FIGHTERS IN FIELD

"Five hundred men are now employed looking out for forest fires throughout the state. This is a big increase in the number of men that were similarly employed last year. These fire fighters are in the employ of the Government, private interests and the state. They are under the direction of F. A. Elliott, State Forester, and are deputized by him with the full authority vested in him by the law enacted by the last session of the State Legislature, which appropriated $60,000 to be expended in the next two years in protecting the forests of the state."
Permits Required.
"The closed season, when no fires can be started in the timbered areas without a permit, went into effect June 1, and will continue until October 1. Permits can be issued only by deputized wardens attached to the office of the State Forester. Wardens throughout the state report that an unusually large number of campers are now going into the forests of the state. These people are being warned against starting fires and leaving them unattended. Therein lies the danger of great loss of timber."
With the proper co-operation of the people of the state, particularly campers, in taking every precaution against starting fires, there is no question but that the loss to the state from forest fires this year will be kept at a minimum. The record thus far this season has been most satisfactory, far ahead of that of any other year in several seasons."

REDUCED RATES WILL ALLOW OREGON GROWERS TO SHIP TO CANADA

Reduction in the freight rates for moving apples from points in Oregon and Washington to stations on the Canadian Pacific has just been announced and is expected to result in opening a new and profitable market to the fruit growers of these two states.
The rate varies from 25 cents to 45 cents, according to the destination of the shipments, according to the Oregonian, and is intended to be great enough in every instance to enable Oregon and Washington to compete with Canadian and Eastern products.
E. L. Carle, general agent of the freight department of the Canadian Pacific in Portland, has just returned from a trip through the fruit growing districts of Oregon and Washington, and has arranged to handle a heavy movement of fruit into Canada in the next few months. The Canadian Pacific last year moved more than 100 carloads of fruit from the Northwest to points on the main line of that system. Most of this consisted of apples. There is likely to be a greatly increased movement this year.
"The demand for Oregon fruit is as great in Canada as it is in the East," declared Mr. Carle, yesterday. "Little fruit is grown along our line now and many sections that may become fruit producers themselves later on have not developed far enough to market anything this year. More than 300,000 persons settle in the territory served by the Canadian Pacific every year. They are not able to grow fruit enough to supply their own demand and prefer the Oregon and Washington products to any other sent in."
"I believe we shall double the quantity of apples we take out of Oregon this year."

DANGER OF FIRE GROWS

DEY WEATHER IS MENACE TO FORESTS, SAYS EXPERT.
Five Hundred Men Now Employed in Oregon to Guard Timber Area.
With the summer season well advanced, only two forest fires, both of minor consequence, have occurred in Oregon this season. One of these fires was in Wasco County, and the other in Washington County, but in both instances fire fighters connected with the forest service were promptly dispatched, with the result that both fires were under control before extensive damage resulted.
"Prior to the rains early in July there were several small slashing fires," said C. S. Chapman, of the Oregon Forest Fire Association, reports the Oregonian, "but they did little damage. In the Coast sections the timber is still pretty damp, as a result of those showers."
"However, the forests are drying out thoroughly and in another ten days there will be constant danger of fires."
Fighters in Field.

Wardens throughout the state report that an unusually large number of campers are now going into the forests of the state. These people are being warned against starting fires and leaving them unattended. Therein lies the danger of great loss of timber."
With the proper co-operation of the people of the state, particularly campers, in taking every precaution against starting fires, there is no question but that the loss to the state from forest fires this year will be kept at a minimum. The record thus far this season has been most satisfactory, far ahead of that of any other year in several seasons."

REDUCED RATES WILL ALLOW OREGON GROWERS TO SHIP TO CANADA

Reduction in the freight rates for moving apples from points in Oregon and Washington to stations on the Canadian Pacific has just been announced and is expected to result in opening a new and profitable market to the fruit growers of these two states.
The rate varies from 25 cents to 45 cents, according to the destination of the shipments, according to the Oregonian, and is intended to be great enough in every instance to enable Oregon and Washington to compete with Canadian and Eastern products.
E. L. Carle, general agent of the freight department of the Canadian Pacific in Portland, has just returned from a trip through the fruit growing districts of Oregon and Washington, and has arranged to handle a heavy movement of fruit into Canada in the next few months. The Canadian Pacific last year moved more than 100 carloads of fruit from the Northwest to points on the main line of that system. Most of this consisted of apples. There is likely to be a greatly increased movement this year.
"The demand for Oregon fruit is as great in Canada as it is in the East," declared Mr. Carle, yesterday. "Little fruit is grown along our line now and many sections that may become fruit producers themselves later on have not developed far enough to market anything this year. More than 300,000 persons settle in the territory served by the Canadian Pacific every year. They are not able to grow fruit enough to supply their own demand and prefer the Oregon and Washington products to any other sent in."
"I believe we shall double the quantity of apples we take out of Oregon this year."
