

Cold, damp weather is bad for those subject to rheumatism. It chills the blood and brings on an attack. Use

Ballard's Snow Liniment

It is a Powerful Preventive, as Well as a Speedy Cure

Rub it in on the parts affected whenever the conditions seem to indicate a spell of this painful ailment; it will warm the joints and ward off the trouble. If the disorder has already commenced, the treatment is the same, the rubbing helps the liniment to penetrate to the seat of pain. The relief is prompt and very satisfactory; the aching joints are relieved, the muscles relaxed so that the sufferer feels again the strength and suppleness of youth.

For fresh wounds of all kinds, it is a wonderful remedy. Try it for cuts, burns, bruises, sores, galls, chafed spots, barbed wire cuts, sprains, swellings, frost bites. It cures quickly and completely.

Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per Bottle.

President-Elect Wilson on Way to Polls and Voting

Photos copyright, 1912, by American Press Association.

GOVERNOR WOODROW WILSON, now president elect, voted at his home town, Princeton, N. J. Just after he had cast his ballot, which the governor took only a few minutes to mark, he faced the flashlight, with the above result. On his way to the polls, accompanied by his political secretary and a friend, he was snapped, and the result is also shown.

DAMES AND DAUGHTERS.

Miss Adeline M. Walker of New York is said to be the only woman gem expert in this country.

Maude Adams began her dramatic career when she joined E. H. Sothern's company. She was sixteen then. Her real name is Kishadden. She is forty years of age.

Mrs. Charles Nechter, one of the most heavily insured women in the United States, carrying $1,200,000, has made her fortune in Chicago real estate and in the department store business.

Miss Collamore, a young Frenchwoman, is the most accomplished wine taster in the world, though she is a teetotaler. The great wine firms employ her for regular work and frequently for special duty, and so wonderful is her gift that she earns about $25,000 a year.

The Rev. Antoinette Louise Blackwell, the first woman to become a minister in this country, having been ordained in the Congregational church in 1853, though at the age of eighty-seven, preaches once a month in All Souls' church at Elizabeth, N. J. She is now a Unitarian.

The Royal Box.

The German emperor's expenditure on luxuries is said to run to $20,000 per annum. On his ordinary clothes the kaiser's expenditure is by no means extravagant.

King George of England has for many years past been president of the National Pigeon Flying club, in the nineties, as Duke of York, he scored several notable successes.

The period of mourning for the late emperor of Japan has been fixed by the new sovereign at fifteen months, at the end of which time the coronation ceremonies will take place.

The king of Spain spends a good deal of money on dress. When shooting he wears shirts made of the finest silk, which cost about $35 apiece, and he buys about three dozen of them in a year. He gets a lot of his clothes made in London.

Fashion Frills.

Have you ever noticed how nice looking and intelligent the women are who have taken to wearing sensible hosiery on their ankles? Of course you have!—Chicago News.

The fashion authorities reverse themselves so frequently that quite likely by Jan. 1 the girls will be wearing drapery again instead of clingery.—Ohio State Journal.

Marie Tempest tells the papers that Paris dressmakers tell her that skirts will be tighter this year. But perhaps Marie doesn't understand French very well.

One writer says good looks don't take a girl very far. Maybe not, but they help a lot.—New York American.

A Philadelphia physician claims to have discovered the elixir of life. Lily Han Russell, Sarah Bernhardt and Lily Langtry discovered it years ago.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

The Boston judge that decided a divorced woman has no right to style herself "Miss" and thereby deceive men doubtless meant well, but the lady can deceive just as effectively when she calls herself "Mrs."—New York World.

Wearing the Trousers.

Recent investigation brings out the fact that men began only 100 years ago to wear trousers. Some of the women have been wearing them ever since the dawn of civilization.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Recent investigations bring to light the fact that it is only during the last 100 years that men have been wearing trousers. From present styles women may be following their example in another century.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

English Etchings.

Londoners pay $5,000,000 every week in rent.

Every twelve months 53,000 prisoners in London are convicted of drunkenness.

There are clubs in London of which the members are solely gentlemen's servants.

London received $2,365 last year from the sale of waste paper picked up in the streets.

Aerial Flights.

An aeroplane costs less to buy than an automobile, but it costs more to keep it up. And if you fall to keep it up that costs most of all.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

The flight of a French aviator across France with but three stops, covering the distance of 570 miles in a single day, is better than a thousand spectacular exhibitions.—New York World.

Sporting Notes.

Not since the days of Joe Patchen has the turf had a pacer as popular as The Eel.

Joe Birmingham has been signed as manager of the Cleveland baseball club, and it is certain that he will be given hearty support by his players and the fans of the Forest City.

Don Lippincott has followed in the footsteps of his Olympic teammate, Ted Meredith, and has entered the University of Pennsylvania, where he will come out for the track team.

Get some good blood into the herd through a first class male. Then raise the best heifer calves from the best cows. This is a practical and cheap way to perpetuate the best blood in the herd and to eventually build a profit making herd.

A housekeeper who mixes brains with her work reports to the writer that a very serviceable mop may be made by taking sections of an old rope hammock of suitable lengths. She finds that such a mop is tough and stands the wear and tear.

The motorcycle is being used by a number of farmers these days not for pleasure purposes chiefly, but for business. Small quantities of produce, such as cream, poultry and butter, can be carried to town with them and quick trips made for repairs or the transaction of other business.

A rich deposit of zinc, a metal which is produced in very limited quantities in the United States, has lately been discovered near Bartlesville, Okla. Samples of the ore which appears in a vein four feet thick show 7 per cent zinc. The deposit is thought to underlie some 200 acres.

It is pretty safe to assume that the fellow who comes along offering prospective victims something for nothing is engaged in this very game and is making money at it. These chaps are most of them old at the game, and it is a pretty good idea to pass them by and earn money in some more rosy way.

An excellent as well as inexpensive method of rendering one's system more immune to colds is that of the cold morning bath, followed by a vigorous rubdown with a rough towel. If the vitality is low and the circulation rather poor, one should start with tepid water and gradually use colder water as one becomes accustomed to it.

A captain in the British army tells of a strange plant found in the Sahara desert, called by the Arabs "acheb." Its peculiar trait is that it springs up only in a season when rain falls in the desert. The seed seems never to die and will germinate after lying dormant for many years. The plant contains much nourishment and is eaten with relish by camels.

The need of getting machinery of standard and reliable makes was nicely shown in the exploding of a silage cutter, an account of which the writer came across the other day. For some reason not known the machine burst into two score pieces, none of which hit either men or horses, fortunately. Similar defects due to cheap construction are often responsible for the bursting of cream separators.

All records for milk and butter production bid fair to be broken by Creswell Vale, a Holstein cow owned by Earl Dpton of Brockton, Mass. Since Nov. 12, 1911, she has given 26,900 pounds of milk, having a money value of $1,200. In one month she gave 3,200 pounds of milk, while her best record for a day was 108 pounds of milk. If she continues at the present rate to the end of the year it is thought that her milk yield will total 30,000 pounds or better.

BIDDY'S ON THE TOP PERCH.

The old farm hen now on the top perch hops.

In Uncle Sam's dominion she's the leader in fine crops.

She's not so very stylish, but she gets there just the same.

And you bet she's the top liner in the nation's Hall of Fame!

But, say, how did old Biddy get on that perch so high?

I'm sure way back in granddaddy's time she wasn't half so spry.

She was a speckled dunghill with long feathers on her leg.

She was so busy scratching lice she seldom laid an egg.

Now, now, my friend, don't bother us to speak about the past.

Where fossils love to linger with their feet in ruts stuck fast!

That hen upon the pinnacle, that hen is scientific.

She's built by brains of the best strains from Atlantic to Pacific.

Skilled chemists balance her fine feeds between protein and fats.

She doesn't roost now in the trees, to be scared by owls and bats.

But she lives now in a palace that is also scientific.

And so, of course, she beats the band from Atlantic to Pacific.

She lays eggs by the carload, by the million and the billion.

And before another census she will cackle over a trillion.

She's hatching fries so rapidly, if we feed her well and trust,

She'll serve us so much fancy meat the big best trust will lust.

C. M. BARNITZ.

KURIO'S FROM KORRESPONDENTS

Q. I have noticed two new breeds mentioned in the journals. The White Sherwoods and White Wonders. Please describe. A. These are old cross breeds, bred over ten years. The Sherwood is a cross of White Leghorn male and Light Brahma hen and the Wonder is a cross of White Wyandotte male and Light Brahma hen.

Q. Which eats more, a pullet or a three-year-old hen, and what difference is there in egg production? A. A three-year-old hen eats more and lays 40 per cent less eggs than in her pullet year.

Q. Which hawk is most destructive to poultry? Does the screech owl catch chickens? A. The Cooper's hawk. The screech owl is not a poultry fiend, but feeds on insects, mice, toads, lizards, chipmunks, wood rats and moles. It only catches birds when other food is scarce.

Q. Do you really think china nest eggs are of any benefit? A. Yes. A hen prefers a nest where there is a nest egg and we have known Biddy to transfer all the nest eggs to one nest.

A cat hesitates to sleep on a cushion where he has not slept before and a hen is not partial to a new unused nest. Hens often wait for a chance to lay in a certain nest, often fight for it, and the placing of a nest egg in a nest nearby seems to draw and satisfy Biddy and she settles down on it in content. But, ask the hen.

FEATHERS AND EGGSHELLS.

An egg claimed to be 1900 years old has been discovered in the ruins of Mountcutium. It now remains for some newspaper reporter to add that the egg was set and hatched out by a sea serpent and a four legged chick and the story will be complete.

Those who kick at the price of eggs in this country should go to China. In the spring months eggs sell there for 18 to 20 cents a hundred.

A Leghorn ranch near Petaluma, Cal., keeps 10,000 layers, which in the spring months laid over 5,000 eggs daily. Petaluma, with her millions of hens that lay the golden egg, is the poultry metropolis of the world, and those towns that seem down and out because they lack industries should write the Petaluma board of trade for particulars on how to reach the top perch.

A Pennsylvania woman advises that ducklings should not be turned out till the honeybees are through work for the day lest the quacks swallow the bees and get stung. We always thought the busy bee improved each shining hour. Will our expert beekeepers please inform us at once of the exact hour when the little honey bird knocks off so we may inform our quack promoters?

It is now claimed that we lose $45,000,000 by our unskillful methods of handling poultry and eggs and of course, as usual, the farmer gets most of the blame, but of course, as usual, he takes it good naturedly and considers the source.

The advice to disinfect with liberal applications of sulphuric and carbolic acids is good, for instance, in an epidemic of genuine cholera, but we advise our readers to avoid such dangerous poisons. We have yet to see microbes that wouldn't stink to death in old time hot, fresh whitewash when rightly mixed and applied. It's cheap, kills germs, bugs and smells and makes all sweet, white and light.

Our school teachers aren't all running off to get married after all. Miss Nan Johnson and Miss Kate Robinson have eloped from Pennsylvania to go into the chicken business near Hartford, Conn. Good luck, girls; may you prosper and live happy ever after.

A hen does not dust just to get rid of lice. The fine earth cools and cleanses her skin. They roll and wallow and tumble in the cool earth with as much enjoyment as the boy who splashes in the old swimmin' hole.

The Cambridge School of agriculture, England, is experimenting on hens to make them lay red shelled eggs. Wouldn't it, the English demand, be better for them to experiment along practical lines so that England would not have to depend on other nations for nearly all her poultry products?

Patience—Is she doing anything to try and reduce her weight? Patience—Oh, yes, she's lying about it.—Yonkers Statesman.

Up spake the judge: "Go free, my son. You are forgiven for your crime. For he was charged with slaying one Who sang 'The Good Old Summer Time.'"

—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Earnest Curate—Which is your favorite text? Coquette—I like that one about being all things to all men.—Judge.
