

ROYAL BAKING POWDER ABSOLUTELY PURE

Cooking under modern methods and conveniences is made so attractive the whole family is becoming interested.

"These biscuits are delicious; this cake is excellent," says the father. "I made them," says the daughter, and both father and daughter beam with pleasure.

Royal Baking Powder has made home baking a success, a pleasure and a profit, and the best cooking today the world over is done with its aid.

Chas. Morris was chosen as official watch inspector recently for the Southern Pacific Railway company. This company requires the critical examination of timepieces carried by employees so that the appointment of Mr. Morris carries with it a large credit of efficiency.

Mrs. Wm. Herzog returned Wednesday evening from Portland where she went two weeks ago to care for her sister who was sick. Mrs. H. was so unfortunate as to be taken ill while there and was just able to return this week. Mr. Herzog was with his wife at Portland Sunday, returning home on Monday.

Chas. Boydston has been here from Portland during a portion of the week after three months' absence. He is now employed as fireman on the freight division between Portland and Junction City with the Southern Pacific and is well pleased with his work. He held a similar position here when he was transferred by the company. He is a Dallas boy and friends took occasion to congratulate him while here.

Judge Coad has decided to re-enter the practice of law at the expiration of his term as county judge, the first Monday in January. The judge has filled the position for eight years and his place is to be filled by J. B. Teal, the Republican candidate elected on Tuesday. Mr. Coad was in the practice of law in Dallas from 1900 to 1904 with the firm of Butler & Coad, is a pioneer of the county, and with his wide acquaintance and knowledge gained from association with the various duties of the judge's office, should bring him a generous clientele.

SMART AND DULL GET MIXED

Confusion Results at Express Office

With Two Packages Reposing in two corners of the local Wells-Fargo express office the other day were two packages, one addressed to "Smart" and the other to "Dull." It was a cloudy day at the office and considerable difficulty was experienced by the express people in telling the smart from the dull one. Now, if Mr. Smart wasn't too dull it is probable that he called for his package in due time, while if Dull was smart he might have hiked up to the office early and glommed his goods. Perhaps Mr. Smart was busy, and couldn't get away, so gave Dull an order for his package, in which case, of course, Smart's package would go to Dull which ought to help the latter some. But if Smart got Dull to pull off a stunt like that he should be smart enough to know that the express agent wouldn't be so dull as to assent to it. The latter would be smart enough to know that Dull had no business with Smart, and that Smart was too smart to get Dull to get smart with Smart's goods. But Dull might have been too smart to imagine that the agent was dull enough to give the Smart's package, even if Smart thought he was smart enough to tackle it, so there you are. We confess that we are not smart enough to tell how dull this entire article may appear.

VICTORY FAILS TO ENTUSE

Wilson Victory Received in Silence; Different From Old Days.

A notable exception to the old-time method of celebrating political victories attracted the notice of the older voters. In days gone by victories were always followed by torch-light processions, blasts from the town band, and sometimes eggs from the losing side. Not so in this age. Following the announcement of the victory of Wilson and Marshall there was not enough noise to drown the racket made by a mouth-organ in E flat, double piano. Now and then, on Wednesday night, some of the boys from Sheridan, Polk, or Popcorn "came over" to Dallas for a short barbecue or like refreshments, but aside from an "oh-be-joyful" squeak, there was no demonstration worthy of mention.

Instruction Needed.

Judges and clerks of election are of the opinion that there is plenty of improvement in store for the voters of Oregon as to the manner of marking the ballot to have it counted according to the intentions of the voter. Those who assisted in the official count found many ballots that were more of a Japanese puzzle than a correct diagram of the voter's intentions.

New Suit Filed.

Department No. 2, of the Polk County Circuit court: National Credit association to C. E. Ireland, action for money, plaintiff demands judgment in the sum of $321.16, attorney's fees taxed at $100 and costs and disbursements of suit. Oliver M. Hickey, attorney for plaintiff.

ONLY 38 SHOPPING DAYS UNTIL CHRISTMAS

IT is not too early to say a word concerning our splendid Holiday line, which is now arriving. As many of our customers doubtless know, we sold out our entire Christmas stock last year. The line this year will be entirely new.

We have raked the markets of New York and Chicago for the very latest novelties, and customers buying here may be sure that their gifts will be absolutely new and exclusive.

We cannot keep growing enthusiastic over our beautiful Christmas stock, every time we think about it, and we know you will feel the same way when it is opened for your inspection. Keep us in mind for your Holiday shopping. It will pay you.

This week we are showing a handsome line of hand-colored Thanksgiving Postcards.

Window Lighting Profits Mean

Extra Dividends

Extra dividends come from business secured at night. Your store may be closed, but well trimmed windows white lighted with tungsten lamps are silent salesmen that sell the goods.

Every person who passes a business establishment at night is a prospective customer. People are unconsciously attracted by well lighted store windows. Electric window lighting displays the goods as no other method can.

You want to turn every prospective customer into a first purchaser. Good window lighting will do it. Window lighting with tungsten lamps and proper reflectors is the best.

Our lighting engineers will plan a scientific installation for you. Their advice costs nothing. They are employed to get efficient and economical results for our patrons. Use their ability.
