

COLORED SINGERS GIVES PROMISE OF RARE TREAT

Dallas College to Entertain Music Lovers With Performance By "Virginia Warblers."

The next entertainment to be given by Dallas College in its Lyceum course will be held in Woodman Hall Wednesday, January 3, when the "Virginia Warblers" will appear. The treat in store for the people of Dallas will be better realized when it is seen how they have pleased elsewhere:

"The sacred concert given by the Virginia Warblers at the Methodist church last Sunday evening was a grand treat. Could we have such music every Sunday evening, no doubt but what we would soon have the largest attendance of any church in the city. The Virginians are welcome always."—Rev. Thomas Vaudike, First M. E. Church, Chicago.

"Every seat was full last night at the Presbyterian church to hear the Virginia Warblers. There were six of them, each one a master in their line, and they furnished an entertainment appreciated by every one present. If the encores they received indicate the pleasure of the audience they were indeed great singers. The songs were simple melodies, rendered in an artistic manner, and required no 'cultured' ears to be appreciated. Every number of the program was excellently rendered and received hearty applause. The colored race is especially adapted to render these plantation melodies in a pleasing and delightful way, and these singers were no exception."—Rev. Thompson, Winona, Illinois.
