

Electricity For Emergency and Auxiliary Heating

Science has not yet perfected electric heating so that it can be relied upon economically for complete house warming.

Recent marked reductions in the prices of electric radiators, however, have made them exceedingly desirable for emergency and auxiliary purposes.

For quick heat in bathroom, sick room, nursery—any place in the house—at times when the house heating system is working at low efficiency, electric radiators are both economical and superior to anything else.

On very cold days and nights Electric Radiators can be used for auxiliary purposes with splendid results.

Certain business places, such as meat markets, can use electric radiators to warm certain rooms or compartments without unduly heating the whole establishment.

Electric radiators may be obtained at prices ranging from $5.00 to $10.00. They are safe, efficient, simple, odorless, easily portable. Attach to any lamp socket. The cost to operate is from 5 to 10 cents an hour, according to size.

Purchase from your electrical supply dealer or communicate with our New Business Department.

FORBID PARENTS TO ASSIST

CHILDREN MUST DO WORK IN INDIVIDUAL CONTEST.

State Superintendent Alderman Offers Pertinent Suggestions to Parents and Children Interested.

In a circular issued from the State Superintendent's office, he says:

"Last year, as near as we can get at it, there were about 60,000 children engaged in making or raising something with which to compete for prizes in the industrial contest. That was only a little start in the work, but it was a great stimulus to future effort. As a result of the inspiration gained last year we hope to have practically every one of the 125,000 school children of the state engaged in some phase of the work this year. To those who did not get interested last year, and are not familiar with the rules of the contest, we wish to say that they are very simple. The most important one is that the children must do the work themselves and that the parent or guardian will be required to sign a statement to that effect. In raising garden, some one else may plow the ground and harrow it, but the child must do the rest—planting, cultivating, harvesting etc. In raising poultry the child does not have to own the parent flock, but must set the eggs and feed and care for the chickens they exhibit.

"One of the main objects of these contests is to get the boys and girls interested in doing something. To teach them to do something practical, something worth while, something by which they can earn a living when they grow up to manhood and womanhood. And the only way to learn how to do something is to do that thing with your own hands. If you show something that some one else has raised, or made, you are cheating yourself out of the most valuable part of the contest—the experience gained by doing it yourself.

"Not only that, but in showing something that is not the product of his own effort he is practicing deception, cultivating dishonesty and laying the foundation for a life of dishonor and trouble. He may be successful in deceiving others. No one but himself and the members of his own family may ever know that he has cheated, but that is enough. In doing what he knows is not right, he loses respect for himself, and that is a long step in the wrong direction. When a person loses respect for himself he soon loses the confidence and respect of others. To try self he respect, and it follows as the day follows night that to no other man than can be false." Every child should early in life get this principle firmly fixed in his mind, and through life never depart from it.

"Parents, don't think you are favoring your child by giving him something to take to the fair to win a prize with, for you are not. On the other hand, you are doing him an absolute injustice. You are cheating him out of the valuable experience of learning how to do something, and at the same time educating him to be dishonest. Character building is the most important part of the early education of the child, and the greatest value in these industrial contests is along that line—forming in the child habits of industry, economy, system, honesty, self-reliance and all of the traits that go to make up the good citizen.

"There will be many valuable prizes for the children at the State Fair again next year, but none of them will be worth as much as a clear conscience and the experience gained by raising or making something with which to win the prizes."

Oklahoma People Visit Dallas.

Twelve emigrants from Oklahoma arrived Sunday to inspect land in the vicinity of Dallas and were quartered at the Gail Sunday night.

The party was composed of several families who had heard of the advantages of Oregon, and were desirous of occupying the winds and storms of the southern country. They came to the valley at an inopportune time, while the country is in the midst of a stormy period that seldom visits this section, yet they were determined to remain until a good view of the country could be obtained, and will no doubt remain in this section of the state.

MAY REVIVE BASE BALL

Six-Team League Proposed, to Include Dallas; Players Must Be Actual Residents.

According to reports from McMinnville there is a chance for the organization of a baseball league, including in the list of cities on the route, Hillsboro, Forest Grove, Cornelius, McMinnville, Sheridan and Dallas. So far nothing has been done at this place toward getting in the proposition, none of the baseballists having been approached, but at Hillsboro and McMinnville the organization has reached the preliminary stage. In speaking of the movement a Hillsboro paper says:

"W. R. Adams, of McMinnville, was in Hillsboro Wednesday investigating the prospects for the organization of a baseball league for the coming season. Mr. Adams believes the inauguration of electrical service by the Southern Pacific has an important bearing upon the success of the movement, and that there is no reason why a league which shall include Hillsboro, Forest Grove, Cornelius, McMinnville, Sheridan and Dallas should not be organized and be a success. His plans include confining the personnel of the clubs to actual residents of the towns, and says that the importation of outside players heretofore has caused great dissatisfaction in McMinnville. A meeting will be held at McMinnville Feb. 15, at which it is planned to have Fielder Jones present to make suggestions.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer one Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.
