The way to build up Dallas is to patronize Dallas people.

KNOCKING THE STATE.

The Observer does not believe that the Central Labor Council, of Portland, represents the sentiments of organized labor of that city.

There can be no possible excuse for a circular of this kind. It is unwarranted, libelous and a shameful perversion of facts that brands its authors and circulators as enemies of their state and slanderers of the community in which they earn their daily bread.

That the first statement above is untrue it is only necessary to state that right here in Polk county, alone, are thousands of acres of as fertile soil as the sun ever shown upon, which may be purchased at very reasonable prices, and which will sustain in affluence a population four times as great as at present.

If the Central Labor council desired to warn laborers that the demand for workmen here was not equal to the supply and to advise Eastern men to stay away from the state, thus giving an opportunity for home people to find employment, there could be exception to a circular setting forth this condition, but why the Portland labor body should take occasion to strike a blow at every industry of Oregon, and seek to prevent the development of the state by the preparation and circulation of the base slander above referred to, passes understanding.

"Straw votes" are well named. They are worth just about as much as the designation applied to them. Farmers in this country usually burn their straw.

"Corvallis after Booz Sellers," relates a headline in an upstate newspaper. Why, how's this? Does the lid tilt somewhat?

The little city of Willamina has caught the spirit of substantial improvement and will next season pave its main street want the live, the progressive, and the substantial citizen, and to all such Oregon offers unlimited possibilities, the Central Labor council, of Portland, to the contrary notwithstanding.

THE COLLAPSED BOOMLET.

Although his friends may deny it there is no question but that the La Follette presidential boom is fast slipping into oblivion. It is probable that the Wisconsin man's name may be presented to the Chicago convention but, unless there is a radical change of sentiment in the country, the present signs point unmistakably to the belief that it will be a forlorn hope.

All this points conclusively to the fact that President Taft's popularity is increasing and he is growing stronger with each attack made upon him by the ultra-progressive element in his own party and by the senseless attacks of Democracy in their present Congressional session, which is, in reality, but an attempt to manufacture political capital for their own benefit.

It will be decidedly cheering news to Dallas people to know that among the water plants inspected by a committee from the Hillsboro city council recently, that of Dallas made the best showing and called forth the commendation of the committee.

"There's nothing the matter with Oregon," declares Governor West in a statement condemning the circular issued by the Portland Central Labor council. True, Governor, but there's something the matter with the Labor council that certainly needs attention.

Well, now that company G, of Dallas, has its new armory completed and accepted by the state, the local citizen soldiery are looking for more worlds to conquer and are ready for a try at the Mexican revolutionists any time the powers that be, say so.

The baseless ranting of some alleged editors in support of a judicial recall and other freaks of legislation leads a dispassionate observer to the conclusion that the recall extended to matters aside from politics might be advantageous.

A Sudden Singe. Conrad Staffin is devoting the most of his time lately to explaining to his friends why his personal appearance has so suddenly changed. The last school report shows an attendance of 99 per cent, with no tardies. In the spelling contest last month the fifth grade won first place and the seventh and eighth grade won second. Alma Holdredge has finished a nice bird house. We now have four houses in the trees, two by Carl Alderman, one by Jack Simkins and one by Alma Holdredge. We are very busy now sowing cabbage and tomato seed. Each pupil is sowing a box which will have about 150 cabbage and 150 tomato plants. The plants will be taken care of at school and offered for sale to the farmers when ready for transplanting. We plan on having some 10,000 plants for sale. If those who are interested in our success will kindly let us know by person or mail how many plants they will want and Supervisor Parsons visited us last Tuesday and expressed himself as being highly pleased with the work he saw. Our school average in spelling for January was 97; in deportment 98. Our average for the year is 99.2. We are going to keep our average above 99 per cent. D. J. Crosby, specialist in industrial education in Washington, D. C., is inquiring into Spring Valley "Home Credit" plan. Inquiries have also been received from Minnesota, Iowa and South Dakota. Our teacher is keeping a daily record of each pupil. The record contains information on posture, health, industry, elements of leadership, willingness to cooperate, altruism, including politeness, home industrial work and scholarship. They are marked on a scale of 10 for perfect. The child may know daily just how he is graded on each of the above.
