"Their Yesterdays" is a love story in which there is sentiment, pathos, and realism. It exalts life and love, honors the home, and supremely glorifies the wife and mother. It is a delightfully wholesome book.

FALLS CITY MILL ACTIVITY

Lumber Company Makes Surveys For Logging Bonds.

The work of removing Mill Two to Falls City has been resumed; a survey has been made up Derry creek canyon for a logging road; a survey is now being made for the railroad from the Big Lucklamute to Falls City; men have been in the woods seeking a route for a logging road from the Teal creek timber to Falls City; all these moves show the purpose of the Falls City Lumber company to establish a vast lumber enterprise in this city. It is not surprising that other towns would like to grab this grand prize, but this "little frontier mountain town" has the winning advantage of nearness to the raw material, as well as all the advantages for such enterprise claimed by other towns. Watch Falls City grow.—Falls City News.

Corrects Statement.

C. M. Bailey, of Bridgeport, wishes to correct a statement published in the Bridgeport items of last week in which it was stated that several hop pickers of the Bailey hop yard had left for their homes on account of Indians employed in the yard who had become intoxicated and tried to settle a dispute with knives. Mr. Bailey says the statement is a mistake, and that all of his pickers remained with him until he finished and that there were no drunken Indians in the yard at any time during the picking season.

Value of Careful Shucking.

John Boguska brought his thrasher into Monmouth Tuesday and took it out home next day, having cleaned up all the threshing in the Lucklamute country. In speaking of the damage sustained by the rains, Mr. Boguska said that it was much less than expected, and that one particular field of oats, where the shocks had been nicely capped, was so well preserved that the grain brought first-class price.—Monmouth Herald.

Cuts Ankle Badly.

Edward Graves, a surveyor employed with Fred Sauer, cut his foot with an ax and split the ankle bone on Friday. Mr. Graves was walking the ax which slipped and crushed down full force upon his ankle, cutting the flesh open for several inches and entering the bone.
