Week In Society

(By Gladys Canter.)

ROUNDING OUT the first year of their existence as a club, a year that has been successful from every standpoint, the ladies of the Dallas Woman's club gave a cafeteria luncheon to their husbands and invited friends at the National Guard armory on Tuesday night, which was easily the event of the late summer season. The affair was given entirely complimentary to the men and was thoroughly enjoyed by them.
Promptly at six o'clock the great doors of the armory were opened and disclosed a garden of cut flowers, roses principally, evergreens and ferns which covered the walls and every available spot where flowers could be placed.
In each of the four corners of the spacious building were booths in charge of the different sections of the club, and each club member and her guest armed with knives, forks, spoons, plates, and cups and saucers, started from the fruit cocktail booth, which was in charge of the musical section, thence to the vegetable and meat booth, in charge of the Civic Improvement section, from there to the booth of salads which was presided over by the Literary section, and ended their sojourn at the booth of ices where they were waited upon by the representatives of the Young Women's section. This comprised the unique cafeteria dinner which was eaten to the strains of exquisite music by the Dallas band.
About 8 o'clock a delightful program was enacted, the May Pole dance being especially well liked and effusively applauded. It was presented by Misses Helen Casey, Dorothy Bennett, Marjorie Bennett, Ruth McCallon, Hallie Smith, Esther Gates, Marjorie Hart, Pearl Smith, Hilga Haaveth, Mable Whitehorn, Gladys Loughary, Helen Loughary, Muriel Grant, Maude Barnes, Eola Brown, Adah Campbell, who were dressed in white with pink and blue sashes and hair ribbons. At the end of the frolic each dancer scattered a shower of rose leaves over the audience.
Miss Opal McDevitt sang several very beautiful solos which as usual were highly appreciated.
Jack Eakin played a very beautiful violin solo.
Miss Lillian Fellows, the popular reader, read "The Governor and the Newsboy" in her charming and sympathetic manner.
Miss Ada Longnecker played several piano solos and was vigorously encored.
Shower For Miss Grant.
Miss Nada Scott was hostess Monday evening, June 3, at a miscellaneous shower for Miss Freda Grant who will become the bride of Simon Grindheim on June 12.
The handsome Scott residence was tastefully decorated with cut flowers and mingled with the bright dresses of the assembled guests made a beautiful vari-colored picture to the observer.
About 10 o'clock after a delightful lunch had been served by the hostess assisted by Miss Hazel Knight and Leone Williams, Miss Grant was told to sit on the floor, kypsy fashion, in the center of the spacious living room and the guests grouped about her. Here the many gifts presented by her girl friends were opened and the suspense of wondering what the next dainty tissue, ribbon tied parcel contained and who the giver, was enjoyed by all. Many exquisite pieces of silverware, all of which were of the same pattern, were among them.
In the dining room punch was served by Misses Scott, Knight and Williams.
The guests who joined in wishing Miss Grant the very happiest of wedded life were: Mesdames John M. Grant, George Scott, Z. M. Knight, Herbert Dunkleberger, Misses Roberta McCallon, Iva Stanley, Edna Morrison, Nora Robertson, Flora McCallon, Alice Grant, Freda Grant, Pearl Owings, Lillah McDaniel, Leone Williams, Hazel Knight, Almeda Fuller, Ava Coad, Nola Coad, Lillian Fellows, Alta Savage, Carrie Evans, Maggie Evans, Gladys Canter, Opal McDevitt, Sadie Meyers, Mrs. Lee Smith, Addie Boydston, Mable Grant, Gladys Smith, Effa Brown, Madge Gage, Winnie Launer, Freda Launer, Dessa Ridgeway, Ada Longnecker, Bertha Foster, Bessie Gooch, Edna Shore, Meryl Hall and Hallie Coad.
Philogians Entertain.
A great oak tree on the banks of the LaCreole river was the second trysting place of the Philogian Literary society, who entertained as their guests on Wednesday night, June 5, the senior class of 1912 of Dallas High.
After a delectable dinner the hostesses and guests grouped around a huge camp fire, first proclaiming the six girl seniors queen of the hour, and a short program was staged for their amusement. Miss Ruth Campbell gave an inimitable character reading of an old maid. Her ludicrous expressions and the serio-comic climaxes were so full of drollery and her looks so quaint that in spite of all the pathos in the reading, the audience was in a round of merriment until she had finished.
Miss O'Connell also gave a beautiful reading which differed materially from Miss Campbell's but was highly appreciated.
These dinners have become the most popular social diversion of the various affairs given by the different societies and those lucky enough to receive invitations are always more than willing to attend.

The guests Wednesday night were: Chaperons, Misses Jean Kuykendall, Cora Rossiter, Marguerite McCoskey, and Miss O'Connell. The members of the society and guests: Misses Marjorie Hart, Lola Ramsey, Susie Ramsey, Muriel Grant, Georgia Fleke, Marie Griffin, Lillian Fellows, Leonilla Smith, Olive Coulter, Birdie Odom, Claudia Brown, Pearl Phillips, Caroline Gohrke, Josephine Luebke, Pauline Coad, Dora Hayes, Georgia Ellis, Elva Lucas, Anna Farmer, Alice Miles, Lucile Hamilton, Louise Miles, Mable Grant, Ava Coad, Lena Skersies, Oda Blodgett, Dorothy Bennett, Marjorie Bennett, Ruth Littlepage, Ruth Campbell and Alfreda Garner.

Entertain for Miss Foster.
The cozy home of Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Rich was the scene of much festivity Wednesday night when Miss Lillian Fellows entertained for Bertha Estelle Foster, the fiancée of Harold Harris Rich.

The rooms were a veritable Cupid's bower, tiny red hearts being strung from the chandeliers to all four corners and covering the walls. Exquisite cut flowers and ferns were placed in appropriate places.

Games were played, a unique feature being a recipe shower. A dainty hand painted cook book was presented to Miss Foster by the hostess and each of the guests were asked to write their favorite recipe in it.

The bride-elect was the recipient of many beautiful gifts from her girl friends, of especial importance being the Haviland dinner set presented her by Mrs. I. F. Yoakum.

The invited guests were: Mesdames F. Rich, E. B. Fellows, Misses Nada Scott, Iva Stanley, Gladys Canter, Almeda Fuller, Hallie Coad, Nola Coad, Roberta McCallon, Flora McCallon, Madge Gage, Freda Grant, Alice Grant, Olive Coulter, Bertha Link of Airle, and Bertha Foster.

Entertain Club.
Mrs. Holt McDaniel entertained the "Good Times" club Thursday afternoon from 2:30 until 5, at her beautiful new home on Washington street. The afternoon was spent at conversation and needle work and late in the evening a dainty lunch was served by the hostess assisted by Miss Lillah McDaniel and Mrs. Willis Simonton.

Annual Monday Night.
The Philadelphia Literary society of Dallas college will give their annual program Monday night, June 10, at the college chapel. The program will begin promptly at 8:30 and a great surprise awaits the literary devotees. The young men have given not the slightest hint of what the program is to be, other than that it will be a grand surprise for everybody. The "Phillos" have been dormant this year and the fellows say they intend to show the people that they were not dead—only sleeping.

Miss Morrison Entertains.
Miss Edna Morrison was hostess at an evening affair May 31, for Miss Alice Uglow, who became the bride of George A. Wimer, June 5. Each guest brought Miss Uglow some little gift to commemorate the occasion. Many beautiful pieces of silverware and linen were received. A delicious lunch was served at a late hour by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Arthur Goode and Miss Iva Stanley. The guest list included: Mesdames Abel Uglow, F. H. Morrison, Warren

What Do You Know About Jesus Christ?

Do you know that such a man lived?
Do you know where he lived?
Do you know when he lived, and how long?
Do you know what he did while he lived?
If you don't you can easily find out by attending the Business Men's class or the Loyal Women's class at the Christian Church. They meet every Sunday morning at 10:00.

Better find out now while you have time. You'll be too busy after you're dead.
