WEEK IN SOCIETY.

(By Gladys Canter.)

SOCIETY courtesy this week to Hymen and his train. His coming has been heralded by dainty invitations, announcements, billows of satin ribbons, secrecy, and intense interest among his satellites. Interest in Dan Cupid and his brother in happiness never lags, and most of the young set tread upon their heels in an impetuous fashion, finally precipitating themselves into their very arms in a trend of quixotism equal to the celebrated Icarus.

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Addie Boydston to Roland F. Holman was the open sesame for a delightful affair given by Misses Caroline and Maggie Evans at their country home near Dallas. The wedding of Mr. Holman and Miss Boydston, which took place on Wednesday, was a large event, although only relatives and intimate friends were present, and was one of the most interesting of the month.

Holman-Boydston.

One of the prettiest, yet simplest, weddings of the month, was the uniting in marriage of Addie Boydston to Roland F. Holman, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Boydston on Wednesday, August 21, at 10 o'clock a. m.

The bridal couple stood under an archway of asters and ferns. Prof. D. M. Metzger officiated, using the impressive ring ceremony. Miss Norma Holman, sister of the groom, played the wedding march, and Miss Elva Lucas sang "When Song Is Sweet." Miss Mabel Boydston, of Independence, was maid of honor, and William Boydston was best man. The bride wore an elaborate gown of cream messaline, modified with rich cream lace and carried cream bride's roses. Miss Boydston, maid of honor, wore a dainty costume of blue silk, and carried shell pink sweet peas. About 70 relatives and intimate friends of the bride and groom were present.

Immediately after the wedding breakfast Mr. and Mrs. Holman left for Newport by auto, where they will spend several days, after which they will be at home in Dallas.

Mrs. U. S. Loughary will entertain for Mrs. C. H. Munger, of San Francisco, on Friday evening.

For Mrs. Donahoe.

Mrs. S. T. Donahoe, of Portland, was the recipient of much entertaining during her recent visit in Dallas. Mrs. S. B. Taylor entertained at luncheon and cards on Friday afternoon. Mrs. W. A. S. entertained at cards in honor of Mrs. Donahoe Wednesday evening.

Tuesday afternoon and evening about 20 of the social elite spent at the park, and had dinner in the evening, with Mrs. Donahoe as the honor guest, and on Wednesday Mrs. J. L. White and several ladies in for tea, to meet Mrs. Donahoe.

Picnic Party.

Mr. and Mrs. U. S. Loughary were host and hostess on Sunday, when they entertained at a dinner party Messrs. and Mesdames Milton Meyers, Harry Olinger, Dr. Willis Morse of Salem, and Mrs. George M. Munger of San Francisco, California. The beautiful oak at the Loughary country home spread a delightful shade for the tables and a huge camp fire threw a scarlet glow over the party late in the evening. The Salem party motored over in the early morning hours and returned in the cool of the evening.

For Miss Collins.

Mrs. Harry B. Cosper entertained for Miss Nellie Collins on Thursday afternoon at a lawn party. The guests were old friends and schoolmates of Miss Collins, most of whom attended the old LaCreole Academy. Reminiscences were discussed and old college pranks retold, which caused a great deal of merriment among the now dignified classmates. About 16 guests were present.

For Miss Boydston.

Monday afternoon from 2 till 5, the Misses Evans entertained at a miscellaneous shower for Miss Addie Boydston, who became the bride of Roland F. Holman on Wednesday.

Miss Ada Longnecker played several very beautiful piano selections. Miss Pearl Owens sang "Love Is a Rose," in a charming lyric soprano. About 25 guests were present.

Engagement Announced.

Rev. and Mrs. L. E. Belker, of Elliott, North Dakota, announce the engagement of their daughter, Alice Katherine, to Rev. George H. Stieglitz of Dallas. The wedding will take place Wednesday, September 11, at their home in Elliott. Rev. Stieglitz is pastor of the Evangelical church at Rickreall.

Plans Changed.

On account of the disagreeable weather the plans for the entertainment of the Thursday Afternoon club, on Thursday of last week, were changed, and the members met at the Soehren residence in town.

At Dinner.

Mrs. Scott Loughary had as her guests on Tuesday, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Loughary of Iowa, an uncle of Mr. Loughary, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Loughary of Monmouth.

Thursday Afternoon Club.

Mrs. Willis Simonton, 215 Maple street, will entertain the Thursday Afternoon club on Thursday of next week.

Silver Tea.

Mrs. B. F. Butler entertained at a Silver Tea on Tuesday of last week. About 25 guests called. Mrs. Butler was assisted by Mrs. H. G. Campbell.

Society Personals.

Miss Nada Scott returned from a two-weeks' visit at Ona and Newport, Tuesday evening.

Mrs. S. T. Donahoe, the house guest of Mrs. L. D. Brown, returned to her home in Portland Saturday.

Mrs. Nancy Brown and Miss Effa are living with the Lloyd Soehrens at Hillier during the summer months.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Kaerth returned the first of the week from a several weeks' visit at Newport and Portland.

Mrs. T. J. Hayter, Mrs. Alice Dempsey and Miss Frances Dempsey returned from a few weeks' visit at Newport Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Fuller left Wednesday for a several weeks' sojourn in the mountains. They left by auto, and will camp along at different places until they reach their destination.

TALE OF AN AWFUL "SCENT."

Things Happen When Ammonia Tank Breaks in Meat Market.

"Help! Help!"

"Oh! This is a-u-w-fu-ly!"

"My stars! This will take every bit of the frizz out of my hair."

(This from the bookkeeper.)

No, Gwendolin, this isn't a lovers' quarrel, nor is it a call for the patrol to tote off the guilty m-ur-r-der-er.

This is a tale of a scent. A test, sneaky, nose scent that reminds one of the many happy hours spent behind the old slaughter pen, or of making delicious mud pies near the old pigsty when you were young and enjoyed life.

This scent was the worse scent ever. Three times worse than "some scent," and triple the strength of "terrible scent."

This one caused the habitants of the perfume factory which manufactured this particular brand to adjoin to the sidewalk, there to eye each other in tearful sympathy and to wonder if the man behind had found the sack in time to save himself from asphyxiation. In plain English, this odoriferous scent was caused by the bursting of the ammonia tanks of the Dallas Meat company on Wednesday morning, and sacks and everything else available were pushed into cracks to keep the fumes from the salesroom.

Nothing could be done to stop the deadly gas until the pipes were emptied, and the day was pleasantly spiced by the force with handkerchiefs tied over their noses.

THE "OUT TO WIN" CLUB MEETS

Prohl Club Holds Interesting Meeting and Plans Work.

One of the jolliest meetings of the "Out to Win" Prohibition club was held at the Sunday school room of the Evangelical church on August 10.

Routine work was taken up, and disposed of the first thing, and G. H. Stieglitz and C. A. Wells were admitted to membership. The president appointed every member a committee of one to solicit new members.

Several subjects were discussed, in which everyone present took a keen interest. One of which was woman suffrage.

The next meeting will be held at the same place Friday, August 23, at 8 o'clock p. m. Organizer D. H. Gill, of Iowa, who has been working in Polk county in the interest of the Prohibition party, will make an address.

Comfort for Babies

How thankful I am for this electric fan. I don't know how baby would get along during this hot spell without it. And just think—all this comfort for only three or four cents a day.

Its breeze is better than a summer breeze—isn't so dusty, and the strength can be regulated at will. In addition to these advantages, the breeze from a is swung to and fro, thus keeping the air in the whole room in good circulation. That's why it is the best for babies—it doesn't disturb their sleep.

What's three or four cents a day expense compared to baby's health and comfort?

Let us show you the G-E 8-inch Oscillating Fan—the leader of electric fans.
