SELECTING SEED CORN.

Better Run Risk of Frost Than Pick the Ears Too Early.

The first step toward better seed corn for next year must be taken in the fall by selecting the seed ears from the stalks in the field. The corn should be allowed to mature well on the stalk. By selecting the earliest maturing ears and picking them from the stalk as soon as the husks begin to turn yellow, which is a common practice, earliness is secured at the expense of vitality, writes Professor Moore of the University of Wisconsin in the American Agriculturist.

A slight frost will not injure corn if it is well matured, and it is better to run the risk of a frost than to pick the ears too early. The latter part of the growing season seems to improve the vitality of the corn greatly.

Care should be taken in picking seed to secure ears which are attached to the stalk about three feet above the ground. Those ears which grow either very high or very low upon the stalk should be rejected, as they are undesirable, having characteristics which we do not desire. For the same reason we should avoid selecting ears with very short or long shanks or from deformed stalks.

Go into the field after the husks on the ears have turned yellow and select the well formed ears from good stalks. Put them in sacks or baskets and bring them to the side of the field and husk. It is well to follow definite

LITTLE FACTS FOR FARMERS.

There are now sixty-five active beet sugar factories located in sixteen different states. Last year 395,000 acres were given over to beets, and the farmers delivered to the factories 3,470,000 tons.

Good, strong, well developed pigs from mature sires and dams will make better growth and more economical gains than the underized fruits that result from breeding immature sows to some six-month-old boar pig.

Somebody has estimated from statistics that fruit trees and bushes will bear for the following periods: Apple, 25 to 40 years; blackberry, 6 to 14 years; currant, 20 years; gooseberry, 8 to 12 years; pear, 50 to 75 years; plum, 20 to 25 years; raspberry, 6 to 14 years; strawberry, 1 to 3 years.

The largest grapevine in the world flourishes at San Gabriel, Cal. It was planted by the San Francisco friars and is 120 years old. The stalk is one and one-half feet in diameter and eight feet high, and the branches and foliage cover 5,000 square feet. Last year it produced two and one-half tons of grapes.

A set of muley hames, with the projections above the collar minus, and an extra short doubletree should be in the equipment of every orchardist. They will make possible more thorough cultivation near the trees and fewer injuries to them.

Live Stock Notes.

Horses that are used exclusively on the farm and do no road work should go unshod.

A fattening animal should never have more food placed before it than it will eat up eagerly.

If you keep your hogs in a pen all the time don't expect to make any world astonishing profits. The hog is a natural grazer.

If dusty hay is fed sprinkle with water and it will save the horse much annoyance. Better still, don't feed it at all if you can help it.

If corn is scarce sheep will beat hogs on pasture, provided they get plenty of corn, but when the hogs get plenty of corn they will range pretty well with sheep.

Experiments show that many tons of valuable hog go with the peanut crop and that after the peanuts have been gathered hogs can be turned in on the ground and fattened for market on what is left of the crop without other food.

How fond hogs are of milo maize is demonstrated by the fact that if a drove of hogs is turned on a field planted in Indian corn, Kaffir corn and milo they will devour the entire milo crop before touching either of the other grains.

Diversified farming and crop rotation are the best antidotes for farm mortgages.

HARD FIGHT AHEAD.

Vigorous Measures Needed to Save Country's Bean Crops From Disease.

We are beginning to see signs of anthracnose appearing in this country, and the disease will have to be fought hammer and tongs to keep it within control, says Field and Farm of Denver. The cut shows the appearance of this stage bordeaux mixture has been effective in dousing it in the west. We have the advantage of a dry climate not only in growing beans, but in fighting the diseases which attack the crop.

BEANS AFFECTED WITH ANTHRACNOSE. (From Field and Farm, Denver.)

Nearly every one is familiar with the spotted appearance of snap beans and especially of the wax podded varieties.

Practically all parts of the bean plant except the roots are subject to attack. The most common indication of the presence of the disease is the occurrence of brown or black sunken areas on the stems, leaves and pods. They may also appear on the seed leaves and stems of the plant soon after appearing above ground and cause considerable losses through a reduction in the stand.

On the older plants the attack is most serious on the larger veins of the leaves, and the leaf may be wholly destroyed or its efficiency greatly reduced. From the stems and leaves the fungus spreads to the pods.

Hog Cholera Preventive.

The Bureau of Animal Industry, United States department of agriculture, gives the following recipe for hog cholera, which is claimed by many who have tried it to be invaluable in warding off disease: One part wood charcoal, one part sulphur, two parts sodium chlorate (salt), two parts sodium bicarbonate, one part sodium sulphate, one part sodium sulphate. Pulverize and mix thoroughly. Dose, one tablespoonful for each 200 pounds weight of hogs once a day.

Ingredients of Best Fertilizers.

The highest agricultural value is fertilizers is found in those that are manufactured mainly from animal matter, such as animal bone, dried blood, animal tankage, nitrate of soda and high grade potash salts.

It is remarkable how quickly domestic animals will resent harsh treatment and yet how readily they will respond to gentle handling.

DON'T EXPERIMENT

You Will Make No Mistake if You Follow This Advice.

Never neglect your kidneys. If you have pain in the back, urinary disorders, dizziness and no time to experiment, these are all symptoms of kidney trouble, and you should seek a remedy which is known to cure the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use. No need to experiment. It has cured many stubborn cases in this vicinity.

Can Dallas residents demand further proof than that contained in the following testimonial?

Mrs. J. B. Collins, Sixth and D Sts., Independence, Ore., says: "In view of my experience with Doan's Kidney Pills, I can recommend them as an excellent remedy for kidney troubles. I suffered from a complication of diseases for a long time and although I tried many preparations, I was not helped. I finally heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and I began using them. In a short time I felt better and the improvement continued until I was in good health."
