COMMERCIAL CLUB TO JOIN OTHER CITIES

anywhere.

W. A. Ayres called attention to the assertion recently made by a competent engineer that a movement existed to put the sewer systems of the smaller cities of the state, situated on un-navigable streams, out of business, through the medium of a bill which would be presented in the next legislative session providing for the installation of septic tanks in such cities. This would prove a great expense, he declared, and he thought that some steps should be taken to have representatives at Salem to oppose the passage of such a measure.

W. V. Fuller was appointed a committee of one to supply names of former Minnesota residents to the secretary of the state club in Portland.

Edwin Jacobson was appointed a committee to transmit information to Secretary Chapman of the Oregon Development league, Portland, relative to the Dallas "Ax Handle factory."
