to build pike roads it is folly not to spend a few dollars for care and repair. Do it now!

FALL BERRY PRUNING.

Cutting Away of Surplus Wood Gives Added Strength to Roots.

With the currant and gooseberry I recommend fall rather than spring pruning. I commence as soon as the leaves have partially fallen, trimming out all drooping branches to encourage an upright growth, all dead and dying wood and all sprouts except two or three of the strongest for renewing the fruiting wood.

In removing the sprouts I prefer pulling them rather than cutting them off close to the ground, and where they do not come off easily with a good, vigorous pull I remove the soil at the base of the sprout and cut it off as low as possible. After the bush is trimmed and all grass, roots and weeds removed, mound up a little, covering all exposed rootlets. This operation serves as a fall hoeing and is much easier done then than in the spring, when the grass and weeds have more strongly fastened their roots in the ground. This pruning away of all surplus wood and sprouts in the fall gives added strength to the roots for sustaining and stimulating that part of the bush remaining.—Wyman Elliott, Minnesota.

Canvas Caps For Hay.

If you have much clover hay to handle, provide yourself with a supply of hay caps made of canvas and use them in covering the hay during the curing process. This will enable you to put the hay in the barn in perfect keeping condition and will more than save you the price of the hay caps.—Farm Progress.

For clearing a piece of land of weeds, underbrush and small trees there is no agency for the preliminary operations that will surpass a flock of Angora goats. They will not only browse weeds, leaves and shoots, but will strip the bark from young trees a distance of eight or nine feet.

A dead fly is less obnoxious than a live one, and a dead fly outdoors is less of a nuisance than one in the house. For this reason the war on the flies should be carried into the open by placing plates of poison in places where they congregate, safe out of reach of the little folks, unless the formalin solution is used, in which case drinking it will do no harm.

There are thousands of dusty, dingy stables, many of these in basements, that might be sweetened and brightened immensely by sweeping and cleaning out the dust and cobwebs of years, giving the place a treatment with sulphur or other disinfectant and applying a coat of good whitewash to the walls and partitions and seeing that it reaches every crack and crevice.

In the building of a silo it is worth while remembering that the round structure is in every way superior to the square—cheaper to build, easier to stay with girders, while, owing to the fact that there are no corners, the silage keeps much better. If a landlord is so shortsighted that he will not share with his tenant the cost of a silo the latter could afford to build a stave silo, provided he had a lease of the farm for three or four years. At the end of his lease, if the landlord did not wish to take it off his hands, the tenant could take it down and with him to the next place he rents.

It is a fair inference that no small part of the thrift and intelligence of the French people in an agricultural way along the line of maintaining soil fertility is due to the 45,000 rural schools of the country, each having its agricultural department with gardens and fields, where the most approved methods of cultivation and preservation of the soil are taught to the boys and girls. A great as well as most encouraging era will have dawned in the United States when like pains are taken to instruct the boys and girls in the essential facts connected with this most important single industry upon which our prosperity as a people depends.

In the bulletin issued by the department of agriculture giving the condition of the corn crop of the country on July 1, the total acreage planted is placed at 114,083,000 acres, which is an increase of 5,312,000 acres, or 4.9 per cent, as compared with the final estimate of last year's acreage. The condition of the crop is placed at 85.4 per cent, as compared with 89.3 for July 1, 1909, and 85.1, the average for ten years. There are six states which have a corn acreage exceeding 8,000,000 acres, and they are as follows with the area in each devoted to growing this staple cereal: Illinois, 10,609,000 acres; Iowa, 9,476,0000; Texas, 8,965,000; Kansas, 8,912,000; Missouri, 8,262,000, and Nebraska, 8,060,000 acres. Wisconsin grows the least corn of twenty-four states reported, her acreage this season being 1,564 acres.

In some sections of England young people have formed rat and sparrow clubs whose purpose is to exterminate these pests. In one village the local club reported a slaughter of 3,838 rats and 839 sparrows.

Luscious as the peach may be and delicious the pear, after all a fine crisp apple will be eaten with greater relish day in and out than any other fruit known. It is this that makes it the king of all fruits.

It is a commendable modesty which frequently causes the little rooster to seek a secluded place behind the barn or hide in the depths of the corn patch while getting that crowing apparatus of his into working order.

There are days when the Pacific slope rancher may perspire as freely as the eastern farmer, but he can count on cool nights for refreshing slumber and is not harassed with the prospect of June freshets, tornadoes and cyclones.

In the acreage which they have devoted to winter wheat Kansas, Indiana, Illinois, Nebraska and Ohio lead, ranking in the order given. In the growing of spring wheat the leading and practically the only producing states are North Dakota, Minnesota, South Dakota and Washington, the rank being in the order given.

A Good Investment.

Beautiful home grounds are an investment, just as good fences, drainage, etc., are. They add to the value of the farm and to the happiness of the family.

Executor's Notice.

Notice is hereby given to whom it may concern, that the undersigned Executor of the estate of Eliza G.
